Scholarship Established

A nursing scholarship has been established in the name of long time Hicksville resident Marilyn A. Connolly, who passed away June 1 after a four-year battle with cancer.

Mrs. Connolly served as a substitute nurse with the Hicksville School District for the past seven years. Prior to that she served as a nurse for Dr. Russel S. Burdige, a pediatrician in Hicksville for 20 years.

In her memory, the Connolly family has established a $1,000 scholarship to be awarded this June to a Hicksville High School graduate whose career goal is nursing.

Mrs. Connolly, who was a registered nurse graduate of St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, raised five children with her husband, Gerard. All are Hicksville High School graduates: Michaela (Jacobson), Glenn, Gerard P., Gerilyn (Borteous) and Gregory. Mr. Connolly has been a Republican Committeeman since 1965.

The family is currently accepting donations toward the scholarship. Checks can be made payable to the Marilyn A. Connolly Nursing Scholarship and Hospice Fund, and sent to 14 Bobwhite La., Hicksville, NY 11801.

All monies exceeding the goal of the $1,000 scholarship will be donated in Mrs. Connolly's name to North Shore University Hospital, which is building a 10-story Cancer Pavilion.

Task Force Solicits Views on Parkland

In an effort to evaluate Hicksville parkland and determine how it might meet the community's recreational needs, the Park District Task Force and the Town of Oyster Bay are mailing questionnaires to every resident.

The surveys, which were sent out last week, inquire about the need for certain facilities such as a community pool, football, lacrosse, baseball and softball fields, checker/chess tables, handball courts, picnic tables and a walking/jogging track.

Also, the questionnaire asks whether a park should be open to Hicksville residents only and supported by their taxes, or open to all Town of Oyster Bay residents and supported by their taxes.

Because of opposition expressed in March to the task force's proposal to use the Dutch Lane School fields during non-school hours, the survey also asks residents whether they feel available school property should be used for non-school recreational purposes.

Marc Herbst, assistant to town supervisor Angelo Delligatti, stressed that if any school land was to be used as a park, it would first have to receive the approval of the Hicksville School Board.

The advisory task force, appointed by Mr. Delligatti, is comprised of individuals who are active in various Hicksville organizations, such as athletics, business, civic affairs education, religious, senior citizens, service groups and youth. Resident Tony Previte is the chairman of the task force.

"I am extremely pleased by the commitment and dedication the members of the task force have already demonstrated," said Mr. Delligatti in a letter accompanying the questionnaire. "They are making diligent efforts to learn what the residents of Hicksville desire in recreational facilities."

Mr. Herbst said the task force will meet after the results are tallied and discuss which direction to take. He added that the task force acts as an advisory board and is not a decision-making body. All decisions are made by the town board.

Deadline for submitting the survey is June 30, 1989.

Residents Say Asphalt Plant Causes Health Problems

By Rita Langdon

Residents living near Twin County Recycling Corp. asphalt plant claim that they are suffering health problems due to noxious odors coming from the site.

However, company officials said that the smell is not coming from their business.

At a town mandated meeting last week between Hicksville residents and Twin County Recycling, Richard Petrarca, quality control engineer for the company, said that there had been complaints about odor long before the plant began its operation. He added, "Is there a slight possibility that we are not the culprit?"

But residents said that it wasn't until Twin County began its asphalt operation in 1983 that the fumes were spreading throughout the neighborhood.

Twin County's owner, Nicholas Lizza, said that if the odor is coming from his business, he will try to pinpoint the origin and correct the problem. He noted that his company which is located on West John Street, has never received a violation for emitting odors.

Health problems that some of the residents cited included difficulty with breathing, sore throats and irritated eyes. People with allergies and asthma noted that their conditions have worsened.

Homeowners also said that they cannot keep their windows open because of the odor.

"I can't sleep at night with my windows open because at 7 a.m. the smell penetrates my bedroom and I awaken with headache," said Arthur Uhllich, a resident of West Nicholas Street.

A Myers Avenue homeowner said, "Either put a dome over your plant or give us all gas masks."

Many of the people said they are "cheated" out of spending time in their yards because the fumes and dust are overwhelming. Also, many residents said they are "embarrassed" to have company visit.

"We can't entertain friends during the nice spring and summer days because the smell of asphalt makes it impossible to sit outside," said David Staton, a 27-year resident. He added, "How would you explain to your 4-year-old daughter or granddaughter why her eyes get irritated and she coughs when she rides her bike in front of her house?"

Some parents said that they are especially concerned with the health of their children. One West Nicholas Street resident said she is constantly bringing her children to the doctor for treatment of upper respiratory infections and stomach pains.

In addition to health problems, residents also said that their patio furniture, homes and cars are covered with dust and an oily film. One woman said that she cannot hang her laundry on the clothesline to dry because of the dust and dirt.

Twin County officials said that they have been taking dust control measures which include continuous water spraying and periodic spraying with dust control products.

Those homeowners who have pools said that can't use them because of the grime that accumulates on the water and sides of the pool.

The concrete piles that many of the residents refer to as "Mount Saint Hicksville" are considered an eyesore. Resident Andrew Jachniewicz asked Twin County to "do something about that pile of rubbish. It's a sore point of our community."

The heights of the piles which include such items as concrete, stone and dirt, should not exceed 25 feet, according to the guidelines of a special use permit issued to Twin County in 1982 by the Town of Oyster Bay.

Town Planning and Development Commissioner, Richard Blankfein, who acted as moderator at the meeting, but was asked to address a question regarding the piles, said, "Every time we've gone out to measure, you've been above the height."

However, the attorney for Mr. Lizza noted that after Twin County was notified of the violation, they reduced the height of the pile within the allotted time frame set by the town.

During the course of the meeting, some residents disputed one of Mr. Petrarca's statement, and half of the more than 200 members in the audience walked out.

The meeting, which was held at Town Hall in Oyster Bay, met a requirement set by the town board for the plant owners to meet with residents on the first Tuesday in June, every three years. Twin County's special use permit expires in 1992, and the residents urged the town not to renew it. They also said that Twin County should not operate at its West John Street facility because it is surrounded by a residential community.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is reviewing independently conducted tests for pollutants at the plant. Mr. Petrarca added that although the tests were conducted by Twin County, the EPA supervised the tests.

Twin County has established a hotline for residents who are having a problem stemming from plant operations. The hotline, whose phone number is 932-1000, is open Monday through Friday.

Youth Council Bestows Community Service Awards

The Leisure Line

Ed Walsh

Cleanliness Definitely Is Next to Leisureliness

Spring fever gotcha? Sure, I can tell by the way you throw yourself into those vernal household chores, making our community safe from roving dustballs. How many times have you called "Mr. Clean" for some friendly advice to halt the advance of endless tasks?

Unlike other householders, I don't panic when the annual spring spectacular strikes fear into the hearts of clean-crazy worrywarts. Like old Walt Whitman, I just pluck a blade of grass and contemplate my navel, ignoring the bellybutton lint. What got me started on this lampooning of spring ritual (dubbed "The Great American Cleanup") was an article by psychologist Paul Chance in a recent Psychology Today magazine. He wrote:

"I've finally hit on the ideal Christmas present for a man to get his wife: Do half of all the housework for an entire week, beginning the day after Christmas. What wife wouldn't be pleased, to say nothing of agog, at such a gift? Of course, some fanatics will say men should do half of the housework all the time."

Thus spoke the prophet Paul, unnerving me.

Ever since then, a war of words has been raging in my mind. Taking a chance on alienating the magazine's female readers, Chance presses on to explain his household labor theory. While husbands and wives want an equitable division of chores, they have different ideas about what that means.

Dirt is Not A Dirty Word

Explains Chance: A man measures by a different sort of yardstick. He is willing to share equally in the chores, but he doesn't want to spend a lot of time doing them. "This suggests," write the researchers, "that (men) may desire lower standards of housekeeping than their wives."

It means that the reputed laziness of husbands is a misjudgment. We husbands are not lazy; we merely have a higher tolerance for dirt, disorder and general unemptiness in household affairs. A home that the average woman wouldn't use to cage a dead rat is, to the average man, the ideal of homey comfort.

There is, I believe, something that might be called a cleaning threshold. This is the point of slovenliness at which an individual feels compelled to make an assault on dirt and disorder in his or her immediate surroundings. The cleaning threshold varies widely within the sexes, but on average, men have a higher threshold than women. Men, farm-minded creatures that they are, are perfectly willing to do half of whatever is necessary around the house. They just have a different idea of what is necessary.

On a superb spring morning with golf balls arcing into the sunshine, and tennis rackets swinging wildly like a Benny Goodman band, a man's cleaning threshold drops dramatically. The call of the wild becomes irresistible. Let the crabgrass grow. Let the dust puppies rampage through the house. It's man's ordained duty to be somewhere else, even if it's nowhere near where the deer and the antelope play.

At that moment of truth, every man is inspired by a higher power to proclaim in stentorian voice for the whole neighborhood to hear: "Cleanliness is next to leisureliness. So let dirt wait its turn."

What accounts for this difference in the sexes faced with the inevitability of cleanup? Another columnist, who probably was dragged screaming from his garden by an enraged wife, has a unique theory which will spark more speculation. Here it is:

"So far, Dr. Ruth hasn't found herself able to talk about it. Oprah seems to be avoiding it. Ann Landers tiptoes around it like the plague. I'm talking about the one real threat to personal relationships in this enlightened age. The problem nobody is spending a dime to research because it apparently is hopeless. This, of course, is the main difference between the sexes. The difference in body temperatures. Nobody has even begun to total up the cruel ways it affects human lives and togetherness, except for yours truly."

