Three Students Visiting H.H.S.

The youngsters, shown here (left to right) with guidance counselors Ms. Plochochi and Mr. Quinn and Hicksville High School Principal Mr. Hogan, will be spending the entire school year in Hicksville living with local families and learning about life in America.

Three students from Sweden have joined the senior class at Hicksville High School this year and they are already caught up in many academic and extra-curricular activities.

Sven Schele, 18, from Gothenberg, is serving as assistant coach for the girls' tennis team and he will play on the boys' varsity team in the spring.

Maria Edlund, 17, hails from Sundsvall. She plays on the girls' soccer team and looks forward to skiing with the ski team.

Patrik Ericsson, 18, from Umea, is a member of the boys' cross-country team, and he is an officer of the German Club. He will also join the ski club this winter.

Library Offers Sunday Concert

The Hicksville Public Library is happy to present Cecilia Gniewek-Brauer in a concert on Sunday, October 26 at 3 p.m.

Cecilia Gniewek-Brauer began her studies at the age of nine. At fourteen she won a scholarship to study with Isabelle Vengerova at the Curtis Institute of Music. Later teachers included Muriel Kerr and Edwin Hughes.

She toured the U.S. as soloist and accompanist with the National Music League. She has given many concerts with her brother Raymond Gniewek, concert master of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, which have included the Caramoor and Newport Music Festivals, as well as Town Hall in New York City. She has been soloist with the North Shore Community Orchestra, the Hempstead Community Orchestra, L.I. Training Orchestra, the Merrick Symphony and an unprecedented five times with the Massapequa Symphony, now the Nassau Symphony. She has performed at numerous libraries, universities and also on WNYC and WQXR. She was recently made a Board Member of the YKAA and was instrumental in bringing together the YKAA and the Merrick Symphony who are sponsoring the winner of the Young Artists Division and their Concert Series.

She recently participated with the Artists Division of the Young Keyboard Artist's Association Competition and was judged one of the winners. She appeared on the Robert Sherman Listening Room Show, WQXR, speaking of her experiences.

She is at present a member of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra where she plays the celeste.

Mrs. Brauer is past president of the Friday Music Club, sponsors of the Young Artists Competition.

Cologne Heist Nets $285,000

The Second Squad reports the details of a trailer burglary that occurred in Plainview sometime between 6 p.m., October 9, and 6 p.m. October 13.

Someone broke into a trailer that was parked in the lot of Conservative Express Trucking, 105 Amfesco Dr., Plainview. They removed 1045 cases of Paco Rabonne cologne, retail value of $285,000.

The Second Squad is requesting anyone with information to contact the second squad, Det. Marino, and all calls will be kept confidential.

PTA Council Button Sale

Here's a button for your collection.

The Hicksville Council of PTAs is selling buttons which read, "Hicksville, New York. The Heart (symbol) of Long Island," for only $1. This is a fundraising event for the organization.

It's a delightful button for kids to wear; it's a great button for merchants to display; it's a super button for civic-minded individuals.

You can purchase your buttons through any public school PTA president or call Council Committee person, Joan Famiglietti at 935-6369.

Reorganization Appts. Made By Hicksville Bd.

Special to Mid Island Times
By Maureen Traxler

With a hint of eagerness to adjourn in order to see the fourth World Series Game and partake in Mets-mania, the Hicksville School Board held a swift, concise general meeting on Wednesday, October 22. Timely topics were tackled, though, including the district's reorganization program and budget considerations.

Upon recommendation of Superintendent Catherine Fenton, the Board unanimously appointed Marie Marshall, the district's Director of Cultural Enrichment, to the position of assistant principal at the new middle school, and Mary Sue Carr, Senior High School Physical Education and Health Chair, to the position of Coordinator of the High School Transitional Programs.

Mrs. Marshall will be assuming work with the planning committee for the middle school in the near future. Dr. Fenton's intent for the assistant principalship was temporary, and it is uncertain at this time how Mrs. Marshall's acceptance of this new task will effect her present one.

Mrs. Carr's position as Coordinator of High School Transition will take place more rapidly, and Mrs. Carr is expected to continue at her present job, while she expands her hours, receiving an additional stipend for her work as coordinator.

