Henry Curtis Reads Report at Junior Red Cross Session

Jeffrey Wetzel, of Hempstead, Chairman of the Senior high school council, conducted this meeting. The Minutes were read and the council closed for the meeting. The Minutes were read by Henry Curtis of Hicksville, Secretary, and the financial report by Virginia Botti, of Great Neck. After the delegates reported on the school activities, Mrs. George E. NASSAU PROSECUTOR LAUDS CHURCHES

Nassau's churches and youth organizations were given credit today for the steady decrease in juvenile crime throughout the county during the past five years, according to the report of District Attorney Edward J. Neary.

Citing Record Low Here
Citing the fact that Nassau communities have one of the lowest crime records in the state of New York, the prosecutor declared: "My experience as an attorney has shown me that juvenile crime is negligible in communities where church attendance is high and membership in Boy Scout troops and youth organizations is strong."

Commenting on William Lyon Phelps' article, "Religion in the Home," in June Good Housekeeping magazine in which the noted educator finds religious training necessary for the happy youth, Mr. Neary pointed out that there were 468 churches of all types committed in Nassau county during 1937.

The greater number of these criminals came from the communities where home environment was poor and church activity low. Records prove that most criminals under 21 who come before our courts have had little or no religious training. In most cases they have never been members of boys' clubs or other organizations where they would have had the advantage of character training," he stated.

The district attorney warned that parents, clergymen and youth leaders must cooperate to a still greater extent if juvenile crime in the county is to be further decreased. "The best environment for children is a home in which all members of the family attend church regularly and where honesty, truth and respect are the keywords. Community organizations are doing a splendid job through character building in keeping Nassau's youths out of the juvenile courts," he stated.

Shadow and Substance' Won Two Awards on Broadway

The only Broadway play to win two awards in "Shadow and Substance", Paul Vincent Carroll's comedy-drama, starring Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Eddie Dowling in presenting the play in the Golden Theatre. It was hailed by the Drama Critics Circle as the outstanding play to be brought to America this season. Not content with presenting the play, Carroll added it to its glory when Sir Cedric, the star of the production, was presented with the Drama League medal for the outstanding production before it departs from Broadway.

The success of "Shadow and Substance" illustrates what can be accomplished by expert, well-planned production. Eddie Dowling had acquired the American rights to the Paul Carroll play in the spring of 1937. It was not until almost a year later, January 27th, 1938, to be exact, that the producer felt the play was ready for Broadway presentation. It was a wise choice for "Shadow and Substance" proved to be an over night hit.

A Brief Meditation
Suggested by the Rev. L. S. Luina, pastor of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, Hickville.

OPPORTUNITIES BY THE WAY
Read Acts 8:26-40—Behold, a man of Ethiopia who had been reading the prophet. Then the Spirit said unto Philip, and join thyself to this chariot. And Philip ran thither, and heard him read the prophet of Isaiah, and said, Understandest thou what thou readest? And he said, Yea, can I, except thou shouldst guide me? And he desired, Philip that he would sit with him.

THE EXPERIENCE OF PHILIP
It has been duplicated thousands of times. A Christian has done it and I have much routine and regular work to do—just the job. The Holy Spirit doesn't expect us always to have the assistance of particular things to do for Him. It is His will to work with our normal task. He stays with us in that task and us to pay attention when, as our guardian Companion, he gives us an alarm or points out some opportunity.

Have you not had this kind of experience? From which I would gladly have been excused. But I have myself and I do it. In doing it I came upon a wonderful "little" issue which I would have missed had I not the call to do the other plain and merely routine duty. The duty was a "by-product" full of reward.

From Forward Day by achievements of the day. The initiation and opening of the school which has been approved, will call for expansion of the educational features of the present School for Adult Education, but will make no provision for recreation.