I dare not detail the ways he and his wife behave based on that body-temperature effect. Possibly the male's higher body temperature conditions him to such high energy activities as rowing, leaping high hedges at a single bound, bashing a baseball a country mile and then collapsing with a "Bud Lite" onto the rec room sofa, curled up in fetal position. Be that as it may, let's leave it to more fertile minds (Woody Allen, Joe Franklin, Ernie Bombeck, and Peanuts' Charlie Brown) to probe this tantalizing theory. Meanwhile, viva la difference!

I was pondering this philosophical theory with all the seriousness of a Jay Lené monologue when I cracked open a book entitled Life and Other Ways to Kill Time by Houston newspaper columnist Mike Nichols (Lyle Stuart, Secaucus, N.Y., 1988). What to my wandering eyes did appear but "Double, Double Toil and Trouble: A Clean Break With Housework." The chapter intrigued me, so I laid down my pen, my mop, and my Dutch Cleanser to probe the theories of another hot-shot reporter. 'Twas then I discovered my "Housework Emancipation Proclamation."

Not Unless Absolutely Necessary

Here's what Douglas wrote: "Let it be known that we, the undersigned, are two of those people who are not motivated to clean house unless threatened with the impending visit of a friend or relative. We do solemnly attest that there simply are better ways to spend our time than mopping, vacuuming and scouring the oven. Granted, everyone must clean house eventually. It's inevitable. Like death. But at least with death you don't ruin your manicure. We each realized the futility of cleaning house recently while using a crow bar to pry cat hair off the sofa." He and his girlfriend agreed to let the house-cleaning slide and not to be thrown into a Pledge-and-Pine-Sol panic by a phone call containing the words: "Hi. I'm gonna be in your area in a few minutes. I thought I'd drop by."

"Many people like us have mastered not-cleaning. When we spill something, we don't clean up the mess right away. We keep thinking that we will get around to it in a minute. Eventually that sticky spot on the floor becomes the La Brea Tar Pits of the kitchen. Insects and small children get stuck in it, crying piteously and looking at us with faces full of freckles and compound eyes."

Mike claims it's best to keep house-cleaning in perspective. He wouldn't consider his house cluttered as long as he could see the tops of the furniture. As for the dirt on the floor, well, he ignores it as long as possible. Eventually he's forced to act, so he plows it. When a bachelor can't stand filthy digs, he simply moves to a new one.

"We refuse to be sucked in by that old maxim: Cleanliness is next to godliness, which was probably first said by a priest who had a maid. So we herewith agree to keep the house-cleaning in perspective. We each accept the fact that the other's home soon shall look like the Apocalypse with carpet."

Well, Mike and his bachelor cousins by the dozens won't persuade many members of the fair sex to accept his low-cleaning threshold theory. Chances are, moreover, they'll swear Paul Chance's thoughts on the topic are just another ploy for the guys to "bug out" when household labor rears its raucous head.

This modern battle of the sexes, complicated by putative differences in body temperature, and perhaps even fluctuating cleaning thresholds, could become the "cause celebre" of the 1990s.

But there's no denying that many compulsive cleaners — be they male or female — have turned household chores into a parlor game of sorts. Well, you'll have to excuse me, readers. I hear my wife murmuring in the wings. She says the beds have to be made, the garbage emptied, the weeds uprooted, the grass cut, and so on. Before those dust puppies catch up with me, I'll make my getaway. In my den I'll read once again how dauntless Walt Whitman, ignoring the threats of his housekeeper, plucked a blade of grass and contemplated his navel. I wonder if Walt was running a temperature that spring fever morning.

Sluggish residential real estate sales may be the norm on Long Island, but that was definitely not the case for the Hicksville-East Meadow office of Coldwell Banker during the month of May.

"We had highs in both listings and sales," said Mrs. Falsetta. This is a good market for the medium-and-above price range." Mrs. Falsetta said her staff completed the sales on 18 homes during May.

SUPERVISOR DELLIGATTI

"To embody human liberty in workable government, America was born."

Herbert Hoover used these words to describe the impetus for the grand experiment of the authors of our United States Constitution. And, as the approaching 21st commemoration of the birth of our Nation attests to, the experiment has succeeded magnificently!

Our July 4 celebration this year should be especially meaningful in light of recent world events. While our democratic form of government, as spelled out in the Constitution, has endured and prospered throughout our history, communism — the greatest modern day threat to democracy — can be seen to be crumbling worldwide.

This year's Parliamentary elections in Russia showed a realization by the Soviet leadership that communism, as a viable government form, is falling. And in Poland's first free elections earlier this year, the communist party was overwhelmingly defeated by Solidarity candidates.

In Hungary, the Iron Curtain is symbolically and quite literally collapsing as the barbed wire fences along its border are being torn down. That country also held a recent massive memorial service to honor Imre

Nagy, a leader of the 1956 rebellion there. Significantly, while the communist government wasn't invited to take part in the service, several high level party officials participated as private citizens.

Recent events in China speak for themselves. The blood of that country's youth is being spilled in revolt against a repressive communist regime — and the Bamboo Curtain is splintering.

These countries, having lived under a rule that has deprived them of personal and economic freedoms and opportunities, are today fighting for the same liberty and justice that our forefathers fought and died for over 200 years ago. And they are succeeding to the point that it is entirely possible that we will, during our lifetimes, see the demise of communism as it exists today.

As we celebrate our country's Independence Day this year we should do so with renewed reverence for our founding fathers. Their grand experiment, based on the principles of human rights and dignity, has stood the test of time and grown strong, while the Marxist/Leninist dogma and the oppressive dictatorship it embodies, is deservedly dying.

Olga's The Envy Of All Golfers

Olga Marcin of Hicksville shot a hole-in-one at the new Town of Oyster Bay Golf Course. It was at the 6th hole, 147 yards on a par 3. She used a driver.

Although she played on weekends for a long time, Olga took up golf seriously about ten years ago when she retired. This is her first hole-in-one. She plays about three or four times each week. She enjoys the exercise and walks the course rather than taking a cart, and she said, "it is a sport of honor." Olga mentioned that she always played like a beginner before she retired because she didn't have the time to practice. She would advise any new beginners to "take lessons."

Olga is the wife of the late John Marcin and is a longtime resident of Hicksville.

Atta' way to go, Olga—you must have been clated.

costumes and everyone in their families are very proud of them.

And Speaking 'Bout Dancing ...

Lil's Dancing School performed their annual dance recital, Dancin' Disney at the Hicksville High School last Saturday night.

Everyone had a good time, whether they were on stage performing or in the audience watching. A highlight for the children in the audience was when the Disney characters—Minnie and Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pinocchio, Jimminy Cricket and Hippy Hippopotamus left the stage and went into the audience to meet and shake hands with the youngsters. The aisles were filled with anxious youngsters waiting to meet their favorite Disney characters. There may have been some "older" youngsters too!

The grand finale was a big surprise and provided another highlight of the show. After dancing the finale, the senior line went into the audience and selected gentlemen as dance partners. These gentlemen came on stage, took off their shoes, rolled up their pant legs, put on 'tutus' and headbands and proceeded to learn a dance routine with the girls. They even had the opportunity to improvise some dance steps of their own. The fellows were really good sports and everyone had a wonderful time.

Lil's Dancing School gives all proceeds from this benefiting to the Leukemia Society.

Arthritis and Visual Problems Linked

It is well-recognized that significant visual abnormalities are associated with many forms of arthritis. Doctors are not certain why this relationship exists. Rheumatologists, (arthritis specialists), estimate that more than 10% of the various forms of arthritis can be associated with visual problems.

Types of arthritis which are associated with eye problems are: rheumatoid arthritis, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, systemic lupus erythematosus, Sjogren's syndrome, ankylosing spondylitis, scleroderma, temporal arteritis, sarcoidosis, and gout.

The signs and symptoms of eye involvement may be redness of the eye (conjunctivitis), eye pain, or a decrease in vision. Occasionally eye problems may occur prior to the onset of arthritis. Usually these problems arise after arthritis has developed.

The symptoms can be fleeting and overlooked, as occurring in Reiter's syndrome. Blindness may occur if left untreated, as in Temporal Arteritis. Often the problems are mild and can be successfully treated if detected early.

Arthritis symptoms include painful, red, warm or swollen joints, morning stiffness, or muscle aches. Should you have either symptoms of arthritis or eye problems, you should visit your physician promptly.

Most rheumatologists are keenly aware of the relationship between the eyes and the joints. They are very careful to detect any abnormalities. An exact diagnosis of the type of arthritis you have is very important. Since there are over 100 types of arthritis, and each one requires its own treatment, a careful examination is important.

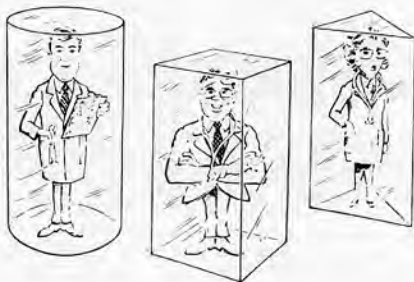

If any eye abnormalities are detected, the rheumatologist will work closely with the ophthalmologist. Careful attention should be made to adjust both the eye medication and the arthritis medication. Usually, visual problems improve as the arthritis improves.

Arthritis strikes one out of seven people. Learn the facts. Call for your complimentary copy of "The Joint Approach - An Arthritis Overview."

Community Banking now has a new standard.

Our new organization gives local branches even more clout.