Board Vice President Thomas Nagle commented that he was very happy to see two highly-qualified, in-house administrators willing to step forward to assume positions in the district's reorganization plan.

The Superintendent announced that the next "update" workshop for the community on reorganization will take place on Wednesday, November 5, at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building. Dr. Conrad Toepfer, the consultant from SUNY at Buffalo who conducted the late September/early October community meetings, will again be present.

In the Finance Committee report, Mr. Nagle identified a budgetary shortfall of from $250,000 to near $400,000. Since the district finds itself facing a deficit in this year's budget, a 20% freeze on funds has been set, basically affecting equipment and supplies. Mr. Nagle said the freeze is "an attempt to slow everybody down and see if we really need these items." It was the trustee's opinion that the "best job will be done not to hurt programs, but to come out even with the deficit."

In accordance with budgetary procedures, Dr. Fenton presented her calendar for the 1987-88 budget. Her plans call for the presentation of the proposed budget at the January 28 public Board Meeting. The annual district-wide vote on next year's school budget will take place on May 6, 1987.

In light of the financial pressures facing the district at present, Dr. Fenton asked the Board to cancel all committee meetings, except Finance, on December 17 and January 21. The Board informally agreed with Dr. Fenton's recommendation and will hold a Committee of the whole on Finance on those two dates.

In the Superintendent's report to the Board, she also noted that the district has sent out letters to educational institutions announcing that beginning July 1, 1987 the district will have 3,800 square feet of space available for leasing at its present junior high school location. All leasing and approval of rentals will be subject to approval by the Board of Education.

Other committee reports included: The Policy Committee - The New York State Legislature has passed a law requiring buses manufactured after 1987 to be equipped with seat belts. The state left it up to districts to iron out their own compliance plans. The committee discussed the possibility of requiring all school buses to be equipped with seat belts. Since Dr. Fenton would need additional time to research this requirement, policy on use of seat belts was tabled.

The Committee also reviewed information concerning the requirements involved in having an absentee ballot for school board and budget vote elections--possible cost and the issues involved in conducting such a ballot. The subject will be discussed after receiving legal advice from the Board's attorney.

The Board approved a workbook, The Long Island Story, for use in the 4th Grade Social Studies classes; and approved the high school program of studies for 1987-88. (This will be the initial year for the 4-year high in the district.)

The next regular meeting of the Board will be held on Tuesday, November 25, at 8:15 p.m. in the Administration Building. Please note that this date was moved up, due to the Thanksgiving Holiday.

Girl Scouts Receive Awards

On September 28, at the 9:15 service of the United Methodist Church, Kelly De Clue and Tricia De Clue, Brownie Girl scouts received their religious award from Pastor Smeltzer.

Ruth De Clue, grandmother of the scouts who herself is a senior leader and has been in scouting 51 years worked with the girls and Pastor Smeltzer for two years to fulfill the requirements enabling them to receive the award.

This is a high honor indeed. All the Hicksville Community join together in wishing the girls all the best for many more years of scouting.

Pastor Smeltzer, Kelly Declue 3rd grade; Tricia Declue 2nd grade; Ruth Declue; presenting of religious award medal.

Hicksville Lions Hold Service Day

World Lions Service Day is the day when Lions Club conduct individual activities to demonstrate how they are linked in spirit and in service. This is not to be confused with the Lions Club activities that are conducted throughout the year.

On Wednesday, October 8 the members of the Hicksville Lions Club visited the Senior citizens at the Central Island Nursing Home in Plainview. They brought flowers to distribute courtesy of Peter Kenney Florist, and magazines courtesy of Dr. Paul Weber.

Lion Bruce Garry organized this activity when he said "On our next service day we have a great opportunity to touch a community that has been put aside by commitments, grief, time and self greed. Being alone is what we have in this nursing home community. A select group of this community are past members of various service groups. We would like you to devote some of your resources, such as your time. By doing this you will help these people become part of the whole community and feel needed."

At the Lions club meeting on Wednesday night October 8, President Peter Kenney declared this activity an overwhelming success.

News From Road Runners

A small but select crew from the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club successfully completed the 3rd annual "Point to 'View" 105 mile relay from Montauk Point to Plainview High School on Saturday, October 18.