Moral Entertainment Stays At Roslyn Federal Theatre

'A Moral Entertainment', Richard Malbaum's new comedy, will be presented tonight and Saturday by the Federal Theatre at New York State at the Theatre of the Four Seasons, Roslyn. There seems to have been a misapprehension to the effect that the comedy, which is moving highly successfully among the New York State productions, was to close. Definitely, 'A Moral Entertainment' remains in the Federal Theatre repertory, and will be presented from time to time along with new productions and selected ones from the year's repertory.

'Yellow Jack' Tops Billing At Loew's Valencia

A startling page from American history is spotlighted in the new picture 'Yellow Jack', which opened yesterday at Loew's Valencia Theatre for one smash week. Robert Montgomery is cast in his most dramatic role in 'Night Must Fall' with Virginia Bruce playing the feminine lead and Lewis Stone portraying the historical character of Major Walter Reed who was instrumental in the isolation of yellow fever.

The supporting cast is one of the most capable seen in recent months, including Andy Devine, George E. Stone, Henry Hull, Alan Curtis and Sam Levene. 'The Divorce of Lady X', Alexander Korda's merry technicolor comedy, is the associate feature at Loew's. 'Yellow Jack' is seen in the starring role and has a brilliant supporting cast headed by Lawrence Olivier and Binnie Barnes.

'Vivacious Lady' Remains At New York Music Hall

The new playhouse at New York Music Hall which has received such coveted applause from the critical press and public is being held for a second week, 'Vivacious Lady', starring Ginger Rogers and James Stewart, is a romantic comedy about a night club singer who weds a college professor with somewhat embarrassing results. The efforts of the couple to hide the marriage from the boy's stern father and the introduction of the gay Miss Rogers into the staid social life of the puritanical community, form the basis for the many hilarious sequences of the film.

The two stars are supported by a cast which includes James Ellison, as Stewart's playboy cousin, Charles Colburn and Beulah Bondi as Stewart's parents, Frances Mercer as 'the other woman', Phyllis Kennedy as a bored housemaid and Grady Sutton as the picture laboratory assistant. Featuring a song, sung by Ginger Rogers, is introduced in one of the night club scenes. It is 'You'll be Remembered of Me' by George Jessel, Jack Meskill and Ted Shapiro.

For the Radio City Music Hall stage, Russell Market has produced a footlight fantasy entitled 'The Nineteenth Century' with elaborate stage settings by Nat Karson. In the large cast are: Nina Whitney, Leon Fokine, Carlos Peterson, Maxine Williams, Marie Grimaldi, all soloists dancing with the Corps de Ballet in a Florence Rogge pantomime, 'The Flirt'. Viola Bluh, soprano; Robert Weede, baritone; Park and Chubb, dramatic stars; the Rockettes, the Glee Club, and the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Erno Rapee.

THE REBUILT BLUE EAGLE

Current Comment

PROUDLY WAVING in the breeze for 161 years, Old Glory will celebrate its birthday on June 14. Our flag has had its triumphant moments during the long years it has been our national emblem, but rarely has it meant more to our people than in the uncertain days of the War of 1812 when the fate of our country hung in the balance.

Burned by the British, our National Capital lay in ashes, while fear gripped the hearts of patriotic Americans. Encouraged by their successes, the powerful forces of the enemy struck at Baltimore, believing that another easy triumph lay before them.

Commodore John Rodgers with his seamen and U. S. Marines were a part of the force which went to the defense of the city, along with the militiamen and volunteers. Only a meager force could be rallied against a foe which numbered about 9,000. The British leader was killed, and after a sharp engagement the enemy's land forces withdrew while the guns of their fleet were preparing to bombard Fort M'Henry.

For 24 hours, beginning on September 13, 1814, the guns of the enemy attempted to shatter Fort M'Henry and other shore positions, but their efforts failed. Francis Scott Key who was visiting the British fleet on a diplomatic errand, thrilled with pride when he noted by the dawn's early light that 'our flag was still there.'

Thankful citizens of Baltimore expressed their grateful praise to the brave seamen and marines who came to their aid. Key was inspired to write the Star-Spangled Banner, which expresses no vaunted boast of power—only a sublime faith in cherished institutions and a willingness to defend them against all odds.