Branch banking isn't what it used to be. More and more of the important decisions and resources are now coming out of the main office. And that means service that's less responsive.

The Bank of New York is different. We never stopped believing in the absolute need for a strong community bank.

That's why we appointed a Divisional President for each county we serve.

From now on, decisions that affect your account will be made right here in Queens and Nassau counties, not in some remote headquarters. For local businesses, that means faster turnaround time and close attention to your loan requests.

Our Nassau/Queens Division will also have its own Divisional Board made up of community leaders familiar with the special needs of the people who work and live here.

Our Divisional President will have access to unprecedented resources to serve local businesses. That includes experienced commercial lenders as well as specialists in import/export financing, cash management and trust services.

The Bank of New York is committed to Queens and Nassau counties. The fact that we've made more bank eligible loans to local municipalities overall than any other bank in greater New York is evidence of that commitment.

So is the fact that we have 46 branches in Queens and Nassau counties combined to answer your personal financial needs.

In a sense, we've redefined community banking. And given every other bank something to shoot for.

Civic Association Opposes Hook & Ladder Truck Move

The vice president of a Hicksville civic association said that his group is still opposed to the Hicksville Board of Fire Commissioners' plan to move a hook-and-ladder truck from the Strong Street substation to the new Levittown Parkway substation.

At a recent Northwest Civic Association meeting, Bob Dwyer said that if the commissioners intend to move the truck, the civic association will hold a special meeting for every resident in the community.

"This is not a dead issue as far as we are concerned," said Mr. Dwyer.

The civic association members have been opposed to the move since it was first announced in April. The residents feel they will be "stripped" of fire protection. However, the fire commissioners said that the northwest area will not be without ladder protection because a hook-and-ladder truck is located at the main fire house on East Marie Street. One truck will remain at the Strong Street substation.

The fire commissioners' plan to move the truck when the Levittown Parkway fire house is completed.

Mr. Dwyer also said that his civic association requested the results of the survey conducted by the fire commissioners which prompted their decision to move the truck. "They have not answered our request in writing for their so-called in-depth story," Mr. Dwyer said.

Reached on Friday by telephone, fire commissioner Al Bianculli said that the civic association requested that the commissioners speak at their meeting, however they informed the group that they were unable to attend because of a prior commitment.

Mr. Bianculli added that the board of fire commissioners will stand by their decision to move the truck.

Free Shakespeare in the Park

Sunday afternoons this summer have something special in store for Long Islanders: for the first time ever - Shakespeare in the park!

Arena Players Repertory Theatre and Beach Concerts Inc., in cooperation with the L.I. State Park Region, will present Shakespeare's comedy The Taming of the Shrew for five performances in July and August.

The setting will be one of the most scenic locations on Long Island, the Bayard Cutting Arboretum in Oakdale. Performed outdoors at 6 p.m., these performances are free, but tickets must be obtained in advance from the L.I. State Park Commission. For tickets phone 516-669-1000 extension 247. Performances are Sundays July 16, 23, 30, and August 6, 13.

The Taming of the Shrew is Shakespeare's rollicking, sometimes bawdy, tale of the rambunctious Kate and her love affair with Petruchio. Done in full Elizabethan costume against the magnificent backdrop of the 19th century Cutting Mansion, this production will also feature strolling minstrels performing music of the period.

These performances by Arena Players Repertory Company, Long Island's oldest and finest professional theater, are the inaugural season of what the sponsors believe will be a yearly summer event that will grow in both the number of plays and performances in following years.

Arena Players Childrens Theatre is also presenting free Childrens Theatre performances, in cooperation with the L.I. State Park Region, at several state parks this summer. Performance schedules may be obtained from the L.I. State Park Commission.

Arena Players Repertory Theatre is a non-profit company funded by the New York State Council on the Arts and Suffolk County Office of Cultural Affairs. Arena contact #516-293-0674.

Sixth Oyster Festival October 14-15

The Sixth Annual Oyster Festival, Long Island's foremost street food festival featuring oysters served in various varieties will be held in the village of Oyster Bay on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 14-15, 1989.

Sponsored by the Oyster Bay Chamber of Commerce, the event, which last year attracted an estimated 150,000 persons to this North Shore Long Island community, promises to be even bigger and better. In addition to its acclaimed food, the Oyster Festival will again include a juried arts and crafts fair, a world-class bicycle race program, family oriented entertainment and the popular oyster eating and shucking competitions.

Sponsors Provide Services

Supporting sponsors for the 1989 Oyster Festival are Molson Beer, the official festival beer and sponsor of the Molson Hospitality Center, a large tented seating area where patrons can sit and enjoy their favorite foods and listen to a day-long entertainment program; AT&T, sponsor of the official festival shuttle bus service, free transportation to and from the designated event parking sites; and Marine Midland Bank, sponsor of the Sixth Annual Oyster Festival Cycling Classic.

Participating sponsors include (as of June 14) WALK-FM (97.5), the official festival information station; National Westminster Bank; LILCO, General Utilities; Norstar Bank; Mill-Max Manufacturing Co., and the Frank M. Flower and Sons, Co., provider of all Oyster Festival oysters.

A Food Fest

In addition to all the oysters - in fact more than 27,000 oysters raw on the half-shell were consumed in 1988 - the food fest will feature other seafoods and more traditional festival foods, such as fried chicken, fried clams, shrimp, hamburgers and hot dogs. Oysters will be served on the half-shell, fried and in chowder. All foods will be served by various Oyster Bay civic and fraternal organizations and will be prepared in local kitchens from original regional recipes.

Revenues Support Non-profit Groups

The Oyster Festival was started by the Oyster Bay Chamber of Commerce in 1984 as a means of creating an awareness of the village of Oyster Bay business community. Oyster Bay is the home of the Town of Oyster Bay Town Hall, Sagamore Hill and the Planting Fields Arboretum.

How Safe is Your Home?

No, you are not safe in bed. About 284,000 people across the country are hurt there each year.

Believe it or not, almost 3,000 people in the U.S. injure themselves with pillows.

More than 100,000 people are hurt in the bathtub or shower every year.

Surprisingly, almost a quarter of the 37,000 injuries caused by razors and electric shavers involve children.

Broken mirrors aren't bad luck,, they just send more than 17,000 people to the emergency room each year.

You can understand how knives can cause more than 350,000 injuries a year, by why do 80 percent of them happen to children?

The simple drinking glass accounts for approximately 122,000 injuries annually.

Statistically, the refrigerator is more likely to harm you than the stove, they account for about 24,000 and 23,000 injuries a year respectively.

Ladders account for about 100,000 emergency room visits every year.

Out of the 800,000 Americans hurt in stairway accidents, more than 100,000 are senior citizens.

If 41,000 chain saw injuries a year doesn't surprise you, how about 11,000 screwdriver accidents?

Watch out for that vacuum cleaner! More than 11,000 people are hurt by them each year. Of the 13,000 fireplace accidents, more than two-thirds involve preschoolers.

At around 25,000 accidents a year, the television set is about five times as dangerous as your aquarium-but then, there are a lot more tv's.

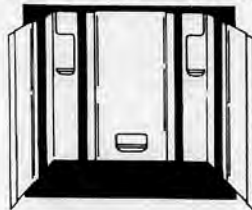

Your hedge trimmers can cut more than branches, 14,000 are reported yearly.

PTA Council Awarded for Community Service

The Hicksville Council of PTAs ended its 1988-89 season on a high note. The council, the guiding body for Hicksville's eight elementary PTAs, two secondary PTAs and SEPTA (Special Education Unit), was privileged to receive the Hicksville Youth Council's Group Community Service Award. The presentation took place at the Youth Council's annual dinner held at Antun's on June 11.

The Hicksville PTAs are alive and working for our children. Its members sponsor preschool programs, amblyopia and hearing screening, fingerprinting and identification workshops and a host of activities in the individual school buildings.

On the secondary level, PTA maintains a constant vigil on behalf of the health and well-being of the youngsters. Units are active in encouraging parent education on parenting skills and handling the problems of youth.

The PTA Council and its member units are especially proud of the large number of scholarships they are able to grant to graduating seniors. This year, the council also initiated its Scholars Dinner honoring the top 20 percent of the high school graduating class for their academic achievements.

A Line Worth Waiting On

If you had been driving on Levittown Parkway at 6:30 a.m. on June 3, you would have seen people sitting on lawn chairs. No, it wasn't sign-up for swimming lessons; it was the day dance recital tickets went on sale at the Pegge O'Connor School of Dance. By 10 a.m. the line was up to Parkway Farms.

They will again donate money from their

Through council leadership, PTA members participate in community events, and work closely with the board of education and its various committee. The council strives to coordinate efforts with the school administration to promote better communication between home and school. By its many endeavors, the council furthers leadership training and provides assistance in many areas to local PTA units.

The council is very proud of its work on behalf of Hicksville's young people. It is always a good feeling to be recognized for your efforts, and the council considers this award a fine honor.

At the PTA Council's closing meeting on June 13 at Woodland Avenue School, officers for 1989-90 were installed. These officers are: Terry Moehring, president; Linda Colton, vice president; Rosemarie Jabour, treasurer; Maureen Traxler, recording secretary; and Jan Boord, corresponding secretary. The installation ceremony was performed by out-going president Karen Garbus.

The PTA Council will resume activities in the fall.

dance recital to the Hicksville High School PTA Scholarship Fund. Pegge Kelly (nee O'Connor) said that over many years they have donated thousands of dollars to this scholarship fund.

This year the dance recital will be on June 23 and 24. If you would like to order tickets, you may call 681-6790.