POBRRC's Jim McDougall and Pat Mulrain started the first 5 mile leg from the Montauk Point Lighthouse at 1:30 a.m. 21 five mile legs later, after a scenic tour through Long Island's south shore, the last leg was completed with a ¼ mile lap around the Plainview High School track. The run was completed in the record-breaking time of 14 hours, 28 minutes.

Special congratulations are due to everyone who participated: Jim McDougall, Pat Mulrain, Andy Mulrain, Steve Attias, Gina Gelman, Barry Saltsberg, Sue Polansky, Ray Kellogg, David Ornstein, Robyn Ornstein, Erica Gassen, Alexandra Finger, Michael Davidson, Irene Robinson, Curt Robinson, Joe Rottino, Roger Loberto and Sam Zinn.

Thanks go to Sue Polansky, Ray Kellogg and Jim McDougall for providing the vans used as a support vehicle, and to Michael Davidson for hosting the traditional post-relay party.

Hicksville Express Wins 4-3

The Hicksville Express, an intramural soccer team, beat their competition, the Hicksville Rowdies, in a tough 4-3 contest last week.

Leading the team was Michael Baglieri who scored three goals, including one on a rebound from a penalty kick. Scoring, too, was Tracy Koetter on a line drive shot.

The remainder of the offense, who continually hustled and never gave up, was Michael Bernius, Chris DeStefano, Matthew Hamlin, Bryan Lagos and Brian Swacey. The defense, who hung tough thoughout the game, was Robin Blicker, Matthew DePalma in goal, Joey Zaffuto, John Kurkowski and Joey Miniacci.

Congratulations, Express, on a very exciting soccer game. Special thanks to Coach Steve Baglieri and Assistant Lenny DeStefano for your encouragement and guidance.

'Godspell' At Holy Trinity H.S.

BOCES Student Wins Honors

Barbara Ballstreet, left, of Hicksville and Cheryl Adamo, right, were members of a team of Nassau Tech students who won a prestigious National Safety Council Award.

Barbara Ballstreet, a senior at Hicksville High School, is a member of a team of six BOCES Nassau Tech students who have won a prestigious Award of Honor from the National Safety Council. Only sixteen such awards are being given nationwide.

The students, all enrolled last year in Nassau Tech's Large Animal Care program, submitted a project called "No Nonsense Horse Sense." Inspired by last year's tragic fire at Belmont Racetrack, the project included student-developed pamphlets, flyers, telephone labels, bumper stickers, crossword puzzles and other materials on the theme of safety. Their goal was to distribute such materials to all stables in the county.

Approximately 6,000 safety projects were prepared for competitions held by various national youth organizations, such as Future Farmers of America, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, Girl Scouts and 4H. Approximatealy 150 were passed on to the National Safety Council for consideration.

The sixteen Award of Honor winners-the highest category-were judged on a number of criterja. "One of the most important was community outreach," says Donna Siegfried, a technical specialist with the Council. "Others included whether the projects met the objectives the students set for themselves and the results of what they did."

Woodland Ave. Holds Open House

Open house was held at Woodland Avenue School in Hicksville on Tuesday evening, October 7. Parents of the elementary school children were invited to visit their children's classrooms and meet their teachers.

Classrooms and halls, which were wonderfully decorated with the children's special projects, art work and completed assignments, were proudly viewed by Woodland parents.

After visiting the classrooms, parents and teachers were invited to enjoy coffee and donuts supplied by the Woodland Avenue PTA.

Woodland Avenue teachers, students and their principal, Dr. Manus Clancy, deserve a special commendation for making their school one to be proud of. Their work showed tremendous effort and achievement.

Mr. Steve Ocuto, parent of Michael in Mrs. Meyer's 4th grade class, views students' peace projects.