IN A COMMUNICATION to the editor of this newspaper, Senator Thomas C. Desmond, of Newburgh, calls attention that June eleventh is the first day on which medical examinations may be made under the new Desmond-Breitbart premarital examination law.

'This law,' he states, 'has for its effective date, July 1, 1938. It provides, however, that medical examinations may be made not more than twenty days prior to the issuance of the marriage certificate. Therefore June eleventh is really the first day on which work may start under this new law, which is expected to do so much to curb a dread disease. It will mark a new era in the control of syphilis in this state.'

'All applicants for marriage licenses on and after July 1, 1938, under the Desmond-Breitbart law, will have to present medical certificates that they are free from syphilis in a communicable state. We are confident that the new law will greatly promote married happiness by assuring each marital partner that the other is free from a serious disease. It will help confer public health enemy number one. There will be fewer admissions to our insane asylums and institutions for the blind; and the next generation will be one of happier and healthier children.'

Senator Desmond states that he will be glad to mail free of charge full information regarding the new law to readers of this newspaper who will address him at Newburgh.

Business Headlines

GOVERNMENT may spend $1,400,000,000 to aid 6,000,000 farmers faced with drop of nearly one-third in market prices for farm products. National City Bank predicts dull business this summer. Rubber export quotas slashed to 45 per cent. Rubber plantation owners turn to growing oil palms to fill gap in rubber sales. Cuba becomes third largest source of man-ganese for American steel mills. World output in first four months largest on record. AUTO MODELS—Latest advances from Detroit are that 1939 models to be shown in November, may not be so radically changed as hitherto expected. Reason is that curtailment of auto buying this year has created a potential demand for new cars which could make itself felt at the first sign of business recovery without recourse to the added sales stimulant that unusual new designs might give. Businessmen watch auto production figures closely. For the automobile industry is the biggest customer of many other industries. Last year, when 2,000,000 cars and trucks were produced, $725,000,000 of freight were provided American railroads. The motor industry buys 18 per cent of America's steel output, 73 per cent of plate glass, 11 per cent of copper, 26 per cent of lead, 12 per cent of aluminum, 28 per cent of nickel, 46 per cent of upholstery leather and nine per cent of the U. S. cotton output.

Readers' Spot

THE ENTHUSIASTIC GARDENER can do nothing more interesting than to browse through the pages of the Gardeners' Almanac, in papers, magazines, and books. That painless habit gradually builds up a fund of information that is invaluable in planning and carrying out a garden. The Gardeners' Almanac is reliable. The garden that is built on the advice of the good neighbors runs a good chance of being a crippled garden. The wrong neighbors do not have enough information to advise—but that built on advice of printed information will undoubtedly do well, granted suitable care by the gardener. Knowledge is readily available in our papers, magazines, and our books, written by people who know and for people of all tastes. One new book that is so hard to put aside when one takes it up is 'The Gardeners' Almanac, edited by the well-known Edward L. Farrington, for the March issue of Horticultural Society (published by H. K. Cushman and Flint, New York, $3.75). It is composed of many short articles covering a very wide range of horticultural subjects and written by many people, both intelligent amateurs and professional horticulturists. Much of the material has appeared in that excellent magazine, 'The Gardeners' Almanac', published by the Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania Horticultural Societies. This book is designed for the use of amateurs and capital for that purpose. Over 100 pages of material are included in the partial A-Z of thirty-nine chapter headings includes garden features, rock gardens, perennials, ferns, bulbs, trees, shrubs, roses, sprays, herbs, wild flowers, vegetables, lawn construction, pools, bog gardens, covers, trees, evergreens, shrubs, winter protection, pruning, birds, winter window flower boxes, flower arrangement, garden beds, peats, garden calendar. The book contains special interests and is stimulated to write others. Another new book of interest to the readers deals with horticultural problems in a totally different way. Louis Van De Bie's 'Planning and Planting Your Own Garden' is a book that is not only about the land and grading and in an orderly fashion furnished with house, lawn, shrubs, trees, and flower boxes. In a book of this nature, the suggestions are suggestive rather than exhaustive, but for the person with the average small place the simplicity of the book is the great attraction. The book is a very practical book and the lists of trees, shrubs and flowers prescribe the best. The planting plan for five typical plots from several hundred feet square are suggestive. Photographs and drawings are plentiful.