Letters From Our Readers

Letters to the editor are welcomed by the editors and publishers of the Anton Community Newspapers. However, they must follow certain guidelines in order for us to print them: they should be as short as possible; we reserve the right to edit in the interest of space; they MUST be signed (a typed name at the bottom will not suffice); they must include an address and telephone number so that we can verify their authenticity. We receive many fine letters which we would like to share with our readers, but we are unable to use them because they are unsigned or have a typewritten name only. We cannot publish every letter we receive because of space limitations, but we try to present both sides of all issues. Sulfuric Acid Spill

To The Editor:

The Board of Commissioners of the Hicksville Water District wish to advise their consumers that they are most mindful and aware of the recent sulfuric acid leak uncovered in the ground beneath General Instrument Corporation's plant in Hicksville. Representatives of the professional engineering firm, H2M Group, who are responsible to the Board for a wide spectrum of matters including that of quality control of the product, were on site by this past mid-week and they reported in considerable depth their findings together with observations of our own District personnel.

Many of the same people who were involved with the MEK spill of several years ago in the adjacent area are also in place at this time. It is our opinion that none of the concerns are to be taken lightly and dismissed as not being immediate threats to our drinking water supply. We will keep careful watch over the events as they take place as we did during the MEK crisis. Beginning with the Nassau County Health Department (as our local regulatory authority) and going on through the state and federal agencies that are responsible by federal law in matters relating to chemical spills, leaks, etc., are already on notice.

General Instrument Corporation is required to submit their plan for appropriate action to clean-up to the Nassau County Health Department. The deadline for this first action was June 2. The Water District though not involved by law in this matter will be in close liaison with the Health Department throughout proceedings and will keep our citizens and consumers advised of events.

Twin County

To The Editor:

This letter is addressed to all the concerned Hicksville residents who took the time to come to Oyster Bay Town Hall on Wednesday, June 14, to voice their complaints about Twin County Recycling to its owner, Mr. Nicholas Lizza.

If you are feeling the way we are, then you have mixed feelings about what, if anything, was accomplished at the meeting. Let us first assure you that when 300 people take the time on a rainy, miserable night to attend a meeting miles from home, it does not go unnoticed. When News 12/Long Island sends a reporter and cameraman for interviews that appear on the 11 o'clock news, people notice and remember. When Newsday writes two articles about our ongoing battle with Twin County, and County Executive Tom Gulletta sends one of his advisors to the meeting, it's a good bet people are watching intently.

Please do not let the actions and words of one individual cause you to lose faith in our fight against Twin County. For this individual to stand up and state that asphalt does not produce noxious fumes and that Twin County is not responsible for the odors that we must live with day in and day out is ludicrous, and we all know it. Let us channel our anger toward this man into fighting harder for the revocation of Twin County's special use permit.

We are proud of the show of strength and the community pride that was demonstrated at Town Hall on June 14. Our problems with Twin County and their unwillingness to acknowledge them are now a matter of public record. Let's show them that we are not going to go away — until they do.

Candidates Funding

The following letter is being printed upon request:

Dear Mrs. Cardella, Mrs. Rudin and Ms. Broska: Your letters to the Editor failed to address the central issue concerning the involvement of District Unions in our school board elections, namely the funneling of funds in support of candidates to the school board.

Allow me to give you one example. During the election I observed, and have copies of, full page and half-page advertisements that appeared in our local papers, totaling $6,204. You should be asking who paid for the ads, and how was the money raised?

Mrs. Cardella, in her letter of some weeks ago, offered a wonderful suggestion. Why not inform the community as to who funded the school board candidates? So let's hear from those involved, and get a full financial accounting in the columns of the Hicksville Illustrated News for all the community to read.

Bill Bennett

Correction

Due to an editing error, a letter to the editor from Jo-Ann E. Broska in last week's issue incorrectly attributed a comment made by Linda Higgins to Linda Hild. Ms. Broska was referring to Linda Higgins' letter concerning the school budget.

Also, due to a typographical error one of the sentences in the letter contained the incorrect information. The sentence should have read, "Why then did Dr. Fenton, the superintendent, get her contract 18 months before her current one ran out, 6 months earlier than needed?"

The Illustrated regrets the error.

Nassau Tech Center Awards Hicksville Students

Ten seniors from the Hicksville school district have successfully completed their occupational education programs at BOCES Nassau Tech Center. They are among 691 students who will receive Certificates of Completion at special Nassau Tech awards ceremonies on Tuesday, June 13.

Anthony F. Formica of the Hicksville school district was singled out for special recognition and named Outstanding Student in Aviation Operations.

Nassau Tech is part of the public school system and is operated by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Nassau County. It offers training in several dozen career fields at Centers in Westbury, Carle Place and Old Westbury. Teenagers attend a Nassau Tech Center for part of each school

Kiwanis Club Hosts New Member Roundup

Hicksville Kiwanis Club New Member Chairman, Beth Dalton, had a scheduled "New Member Roundup" at the June 7 luncheon meeting of the club. Members of Kiwanis had been asked to invite prospective members to this meeting to acquaint them with Kiwanis objectives, goals and practices prior to submitting applications for membership.

Ms. Dalton had invited Steve Scharoff, the Governor-Elect of the New York District of Kiwanis International, to speak at this meeting to explain to the potential new members what Kiwanis is and does. Among many other topics included in Mr. Scharoff's address was a program titled "A World of Difference," which he said will be emphasized by the major service clubs to work toward eliminating racial and religious prejudice.

Mr. Scharoff said this program will be his major trust when he becomes a Governor of the New York district in October. He also urged the members and prospects to continue the club's fine work in the community, and for all to become Hicksville "Doers."

Other speakers for this roundup were President Tony Citrolo and Vice President Dr. Joseph Lupo.

A Letter to Lulubelle...

Dear Lulubelle,

For years, I've been enjoying your column. I almost feel as though you are my other self. I relate to practically all the things you remember—even roller skate years.

We must be about the same age and lived the same type of life. I was born in Glenwood Landing. It was a big event when I left that small hamlet of 500 people to take the school bus to Sea Cliff High School. I attended Hofstra College in its beginning when it was part of New York U. I was a member of its third graduating class in 1941.

I loved your article about books. I had all the Bobbsey Twin books. (I used to buy them for 50¢ at a bookstore in Hempstead on Main Street (was it Geissler's or Agnew's?) when my family went every Friday to shop, eat out and then go to the movies—the Hempstead, the Rivoli, once in a while the State, if they had a good double feature.

My aunt had enjoyed the Elsie Dinsmore series when she was growing up, so she saw that I had all of those books, although they were no longer popular in my era. I also had all the Oz books and Nancy Drew. When I was younger, I loved my aunt's old copy of Grimm's Fairy Tales, even though the print was very fine on tissue thin paper and with nary a single picture.

I remember my Mother buying me a Chataqua desk from a salesman who came to the door and she set it up right in the kitchen, which was the coziest room in the house. I remember Child Life and later Scholastic and all the pen pals I had in other countries.

I loved dolls and had a lot. Efanbee was the brand of nice dolls. Then I had Patsy Ann and all her outfits.

My love of travel started with my first geography lesson. I wanted to gather maple syrup at "sugaring off" time in Vermont. I wanted to walk down the Champs Elysees and I've always wanted to go to India from the time I read the Richard Halliburton books (he swam in the pool in front of the Taj Mahal).

I, too, read while getting gas. I've often wished I could meet you and know more about you as I feel we have so much in common.

Did you go to dancing school? Martha Lane's in Glen Cove for me and once a year she put on a wonderful recital—a musical she wrote herself—and rented the Cove theatre to stage it.

We sometimes went to the Cove three times a week, when the pictures were good. I think the shows changed on Tuesday, Friday and Sunday. I loved movie magazines.

I could go on and on. Please don't ever stop writing your letters, even if you have to repeat some. I often send them to my "best friend", since I was four years old. She now lives in New Jersey.

If you have time, I hope you will write to me..... Nostalgically yours, H.H.

PS: I got married right after World War II and my husband studied under the GI bill. My two sons were "baby boomers".

PS 2: My sister used to read the Bunny Brown and her Sister Sue books and my best friend preferred boys' books, especially the Rover Boys and Tom Swift.

PS 3: Why not a letter about all the old movie stars? First movie I ever saw was Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in My Blue Heaven. I remember Molly O'Day (a blonde comedian) and Sally O'Neill (a brunette) in a movie where they were Army nurses who cleaned up stalls in a stable to fix themselves a nice place to live. Then "top brass" came along and displaced them. It always stuck in my mind, since I love decorating and making something cozy. My husband and I lived in a converted barn the first nine years of our marriage.

A Letter from Lulubelle...

...Dear HH—thank you, thank you, thank you for such words of appreciation...We certainly did live parallel lives—although I lived on the South Shore...I did go to dancing school and started my fascination with ballet that endures—but I had to stop when money became so tight, my family couldn't afford the 50¢ a week that dancing lessons cost...I used your letter in place of mine this week because it is so charming and says so much that I want to say.

The Investor's Corner

By Dr. Joseph P. Frey

Understanding Open End Mutual Funds

Mutual funds come in two basic types—closed end and open end. To understand, we have to know the difference. An open end fund, the usual trading vehicle for most mutual fund buyers, stands ready at all times to sell shares in the company portfolio and to buy them back. The buying and selling is done at net asset value (NAV). NAV is the market value of every share of every stock in the whole portfolio divided by the number of shares in the portfolio. If the fund is a load fund, your investment is reduced by the load percentage. This is true whether the load is a front sales charge load, a back load or redemption fee, or a 12-B-1 charge.