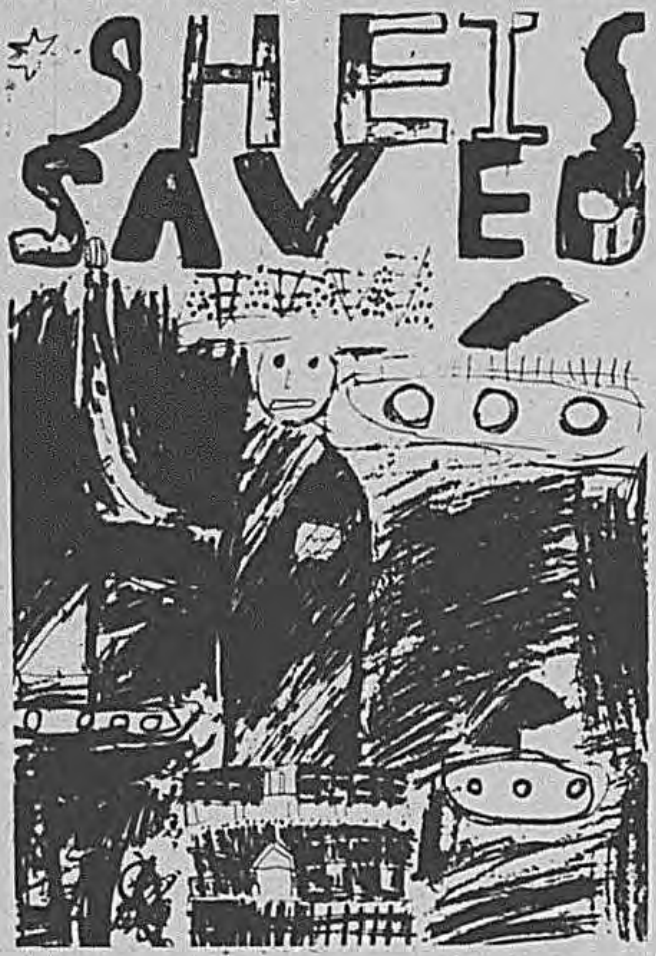

Mrs. Joyce Beinert and Mrs. Sakina Masters, parents of Michael and Shabana in Mrs. Starnes 5th grade class, view the computer on which students are learning keyboarding.

Parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hoffman, Mrs. Terry Janicky and Mr. Michael Rooney enjoy coffee and donuts.

Statue Of Liberty Poster Contest

This past summer the Statue of Liberty celebrated a very special 100th Birthday. In celebration of this most historic event Hicksville children were invited to make a poster depicting the Statue of Liberty and its significance to America. Many posters were received and displayed on the walls of the Library. The poster above, drawn by Neal Kappenborg, a third grader, is just an example of the children's artistic handiwork.

Among the new faculty members in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department at Nassau Community College this year are from left, Thomas Schumacher of Hicksville and John Anselmo. Both have previous experience as members of the adjunct faculty. Anselmo, who also teaches at Freeport High School, will have additional duties at Nassau as assistant football coach.

Unity Sunday-One Family in Christ: St. Ignatius Parish welcomes parishioners one Sunday a month with coffee, cake and fellowship from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. All are invited to stop in at the new school cafeteria to meet your neighbors. Unity Sunday on October 12 was a big success. Pictured is Father Harrer meeting parishioner Mrs. Mary Walden. Our next Unity Sunday will be November 9. Why not stop in?

Bethpage Woman Apptd. Case Mgr.

Jayne Delano of Bethpage has been appointed to the position of Case Manager for the Education Assistance Center's Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime (TASC) program in Queens.

TASC links the criminal justice system with drug or alcohol treatment programs. The TASC model involves placing the drug or alcohol abusing offender into treatment at the request of the court system, then monitoring his or her progress. The use of TASC has been proven effective in reducing re-arrests for persons who successfully complete the program.

TASC is one of a variety of human service programs operated by EAC, which has offices in Nassau and Suffolk counties, Staten Island and Queens. The agency specializes in programs that assist persons experiencing difficulties with the criminal justice and/or education systems.

Ms. Delano holds a Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice from C.W. Post College. Prior to assuming the position with Queens TASC, she worked as a Case Manager at Nassau TASC.

Midland Civics Hold First Meeting

By Gert Paul

The Midland Civic Association held its first meeting of the new season at the Willet Avenue School on Wednesday, October 15, at 8 p.m. The meeting was somewhat delayed due to the heart-stopping Mets play-off which ended about 7:55, but members hurried in soon after. About 125 families have already joined this year, and we look forward to more. In the absence of President Larry Weinstraub, the meeting was chaired by Ellie Dragcott in her usually competent and charming manner.