The New County Re-Assessment

(This is the fifth of a series of six articles on the Nassau County Board of Assessors' work. The value of buildings throughout the county, the Board of Assessors' work, will find items on the record card that are beyond the specifications for Jones's house. A standard Class B dwelling, for example, has on bathroom. If a taxpayer has a bathroom, the assessor's record shows it has villages and a unit. When a land value map is assessed accordingly. The prior works from a table showing how much county it will be taken from an special area. Bankers, real estate brokers and other interested parties will be able to meet with the assessor's office to inspect the map and the class. When the pricing operation is decided for each village, the record cards are board's next task is to determine the value per front foot of the similar properties in various villages as a reviewer. The reviewer is, in order that qualified, an expert appraiser, one of the top-notch men in the Clemenstine organization, and his job is to check the classification of the buildings and the percentage of depreciation and obsolescence shown on the cards. If the reviewer has any doubts used for the computation of values by the price and value record. Under the re-assessment plan adopted by the county's new Board of Assessors, such information is being obtained to Assessors by the clerk, as accurately as possible, be completed by February 1.

New Streamlined 20th Century Limited Runs on First Trip Next Wednesday

New Train Has
Radios, Private
Combs, Telephone
Among Features

representing the fleet of fast streamlined trains which together make the new streamlined 20th Century Limited, world-famous train between New York Chicago, the New York Central system has put at the service of the public what is believed to be the most modern, distinctive and efficient equipment ever considered for railroad trains. These are the first all-room trains in 42 cars and 10 streamlined locomotives, constructed especially for operation between New York and Chicago. The greatest feature of the Water Level Route is the luxury in trapping the new and modern and Twentieth Century represents the maximum combined with the attention to detail.

Fastest Schedule
The new Century is operated on the fastest schedule ever made for service between the two cities—16 hours. This is less than the Century's 10-hour schedule when it went into service, 36 years ago on May 15, 1902, and four hours less than the schedule in effect in 1912.

The new Century flashes at 60 to 80 miles per hour, the Century's four track it appears like a sleek, gray, streamlined, the vestibule opening into each other, with the exterior unit of sight.
The interior unit is embedded in its unimpaired surface and by the dark band from the locomotive to the end of the last car, the window area. Further the streamlined appearance, the skirts curving bow the bodies, which conceal the heat, and air-conditioning machinery. At its head the streamlined Hudson steam locomotive, of unique design. A satin finished aluminum covering around the spherical end of the boiler, and the distinctly identifiable painted driving wheels set to its gray background.

Advanced Successor
The new Century, moderately priced into steel, is an advanced successor in every respect to the older Century which, because of its dignity, luxury and speed, has been the most successful generally as the best train in the world. Its it has been emphasized by its color and design; its interior is accented by rich, numerous innovations offer new comforts and conveniences.

Each train is made up of at least 13 units, with plans, furnishings and options for each, a simple scheme ties it together.
Observation to observation the exterior is in two tones—gray, tan and gray are used in appealing and in appealing tones and finishes, complementing the natural colors of woods, leathers and fabrics.
Three types of public cars—observation and dining cars, all of new and unusual design, created by Henry Dreyfus, America's foremost industrial designer, in cooperation with the New York Central Equipment Department, the Car Builder and Interior Manufacturers, Mr.
Dreyfus also designed the new Century's first streamlined train, "The Mercury," the first forerunner of the new Century's cars, which are all of new design, but with no open every passenger having a room, the colors and mat-terials were selected by Mr. Dreyfus to make the whole train a

Scouts Have
Their Day June 18

at Jones Beach
Monday, June 18, has been set as Girl Scout Day at Jones Beach State Park, when in-nearly 100 Scouts from Nassau County will take part in swimming, tennis, racing, sports, music, drum and bugle, corps competitions and other events.
The Jones Beach Girl Scout Council is sponsoring with the operation of the Long Beach State Park Commission. Trophies and prizes will be awarded by jury judges consisting of representatives of Nassau County.