The front load is a charge, first and foremost, to pay the salesperson who is selling you the mutual fund, and nothing else. There is nothing disreputable in this; that is how they make their living. If you need the help and advice, then you have to pay. The 12-B-1 one feature is quite another factor in my mind. The Securities and Exchange Commission under rule 12-B-1 (hence the name) says the fund management can take principal (your money in the fund) and pay promotional expenses—commissions and advertising to get more people to buy the fund. This enables the management to advertise as a no-load when in fact they are not. I believe this to be totally unfair. You have to watch out for this because they are becoming more and more common.

The back load or redemption fee has quite another purpose. This is imposed by the managers of the mutual fund to discourage you from taking your money out too soon. This is a penalty that you pay to move your money. As an example, the Fidelity fund management company imposed a back load on all of their Sector mutual funds (funds devoted to one industry) because people were moving the money too fast to take advantage of the changing and volatile markets in stocks and bonds. It was terribly disruptive to the managers' efforts to invest rationally with the volume of purchasing and selling of the mutual fund. It has curbed the speculation. Other funds just do not want you to be in and out in a hurry, so they also impose the fees. It also raises their income.

The load factors described above have absolutely nothing to do with the management fee. Each mutual fund is managed by an investment company. These people decide what stocks to buy and what to sell. For this they receive a fee, called the management fee. EVERY FUND has this charge. It is what pays the managers' salaries, the charges for the buying and sell brokerage charges, the travel expenses of people to go to companies and otherwise conduct investigations of possible stock purchases or sales. It is a necessary and ordinary expense. If you are investigating a fund to buy, always check this figure because it tells you how careful the management is with your money. Pick a fund with a low expenses ratio, if everything else is equal.

The fund invests the money received according to the investment strategy and under the restrictions imposed by the prospectus. That is why you look at the investment strategy of the fund when you get the prospectus. The philosophy of the fund and your investment philosophy should be very similar. What you want, and what they do, should be similar.

This is what constitutes an open end fund. As was pointed out before, this is the most popular type for the most people. The fund management takes your money and mine and puts it all together so that we can get the advantages of big time buying, big time management, and small time costs. The pooling of all of the money enables us to get the advantages of a millionaire investor with a fraction of the money.

I believe that this type of investing is the best for the vast majority of people. We get to "hire" the managers by buying the fund and we even get to "fire" the managers if they do a poor job. If their results are lousy, and some managers are really poor, you get to sell your shares back to them. That will teach them!

Dr. Frey is a professor of investments and finance at LIU/C.W. Post campus on Long Island.

ROBERT R. McMILLAN'S
Direct Line

Mikhail S. Gorbachev really is a pretty good public relations man. At home and in other communist nations, he is facing one disaster after another, but seems to win the praise of editorial writers across the country because of his allegedly bold international policies, "glasnost", and "peres troika". But, what about taking a closer look at events inside Russia? It is obvious that his external public relations program is designed to cover up the unrest in parts of the Soviet Union. Many of the geographic states of the Soviet Union are rebelling because of the cumbersome bureaucracy of a centralized Russia, a lack of true democracy, and ethnic and national divisions. Even the much heralded session of the new Parliament included only one third of the members elected in a truly democratic fashion. In addition, his speeches proposing arms reductions in Europe say little about further political changes inside or outside of Russia, and have not supported George Bush's call for removal of the Berlin Wall!

Within the Soviet empire, there is growing impatience about the pace of restructuring the Soviet economy and efforts to make more democratic the election of officials. Just because a handful of communists had an opponent last March, does not mean that democratic elections have now swept Russia. Make no mistake about it—the Communist Party controls Russia with the firmest of hands. Eighty percent of winners in the parliamentary elections were communists. And, the elections are set up in such a way as to make sure the communists cannot lose control.

In a country where there is relatively little personal freedom and less economic freedom, recent electoral changes have been positive, and they should be encouraged by the United States. But, it would be dangerous for us to compare what is happening in Russia with the election of Republicans and Democrats in this country. The opposition, in most areas, has no access to the media. The right to assemble is still not absolute. Whether the Communist Party would ever permit the evolution of a multi-party system remains to be seen. For example, would the communist leaders of the Soviet Union allow an opposition party rooted in capitalism to develop? I doubt it. There are interesting times ahead in Russia. Just look at what happened in China when protests for freedom went beyond what Party leaders were willing to accept. And, it will also be interesting to follow events in Poland and Russia now that Polish voters have defeated the Communists at the ballot box.

More than change at the ballot box is needed in the Soviet Union. Change, for example, has to come in the availability of consumer goods. With food costing fifty to seventy-five percent of the average worker's salary, little is left over for discretionary spending. Long lines are the rule for consumer goods. Survival is the main objective. An average Russian factory worker has to devote over three year's salary just to purchase an average car. In the United States, six months or less of work will purchase a fine automobile. Apply that concept to just about every type of consumer expenditure, and it is easy to see what the Russian government faces as it tries to reorder the economy. Russia continues to be poorly managed.

Mikhail Gorbachev is being tested as no other Russian leader has been since the Revolution. All of us should hope he survives. While he is no George Washington, he is also certainly not a Stalin. More than a public relation's peace may be breaking out in Europe because of economic pressures within the Soviet Union. But, the true test of Russia's long term intentions toward the United States and the West will be better read in Central America, Cuba, and at the Berlin Wall than by hoping for military reductions in Europe or watching ballot boxes in Moscow. CAAD Suggestions For Happy and Safe Celebrations

The following guidelines are only suggestions. Please take the time for you and your child to read and discuss them. Try to mutually agree on what behavioral standards are appropriate and relevant to your family situation, keeping in mind that each family and each child in it is unique.

Social Activities

- A. Parents should know where their children are. Teenagers should have a definite purpose and place to go with a specific time to return.
- B. Curfews are necessary for safety and cooperation within each family.
- C. Parties should be chaperoned by adults who are visible.
 - Alcohol should not be available or served.
 - Drugs should be strictly prohibited.
 - Anyone with or under the influence of drugs or alcohol should be told to leave the premises.
 - Teenagers and parents are responsible for the behavior of their guests at their party.
 - Small parties are encouraged; open parties are discouraged.
 - Leaving and re-entering a party should be discouraged since guests may have "stashed" alcohol or drugs in cars or somewhere outside the premises.
 - Parents should contact host parents to verify party arrangements.
 - Parents should have the telephone number and address of the party, and should expect a call from their teenager in case of any location change.

Parents can be held libel to civil and criminal charges if injury to a minor results from underage alcohol consumption or illegal drug use on their property.

A Day In The Life

My daughter got married in May. She walked down the aisle with her father, her arm looped in his, wearing the same dress I wore when I walked down the aisle with my father so many years before.

I remember that day very well. My father cried as we stood at the back of the church, waiting for the music to begin. I remember asking him not to cry. "We're supposed to be happy," I'd whispered.

My daughter's father cried, too. He tried very hard not to, but he did. And as we stood at the back of the chapel, before I left to walk down the aisle with my two sons, I heard her say, "Remember. We're happy."

And we were. The rain promised to stop. The sun was to come out. And our daughter was marrying a young man who has become so much a part of our family, slipping in among us so easily, that it's hard to remember a time without him.

I had promised myself I wouldn't indulge myself. I would be strong. I wouldn't cry. But when I saw my daughter walking down the aisle—a woman, no longer a girl—smiling and nodding at all those who had come to celebrate with her, I cried. And when her father lifted her veil, kissed her and gave her away, as my father had done for me, a feeling, like no other feeling I have ever experienced, washed over me. Difficult to experience. Impossible to describe.

The rest of the day went quickly. We ate and danced and visited with family and friends. The food was wonderful. The music sweet. The visits too brief. Now all just a memory. But a memory that will remain with us, affirming the present, giving hope for the future.

In the early hours of the day following her day, I put our dress away, my daughter's and mine, as my mother had done for me. One day my daughter will take it out for her daughter to wear. Perhaps I won't be there to see it, but I know it will happen.

And that child's father, the man my daughter's father gave her hand in marriage to, will walk down the aisle, holding back tears, as his daughter whispers, "Remember. We're happy."

Paradiso Accepted As Cornell National Scholar

Maria C. Paradiso of Hicksville is one of 235 high school seniors across the nation recently named a "National Scholar" by Cornell University.

Accepted as a member of the Class of 1993 at Cornell, Maria will be a student in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

The Cornell National Scholar Program, established in 1944 by the university's board of trustees, recognizes depth of extracurricular involvement, diversity of interests, and leadership capability of a select group of high school students accepted for admission. Approximately 500 students are nominated each year from more than 6,000 eligible secondary school seniors for exhibiting unusual promise of further development during their college years. Contributions to school, home, and community are given special emphasis by a selection committee within the Cornell community.

While in high school Maria's extracurricular involvement included: Teens Against Drug Abuse, Varsity Soccer Captain, French Club, and Varsity Basketball Captain.

No specific demands or requirements are placed on recipients of the awards while they are at Cornell, but many go on to leadership roles in campus life during their under graduate years and later as alumni. Participants in the program have achieved success in many fields, and some have even gone on to be elected to the Cornell University Board of Trustees.

Maria is a senior at Hicksville High School. She is the daughter of Robert and Catherine Paradiso.

Summer Fun at the Youth Council

Summer will soon be here and this means more free time for the teens of our community. As a youth services agency, the Hicksville Youth Council recognizes the need for and importance of leisure time activities. The Leisure Time Program offers a variety of recreational activities throughout the summer. Coordinator Beth Foley has put together an exciting schedule of summer events for Hicksville teens.