The Speaker for the evening was Police Officer Jerry Hurmaren, a member of the Community Relations Division of the Nassau County Police Department. It was frightening to hear how available drugs are in our area and our schools, and how difficult a problem this is to solve. He described the many drugs being used, especially the highly popular drug known as "crack". He passed a sample vial of crack around the room in a vial slightly larger than a cold capsule. He stressed parental and community vigilance. It was an interesting and informative talk and there were very many questions asked.

Connie Steers, chairman of the committee to install Korean and Vietnam Memorials on November 11 made a poignant appeal for donations so that the memorials could be installed in time. He stressed that much of the funds have already been raised, and a small donation from Hicksville Citizens would put it over the top.

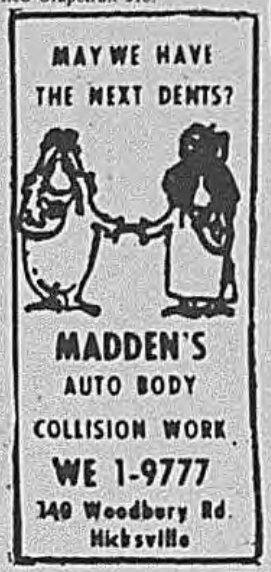

The Beautification Committee has been hard at work and a separate report on its progress will be submitted soon.

Last Chance To Purchase Fruit

Do you want to bring sunshine into your life? There's still time to purchase citrus fruits from Florida through the Hicksville Junior and Senior High School PTSAs. The oranges and grapefruits will arrive in time for Thanksgiving.

Orders will be taken through November 1, so why not take a moment right now and order these delicious snacks. You also support the PTSAs. Following is the price list: Full case Oranges-Navel (seedless, sectional, great to eat!) $18; half case Oranges-Navel $11.50; Full case Oranges-Juice (perfect for juice; not sectional) $15; Half case Oranges-Juice $10; Full case Rosy Red Grapefruit-$15; Half case Rosy Red Grapefruit $10.

On Hicksville Schools

Special to Mid Island Times
By Valerie Paksiuk

Schools and education in Hicksville will be highlighted in this special series beginning this week in the Mid Island Times.

The first public school was built in 1853 by public subscription at a cost of $400. The ground was donated by John F. Heitz who with E. H. Languillette, served as the school's first trustees. Known as the "Little Red School House" it was located on East Nicholai Street which later became the quarters of Nicholai Street School. (This will be covered in the next installment.)

Three graduates of the school, Henry A. Kuhl, Henry C. Stolz and John H. Hahn wrote a paper describing their impressions of school days during the Civil War. The composition has become a well-known account of the first public school building in Hicksville and has been copied many times. This particular version was done by Doris Small. The original paper was written in May of 1925.

Hicksville Had Its Little Red School

This building was located on the south side of East Nicholai Street, on about the center of the plot on which the present school house now stands. It was erected in 1853.

It was as you notice, a one story frame structure, containing one room with a nine foot ceiling, a shingle roof and a rough ten inch clapboard siding painted red.

The size of the building was 20x28 feet. It contained seven windows, three on the south side, three on the north side, one on the west side and none on the east side.

The building faced the west. One entered through a porch or lobby about eight feet square from the south side, this being the only entrance.

There were no windows in this lobby, on two sides were shelves on which dinner pails were kept, below the shelves coats and hats were hung on wooden pegs. We entered the school room from the lobby and walked down the center aisle to our respective seats.

At the extreme east end of the room was the teacher's desk, and it was a wide and long affair, elevated about a foot or more above the floor, and looked very much like our grandmother's cupboard, as it had cupboard doors and shelves.

However, in this desk or cupboard the teacher kept all the school belongings, one of the compartments, being large enough to hold a wayward boy at times, which it did on numerous occasions. It being rather a gloomy place for a boy, he would amuse himself with the aid of his jack knife, by gouging holes, through which he could get a clear view of the school room. These peek holes were not discovered by the teacher for quite some time, the work on them or the cutting, being done while the teacher was absent from his desk. These holes could hardly be noticed from the outside as all the gouging or cutting was done from the inside and the size of the hole decreased to almost the size of a pin hole.

The walls and ceiling of the school room were boarded with four inch wide tongue and groove beaded pine boards about 7-8 inches thick and painted a medium grey color.