AND LISTEN
The dogs in northwest are trained to keep a close lookout for trains wherever they run near railroads, and keep the sheep away from the rails when they hear an approaching locomotive.

Three of the distinctive giant Hudson type locomotives built for the new streamlined 20th Century Limited.

harmonious unit.
Each section of the new Century weighs about one-third less than previous standard equipment, with both provided with air-conditioning apparatus. This material reduction in weight, with no loss of strength or safety, has been obtained by the use of welded construction, using high tensile alloy steel throughout for the main structural portions of cars and aluminum alloys for such parts as floor supports, partitions and interior trim.

The use of tightlock couplers, in conjunction with Twin Cushion rubber draft gears, is a mechanical feature which makes possible the comfort in riding, inasmuch as the train stops and starts as a unit, with no uncontrolled slack between cars or between locomotive and cars. Yet the cars are not articulated, permitting a flexible make-up of the train in response to the needs of traffic.
Operation is also considerably quieter through the avoidance of metal to metal contact between moving parts at the ends of the cars. All axles run on roller bearings. The trucks, of latest improved design, have alloy steel springs and other features designed to promote maximum riding comfort to passengers under all conditions, particularly at high speeds.

Another notable feature of the new Century is its lighting system, which has been designed to give a maximum of light where it is needed most. All the lighting is soft and even; there is no glare.
Even in the observation car, as in the other cars, lens lights are provided over each seat, giving greater intensity where the passenger can use it best.

Telephone Hookup
The new Twentieth Century is the first main line train of varying consist to be equipped with an electric signal system. This reduces the time required to transmit, between the rear end of the train and the locomotive, signals for starting and stopping.

The train also is equipped with a telephone system which makes it possible for porters or other train employes to call the dining car from any other car, to make seating reservations or to order meals to be served in the rooms.
Radio equipment is arranged for the dining cars and in the lounge observation cars, with a permanent antenna on the car roof in each instance. In the dining car a 12-tube receiving set is arranged for hook-up with an automatic record changing phonograph, so that music of any desired type may be played during meals or at any other time when the radio is not in operation. Loud speakers are built into the walls at each end of the main dining section.
In the observation car a similar set, for radio use only, is installed, with loud speakers in the observation lounge compartment.

Large maps in color and scale locomotive models are among the Century's novel decorations.
In the semi-circular vestibule of the lounge car are two cases, recessed into the wall at each side of the door. In one is a scale model of the DeWitt Clinton, the first train operated in New York State, in 1831. In the other a model of the famous 999 locomotive, which on May 10, 1855, set a world record for speed of 112.5 miles per hour on the New York Central near Batavia, N. Y.

Inset in the bulkhead on each observation car compartment is a speedometer and an odometer.
At a glance passengers may know at any moment the speed at which the train is traveling and the distance it has covered.
At one end of the lounge is a fully equipped bar with display shelves of a new clear, plastic, material simulating glass. Copper light channels continue from the ceiling down the wall behind the bar, providing an unusual and interesting treatment. In this car is also located a barber shop, octagonal in shape, the corners of which are used for closets and cupboards. A color scheme of rust, gray and white makes this most attractive.

The dining cars, likewise, are novel in conception and charming in their formal arrangement. They have all-th atmosphere of a smart modern restaurant. In the center of each is a main dining section, with a smaller room at either end.
Kitchen and pantry are also incorporated in the car at one end.
For the first time, seating arrangements have been made flexible, so that an individual can be seated alone or parties of from two to five can be seated together.
The capacity of each car is 38.