The Youth Council summer calendar includes horseback riding, Jones Beach, fishing, Action Park, a NY Mets game, Adventureland, a NY Yankees game, and a cruise around Manhattan aboard the Circle Line. In addition, the Youth Council will be playing weekly softball games at the Hicksville Middle School on Monday nights from 6 to 8 p.m. field #11. All events are open to all Hicksville youth ages 12-20.

Permission slips are required for all activities. These can be picked up at the Youth Council, 175 West Old Country Road or call 822-KIDS and they will mail them out to you. Whenever possible the Youth Council takes advantage of group rates and occasionally offers free trips. There are a limited number of spaces available for all trips. If you would like to sign up for a trip, bring your money and permission slip to the Youth Council as soon as possible.

Hicksville Youth Council provides services in the areas of counseling, employment, crime prevention and leisure time. As a non profit organization with a small staff, the Youth Council welcomes adult volunteers to help with transportation and the chaperoning of activities. The agency is open Monday-Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Students Have A Ball

Saint Ignatius Loyola School held its annual field day recently for grades kindergarten through eighth grade at Cantiague Park.

Events for each day were planned and directed by Robin Caparella, the physical education teacher. Each teacher ran the individual event for her class. Lunch was provided free of charge by the Parents' Association of the school.

Among the many activities were the limbo competition, relay races, kickball games and a tug-of-war.

St. Ignatius fifth graders prepare for a tug-of-war as part of Field Day festivities held at Cantiague Park.

First Grade Trip

St. Ignatius first graders took a class trip to the Hicksville Gregory Museum to learn about different rocks and minerals. Slides were shown of the eruption of Mount Saint Helen. The children were able to examine sample rocks and the "Touch Table" and to buy samples from the gift shop. Each class returned to school with cocoons which they watched hatch into luna and cecropia moths. After observation, these harmless moths were released.

Having a Field Day

The morning and afternoon kindergartners at Burns Avenue certainly have been busy. They held their field day and enjoyed it to the fullest. The two competing teams were the Black Team and the Gold Team. Everyone showed good sportsmanship.

The following students were winners in the day's events. In the girls' sack race; first place, Abbie Bogart, second place, Arielle Mozynski, and third place, Danielle Boncic.

In the girls' 40-yard dash, first place winners (a tie) were Abbie Bogart and Kristin Miltenberg, for second place, Ruby Koshy,

International Feast

This month, the first graders at Burns Avenue Elementary School, under the direction of Mrs. Finck, Mrs. Mele and Mrs. Warren, culminated an Inter-Disciplinary unit on Ancestors with an International Feast.

Through the generosity of the parents, delicious and varied dishes representing many ethnic groups were prepared and served. The cafeteria was decorated with hand-made flags representing the country of the children's ancestors. What a "delicious" way to end a unit of study!

Top Fund-Raiser

Dutch Lane fourth grader Jennifer LaFavers was the top fund-raiser in the 1989 Jump-A-Thon at Dutch Lane School. Funds raised go for research in heart disease and toward educational programs of the AHPERD.

From Woodland Avenue

Special Peoples' Visit

Grandparents or favorite older friends of Woodland Avenue students were invited to visit the school recently in honor of Grandparents' Day.

The morning began with a delicious array of refreshments supplied by the Woodland Avenue PTA. Then, the special visitors enjoyed a concert by the school's string and brass section and chorus, under the direction of Ricardo Garcia, Robert Pownall and Cynthia Decker. The visitors were very impressed with the children's musical talents.

Following the concert, the guests were invited to the children's classrooms to see the work they accomplished throughout the year.

Hicksville Nursery School Open House

The Hicksville Nursery School is holding an open house for fall registration on Friday, June 30, from 10:30 - 12 p.m., for parents of 2, 2½, 3 and 4 year-olds in the school classrooms at W. Cherry Street and Nelson Avenue.

The Hicksville Nursery School, founded in 1967, has offered 21 years of quality education to hundreds of pre-school children as well as serving as field training center for students from SUNY Farmingdale, Nassau Community College and Adelphi University.

The program provides varied activities with an abundance of materials and opportunities for free creative expression under the guidance of skilled, N.Y. State Early childhood certified teachers. Art, Media, woodworking, music and rhythmic movement, language arts, storytelling, dramatics, puzzles, doll corner, books and manipulative toys are all part of the daily program. A huge indoor playground permits daily large muscle activity even in the worst weather. A mid-session snack of milk or juice and crackers or fruits and vegetables is provided. Field trips are included to broaden the child's understanding of the world he lives in.

All parents who wish to, can share in the administration of the school. Monthly business meetings give parents the opportunity to make decisions on administrative needs. There are lectures, films, and "rap groups" to help parents learn more about parenting. Fundraising projects are most often social events helping young families meet other adults who are at the same stage in life.

We invite all parents of pre-school children to join us for a chance to play and learn together in our spacious well-equipped rooms. For further information, call 931-3415 or 681-8246.

What Kids-for-Kids is All About: Giving

By Charlette M. Anstey

At this time of the year we are all busy, whether it is prom night, graduation, baseball/softball playoffs, regents and finals, dance recitals, etc. I received a letter from Mrs. Karl Ganin who is vice president for the Association for the Help of Retarded People (AHRP) that made me realize how lucky I am that my children can be involved in all these activities. The following are some excerpts from her letter.

"In these trying times it is good to know there are young people who care about those who are less fortunate than themselves.

"Our retarded children are very special because they attract the very best people and never lose a friend. A case in point is Al Ciaccio who is an absolute 'Luv'. It all started three years ago when Al called our office and I was fortunate enough to get his call. He asked if it would be alright to have a charity game with the proceeds for the mentally retarded. I was delighted, and after Al and I talked at great length he began the necessary steps for the first game.

"It was a joy working with him and when I asked him how he got involved he said, and I quote, — 'I consider myself a very lucky man because my children are healthy and have no handicapping conditions. For these reasons I felt I owe something because of my good fortune.' This is the measure of the man."

Mrs. Ganin described exactly what we are trying to accomplish with this charity game. We would like to see the Hicksville community become more involved in this tournament. If you would like to volunteer to help in anyway at all or if you run a business and would like to make a donation, please write me at 43 Wishing Lane, Hicksville 11801.

St. Ignatius CYO can be very proud for the outstanding display of our youths in the Memorial Day Parade. To lead off the parade, we are very grateful to "Goldman Bros.," for the beautiful "new" banner. Following the banner were, "The Pompomrettes" under the excellent supervision of Vicky Passaro. And the outstanding coaching by Cynthia Baldwin and Krissy Ormand. It really takes so much work during the year to perform with such excellence. Among our many dedicated parents, one stands out, Lorraine Mierzejewski (Vicky's right hand). All of us in CYO, would like to applaud all the cheerleaders for adding that extra something special to our organization. We would also like to take this time to thank Lynns' Craft World and Fotomar for all the balloons, which the girls gave out to the young children along the parade route. The balloons brought many smiling faces.

Another special event for St. Ignatius is the "Kids for Kids" tournament. On August 26, we will again enter two teams into this tournament to benefit the "ARHC." Last year was our first year in this tournament and we were very happy to bring home a trophy, won by our boys team. The games are played by HBA (Hicksville Baseball Assn.), PAL (Police Athletic League) and St. Ignatius CYO. It was really exciting last year to see all the youths from these organizations compete. It's an event that shouldn't be missed, mark your calendars.

Manny-Hanny Corporate Challenge Set for Aug. 1

The Manufacturers Hanover Corporate Challenge is coming to Long Island!

The fourth annual Long Island Corporate Challenge Run will be held at Eisenhower Park Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. The event is a 3.5 mile road race that is open only to teams of full-time employees of corporations, businesses, government and financial institutions. Each company may enter an unlimited amount of runners. Awards are given to the top three male, female and coed teams and there is a special award for the top three CEOs to finish the run.

The Corporate Challenge Series is now in its 12th year. It began with 200 participants from 50 companies. In 1988, 108,323 runners from 5,177 companies competed in Corporate Challenge races throughout the world. The series culminates with the Manufacturers Hanover Corporate Challenge International Championship, held in New York City in November, where the winning teams from each individual event compete for first place honors.

The 1988 Long Island Corporate Challenge attracted 847 runners from 78 organizations, as Pat Petersen and Paula Chakos led Grumman Corporation to top honors in both the men's and women's competition. IBM took first place in the coed division and Dennis Shea, of Area Development Company, was the first CEO to cross the line. UNISYS had the biggest contingent, with 46 runners crossing the finish line.

The Long Island Corporate Challenge is conducted under the auspices of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club, under the direction of POBRRC President Mike Polansky. "We are pleased to be a part of this most important series," observed Polansky. "Manufacturers Hanover has provided an excellent avenue for corporations to promote physical fitness among their employees and to foster team spirit, sportsmanship and friendly competition in the corporate environment."

Company captain entry kits can be obtained by calling (516) 433-0919. All Long Island corporations, businesses, government and financial institutions are cordially invited to send teams to this year's Corporate Challenge.

Kidney Stones:

Winthrop Installs L.I.'s First Laser Lithotripter

by Keni Woodruff

Winthrop University Hospital in Mineola is the first hospital on Long Island to offer patients suffering from the agony of kidney stones, state-of-the-art laser lithotripsy treatment.

The Candela Laser, installed in April, successfully tested and now ready for patient use, offers optimum treatment for fragmenting kidney stones, causing minimum change to surrounding soft tissue and offering a less invasive procedure and significantly shorter hospitalization.

The pain of kidney stones has been described by patients as "exquisite," and treatment has usually meant major surgery, ultrasound (which has limited application), or Extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripsy (ESWL), which is generally used for stones in the kidney or the upper third of the ureter, and has been found to increase a patient's risk of developing high blood pressure.

The Candela Laser works in conjunction with a saline irrigation fluid which serves to contain the laser shock waves and carries away the stone fragments and debris incurred when the stone disintegrates.

Of equal importance to patients and physicians is the recent approval by the FDA of the Candela Laser for treatment of gallstones. The Winthrop staff expects to begin treating this condition in the near future.

Lasertrips utilizes a cold laser and is used to remove stones found in the lower 3/4 of the urinary tract. The five to twenty minute procedure utilizes a flashlamp excited pulsed dye laser tuned to a wavelength of 504 nm, and coumarin green dye. The wavelength is readily absorbed by the yellow or black stone, which is fragmented by the excitation of the electrons in the dye by the pulses (shock waves) of the laser.

P.S. 404: School With a Difference

by Keni Woodruff

The sign on the door says P.S. 404 Queens, and the sun streams in through the schoolroom windows today. But the 16-year-old boy wearing a baseball cap has an IV stand next to his desk and the teacher working with him asks, "Are you tired now?"

This classroom, on the ground floor of Schneider Children's Hospital at Long Island Jewish Medical Center, is a very special place for both students and teachers. Beyond fulfilling State requirements to provide education by NY-licensed teachers to every ill child absent from school more than one week, it creates an island of normalcy in pediatric patients' lives. For children who must be hospitalized or homebound for an extended period, "going to school" can help them feel they're getting better. When they do return to regular classrooms, it's without the extra burden of having fallen behind.

In addition to working on a one-to-one basis with children at different grade levels, the teachers at P.S. 404 must administer their own special blend of encouragement and solicitude. As teacher Margaret O'Reilly says, "First we must win their confidence; then, it's especially important to encourage them—to make them feel successful."

High school students generally spend two hours in the classroom. Younger children spend an hour, with surgical patients coming at a separate time from others as a health precaution.

The teachers have a much longer school day than their pupils. When they are done in the classroom, they go to the bedsides of non-ambulatory patients. "It's difficult to cover all subjects in the limited time available at the bedside. That's why we want to get as many as possible to come to the classroom," they point out.

There's no escape from paperwork for the P.S. 404 staff. They are responsible for arranging home tutoring after the hospital stay. And they must make phone contact with schools to obtain lessons and homework. Administering high school regents exams and developing lesson plans for long-term patients are also part of the job.

For both students and teachers, P.S. 404 Queens is a school with a difference...where special knowledge can be gained that is not found in formal lesson plans.

UV Protection...Even More Critical in 1989

Protecting your skin from harmful exposure to UltraViolet rays is even more important this year, say skin care experts. The depletion of the ozone layer is allowing more of the harmful rays to pass through the atmosphere, increasing the dangers of skin cancer and accelerated aging. This depletion is also allowing an increase in environmental irritants and oxidants.

Estee Lauder Laboratories have developed a new line of products, Special Protection Complex, that provides protection for sun and sunscreen sensitive skin, incorporating this complex into most of Lauder's products with an SPF of 15 or above.

SPC acts as an irritant filter to help the skin resist stinging, burning, itching and redness sometimes caused by high SPF levels in sunscreen products. The company offers these, "sun-day" tips to keep you glowing and healthy throughout the outdoor season:

Do wear a foundation makeup during the summer, but choose the lightest texture possible.

Do wear lipstick containing sunscreen. Children's skin requires extra care in the sun...use a waterproof or water resistant pro-tectant with an SPF of 15 or more. Choose a waterproof sunscreen for yourself, too, as UV rays penetrate water.

Refrigerate skin toners and splashes for extra "zing."

Chill your colognes for extra refreshment. Keep skin moisturized using products that don't leave an oily buildup.

Skin Cancer: Early Detection/Treatment Essential

Skin cancer attacks one out of every seven Americans annually. Of the three most common forms, melanoma is the most dangerous, and its incidence is on the rise.

According to Dr. Neil Brody, Vice Chairman of Dermatology, Downstate Medical Center, whose private practice is located at 1380 Northern Blvd., Manhasset, "self inspection is critical in our struggle against skin cancer. This is one battle in which we can make a tremendous difference with relatively little effort...deaths are so easily prevented, it's absurd that they still occur. Unfortunately, though, they still do...I'm treating twice the number of people with melanoma now than I did 15 years ago."

Statistically, the frequency of this form of skin cancer has increased dramatically in the past 40 years, but early diagnosis and treatment are usually curative.

"Typically, a melanoma lesion is asymmetrical with irregular borders," Brody notes. "They are usually brown or black in color, but may be red, blue, even flesh colored. If undetected, melanoma can spread through the blood and lymph system and may be fatal."

Another form of skin cancer which may spread beyond the skin is squamous cell carcinoma," he says. "Lesions are more likely to be pink and scaly."

"The least dangerous form may appear as a white or translucent bump or nodule. Moles that bleed should be regarded with suspicion, too," he commented.

Dr. Brody reiterates the research and the medical community has reported about exposure to the sun: "It decreases the body's resistance to skin cancer, and fair skinned individuals who burn or turn red in the sun are more prone to skin cancer than others."

He cautions people to use sun screens during summer months when outdoors, even on cloudy days, and care should be taken to protect the skin if exposure is unavoidable. Skin cancer is more common among individuals over 40, and those with a family history of the disease.

Early detection and treatment is vital, and 90% of all skin cancers can be cured with early treatment.

CONTEMPORARY HEALTH CARE ISSUES

Estrogen Replacement Therapy: Is It For You?

Like many educated women who approach menopause, you probably have some concerns about the conflicting reports regarding the risks and the benefits of estrogen replacement therapy. As an informed partner in your health care, you should be aware of the facts based on scientific research.

Let's address some of your concerns first. Does estrogen replacement therapy (ert) increase your chances of developing cancer of the uterus? Ert in combination with progesterone therapy during the last ten to fourteen days of your cycle will not increase your risk. Similarly, while much has been written about the possible link between ert and breast cancer, current medical research and data do not support any theories about increased risk. Nevertheless, a woman should have a routine screening mammogram before she begins hormonal therapy.

Estrogen replacement therapy offers many benefits to menopausal women to make their life more comfortable and productive. Ert can control hot flashes, night sweats, and mood swings as well as vaginal dryness and atrophy. Its ability to halt the development of osteoporosis (bone disease), lowering the incidence of bone fractures, is a big plus. Finally, it reduces a woman's chances of developing cardiovascular disease.

Hormonal replacement therapy has many advantages for most women, but it should only be given under the direction and supervision of a physician. Ask your doctor if you're a candidate for this treatment.

This medical news is being brought to you as a community service by the Long Island Women's Health Care Group. You Can Control High Blood Pressure With Diet...

High blood pressure (hypertension) damages blood vessels and is implicated in 40% of all heart attacks and strokes, according to Central General Hospital in Plainview (932-6250). Although, many are unaware that they have this condition, one in five Americans (an estimated 60 million) suffer from hypertension.

Overweight, excessive consumption of salt (sodium) and alcohol are contributing factors in this life-threatening, controllable disease. Since only about five percent of hypertension cases are curable, most victims must struggle with the disease all their lives.

Studies have shown that excess weight is a major factor in hypertension and that individuals who are 20% or more above ideal body weight are two to three times more likely to suffer from high blood pressure.

The 1988 Surgeon General's Report on Nutrition and Health recommends restriction of salt and alcohol and maintaining the ideal body weight in treating high blood pressure without medication, endorsing an approach which includes behavior change in diet and exercise patterns for individuals needing to lose moderate amounts of weight.

For the severely obese, those individuals needing to lose 50 pounds or more, more dramatic methods may be needed before more moderate eating and exercise plans are instituted.

Health experts have found that a very low calorie diet that replaces food with a carefully moderated, supplemented fasting program is effective in reducing weight quickly while diminishing the health risks associated with obesity. The OPTIFAST Program, a comprehensive regimen of medically supervised fasting and liquid supplements, behavior modification, nutrition education and increased physical activity, has been successful for hundreds of thousands of people.

Offered only through hospitals and medical centers such as Central General Hospital, the supervised OPTIFAST program addresses a variety of weight related problems, including diabetes, coronary heart disease and high blood cholesterol, enabling the client to make wise dietary changes to reduce weight and control high blood pressure.

An Ancient "Mistake" Enjoyed by Millions

Yogurt dates as far back as written history goes. It was probably an accident, and appears in documents from cultures as diverse as Africa and the Orient. Americans consume more than a billion pounds of the cultured milk product in all its forms, not including frozen items that are gaining in popularity.

Its basic ingredients include nonfat, skim or whole milk, cultured bacteria, fruit preservatives, nuts and other flavorings. Milk solids are added to increase the calcium content of lowfat and nonfat varieties.

One cup of lowfat yogurt with added milk solids contains approximately 145 calories, 4 g. fat, 14 g. cholesterol and 495 mg. calcium. Compare this to sour cream (495 calories, 48 g. fat, 102 g. cholesterol, 268 mg. calcium per cup). For people with lactose (milk sugar) sensitivities, yogurt made with "active cultures" offers high bone building calcium content, without digestive discomfort.

Try these yogurt alternatives to mayonnaise and sour cream:

- Top a baked potato with yogurt and chopped chives.
- Mix mayo with yogurt as a lower calorie spread for sandwiches.
- Use in place of sour cream in recipes - to prevent separation when heated, add 1 TB. cornstarch per cup of yogurt.
- Use in place of sour cream in dips.
- Mix with garlic powder, celery and sesame seeds, use to coat chicken.
- For a delicious spread: Line a large strainer with doubled cheesecloth, suspend over deep bowl (make sure bottom of strainer doesn't touch drained off liquid, whey). Pour 2 cups of plain yogurt into strainer, cover and refrigerate for 24 hours. Squeeze the cheese-like mixture to remove any whey, transfer yogurt-cheese into clean container. Add fresh chopped herbs, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, or season to taste, for a great, low-cal spread for bread, muffins, etc.

Malsovit Update...

In our April Health & Fitness pages, we ran an editorial on the Cake & Cookie Shop at 3649 Merrick Rd., Seaford. The story was about their unique Malsovit Bread... a diet alternative for us weight conscious bread lovers.

Malsovit, contrary to our comments, does have salt, but very, very little. (sorry for our goof). An editorial comment here... IT'S DELICIOUS! As a sandwich, as breakfast toast, as a snack! It keeps well refrigerated, even though it's completely preservative free, and it's a great alternative to bread... didn't try it for dieting, but everything else checks out, soooo... KW

Hypertension Facts from AHA

What you don't know about high blood pressure (hypertension) can kill you, according to the American Heart Association. Some 57 million Americans have high blood pressure, and while many are receiving treatment, nearly 50% don't understand their illness or it's potentially serious effects.

Dr. Robert Kramer, president of the Nassau Chapter of AHA offers these informative facts about hypertension. "Blood pressure is the push of blood against the arterial walls, and is measured by maximum (systolic) and minimum (diastolic) pressure in the arteries when the heart beats. When systolic pressure exceeds 140 mg Hg, and diastolic pressure exceeds 90 mg Hg (140/90), a person is considered to be hypertensive," he says.

"High blood pressure indicates the heart is straining to pump blood and can cause heart enlargement, congestive heart failure, kidney disease, increased hardening of the arteries and other medical problems, any of which could lead to stroke or heart attack.

"Unfortunately," Dr. Kramer notes, "even with the modern treatments available, many victims of hypertension remain uninformed or take it too lightly. While the ailment can be controlled, in most cases it cannot be cured. Except in extreme cases, hypertension is generally symptomless, and is usually detected through accurate blood pressure tests using a sphygmomanometer which records the amount of force on an artery when the heart beats and is at rest. Coin-operated machines are not recommended," he notes, "as these machines are not regularly inspected for accuracy and the information they give may not be correct."

The American Heart Association recommends the following "ten commandments" to help control the condition:

- Know your blood pressure and have it checked regularly.
- Keep your weight at the correct level.
- Avoid excessive salt, eat low sodium foods.
- Eat a low fat, low cholesterol diet.
- Don't smoke.
- Restrict alcohol intake.
- Take medication exactly as prescribed.
- Keep prescriptions filled.
- Keep your doctor appointments.
- Follow your doctor's advice about exercise.
- High blood pressure can be hereditary... make sure your relatives have theirs checked regularly.
- For more information, call American Heart Association, 565 Willis Ave., Mineola, 741-5522.

OPTIFAST AT CENTRAL GENERAL HOSPITAL

No one ever lost weight permanently through willpower alone. No one!

If willpower were all it took to lose weight, your first diet would have been your last. But, with few exceptions, even the most determined dieters regain the weight they lost. Now, you can lose weight and keep it off with The OPTIFAST Program. The OPTIFAST Program is a hospital-based, supplemented fasting program that combines a nutritionally complete diet supplement, diet counseling, behavior modification and group support. Most important of all, The OPTIFAST Program involves the close, on-going attention of physicians, nurses and other medical professionals. 200,000 people have participated in The OPTIFAST Program of weight loss. Studies have shown that up to 80% of OPTIFAST treated patients may lose more than this amount; the average loss is 85 pounds. But even more encouraging is the fact that in some people, long-term weight maintenance—the most important part of obesity treatment, is accomplished in The OPTIFAST Program.

If you're more than 30% or 50 pounds overweight, please call 932-6250 and receive complete details about The OPTIFAST Program. You supply the willpower you've always had. We supply the medical support you've always missed.

Opening lead — two of spades.

It is said that a fine declarer is a confirmed pessimist, a player who always looks at the gloomy side of things and is seemingly never happy unless he is miserable. Perhaps such an attitude would be regarded as unhealthy in everyday life, but there is no doubt that it is a healthy one to carry to the bridge table.

Consider this deal where South went down in a contract he could have made. He won East's king of spades with the ace and played a low club to the ace, on which East unexpectedly showed out.

It was only trick two, but the contract was already doomed. South could no longer score more than his eight high-card tricks, and he eventually went down one.

But now let's assume that South had been a full-fledged member of the pessimists' school. In that case, as soon as dummy came down, he would have realized that only a 5-0 club division could jeopardize the contract.

Having given careful thought to this dire possibility, he would have taken the necessary step to overcome a 5-0 club division on either side. He too would have led a low club towards dummy at trick two, but instead of going up with the ace after West followed low, he would have played the seven from dummy!

If the seven won the trick, he would be assured of making at least ten tricks; if the seven lost (to East's ten or jack), he could feel equally certain of ten tricks. Either way, the seven play was sure to make the contract.

Some days it pays to be a pessimist!

The Hicksville Hawks recently captured the State Title.

Hicksville Hawks Capture State Champs Title

The Hicksville Hawks, a Long Island Junior Soccer League Under-14 Division A Travel Team, are the New York State Champions.

On June 10, at Farmingdale University, they defeated a spirited Northport-Cow Harbor Team 1-0. This was an emotional match as Hicksville and Northport have enjoyed a rivalry over several seasons. The deciding goal, during this thriller game, was scored within one minute to play by Stephen Fox after a picture perfect cross by Hicksville's own Ronny Ladimir.

Hawk coach John Fitzgerald and assistant

Bob Ladimir had a feeling their team could win the title. Last summer the Hawks (14-2) played at the Ian Rush Tournament in Wales and Sotonia Cup in Southampton England. When it came time to choose a tournament this year, the Hawks decided to concentrate their efforts on training for the State Cup.

The Hicksville Hawks have been in existence since the Spring of 1983, during which they have captured six division titles. They have won 84 games, lost 22 and have scored 318 goals and allowed 146.

The members of the Hawks are Tommy Basaranler, Danny Bell, Chris Benes, Kevin Costa, Stephen Fox, Chris Jendras, Kevin Koehn, Richie Kotschau, Ronny Ladimir, Danny Longo, Michael Longo, William Nobile, Andre Parris, Robert Persaud, Brian Rooney, and Statistician Brian Koehn. They are sponsored by Suvately Associates Incorporated Insurance of Hicksville.

The Hawks will travel to Niagara Falls and the Regional Title Play-offs on June 30th. They will be competing against State Champions from several Northeastern states for the regional championship.

Paradiso and Luongo Become Scholar-Athletes

Maria Paradiso was awarded the scholar-athlete award for the month of May, 1989 at the Sears McDonalds, on June 8. Maria is the first girl to play on a boys soccer team at Hicksville High School. She played stopper, sweeper, center and half-back. Maria also played basketball and was captain of the girls team this year. At the Sports Night Award Dinner, she was voted MVP and received the Scholar-Athlete award also. For the week of Jan. 9, 1989, she was awarded the EAB News 12 Scholar-Athlete award.

At Hicksville High School, Maria is also involved as a member of SADD and her mother was proud to say she is also a member of the National Honor Society. She maintained a very high grade average and is graduating third out of a class of 410.

After high school, Maria will attend Cornell University as a business major and will play soccer there as well.

Her proud parents, Catherine & Robert, were on hand at McDonalds to see their daughter receive this award.

Michael Luongo, also a senior at Hicksville High School, played soccer, both right and left wing. At Hicksville High School he has maintained an academic average of 88 percent and ranked 93 out of a graduating class of 410. At the Sports Award Night he made all-county and all state. He played for one year on the U.S. National Team for those under 17 as well as on the State and Regional teams for the Eastern Seaboard.

After high school he will be attending New York Tech on a full scholarship. Along with playing soccer, he will study Hotel Management.

His parents, Anna and Tommy, were on hand to see their son receive the McDonalds award for the month of May, 1989, by store managers Jeff and Laurie Millington.

Minutemen Keep Pouring On Goals in 5-0 Win

By Karen Blicher

The Hicksville Minutemen 1977 B travel team continued their winning ways by defeating the Massapequa (Mac) Scorpions 5-0 at Cantiague Park, June 10. This was their second consecutive game of scoring five goals.

Goals were scored by Brian Rigert, who had two big ones; Anthony Noya; Danny DePinho; and Robin Blicher, on a penalty shot. The balance of the team, who demonstrated excellent sportsmanship and ever-improving soccer skills, are: Bobby Braun, Jorge DeSilva, Tracy Koetter, Bobby Wagner, Greg Walunas and Mike Whitman. All gave 100 percent.

Congratulations to the team, Coach Al Blicher, Assistant Coaches Pete Whitman and Tony DePinho for their outstanding contributions to the team. Thanks to Seaman & Eisemann, for its sponsorship, which is greatly appreciated.

Correction

The June 14 issue of the Illustrated incorrectly stated two elected positions to the Hicksville American Soccer Club. The intramural commissioner is Charles Strugatz and the girls commissioner is Mary Ann Caputo.

We regret the error.