A map of the United States and a cleated black board about 4x6 feet decorated the east wall.

The seats or benches as they were, had no back rests to them. They were about eight feet in length, made of a 10 inch pine board, supported by three legs or supports, one in the middle and one at each end. They were made of the same width board with a V cut in the lower part.

The desks or books and slate rests were the same length as the benches, one end of them nailed fast to the wall and were made of a 10 inch pine board, with a cleat nailed at the bottom to prevent the books and slates from slipping off. This board was on an angle of about 45 degrees, and on top of this board was a flat four inch strip, with two inch back stop. On this flat surface was kept the ink bottle, slate rag, slate pencils and pins, and a small bottle of water for cleaning the slates in case of the pupils ran out of spittle.

There were twelve of these desks and benches, six on each side of the aisel which was about five feet wide. There were also four smaller sets of desks and benches at the east end of the room, placed lengthwise of the room, about five feet in length, two on each side of the teacher's desk. These four sets were used by the smaller attendants.

The flooring was single boarded with 10 inch wide tongue and groove pine about one inch thick and layed crosswide of the room. Knots had dropped out in some parts of the floor thus affording an opportunity to fish for mice, which was often done, with a piece of string and pins baited with some left over lunch.

Oh my! how the girls would scream when a mouse was caught, and if the catch caused too much excitement, we would have to let go the line, bait and all, in order to clear ourselves as it was against the order of things to fish for mice during school hours. The mice surely had a right of way in the little red school house, as there was nothing to molest them under the floor between the walls and the ceiling was their playground. These mice were well fed, the dinner pails usually containing much more than the consumer would consume and the mice would find the left overs somewhere about the place.

Lunch hour was always a very enjoyable time. On the cool days some would sit on the old wood box, on the south side of the building, laugh, sing and exchange part of each others lunch.

"Swapping" lunch was a common practice, brought about by an idea that the other fellow's mother's cake, pie and biscuits tasted much better than did his own. They would gamble a bit when they happened to have boiled eggs as part of their lunch, by "butting ends" as the saying went, and the other fellow would have to come across if his egg did not stand the test.

Some times after lunch was over, the pupils looking for amusement would play "drop the handkerchief" and "kiss in the ring" with the girls, providing the boys promised not to be too rough. After assuring them on that point, all would go well till some fool fellow happened to do something and put the whole thing "on the Fritz."

Then the boys would have to resort to a game of their own, such as "snap the whip" or "bull in the ring" and how some of those corn fed "bulls" would try to get out of the ring.

The heating plant consisted of a combination wood and coal burner stove. It got away with very much more wood than coal. This stove stood in the middle of the room, the stove pipe running to the extreme last end to a chimney located behind the teacher's desk. The stove pipe was suspended from the ceiling by wires.

There was no cellar under the building. The fuel supply consisted of cord word and very little coal. The sawed wood was kept with the coal, in a locked box on the south side of the building. The saw buck, buck saw and ax were also kept in the box. The cord wood was on the outside for the boys to take their regular morning setting up constitutional.

The janitor work was done by the boys, each taking their turn after school hours, when the brooms wore out and new ones were required, the trustees would call a special meeting to unanimously vote for a new supply. The school books, etc. were bought by the children, slate rags were furnished from home, fresh and clean, but they became highly perfumed things at school, unless the mothers world insisted on taking clean slate rags every morning.

The slate pencils were of the hard substance and often very scratchy. To possess a white soapstone slate pencil was some luxury. The mothers covered the school books with bright small figured calico or gingham and the names were written in the books. The boys carved names on the wood rim of the slate, and on the benches and desks if they got half a show.

All the boys possessed a jack knife, in fact, they had to have one in order to sharpen their slate pencils, and they always took great pride in keeping their jack knives sharp. When sharp, it was very little trouble for them to make a pop-gum from an elderberry stick or a whistle from a willow branch. Some of the boys owned two knives or "toad stikers" as they called them, usually the poorer knife was used to play "mumble-peg" or they would be swapped for marbles; a bull's eye marble would command a fairly good jack knife.

The wooden rimmed slates and the sharpening of the scratchy slate pencils made quite a clatter, bound edged slates being unknown at that time.

The school house bell was a large brass hand bell, such as the butcher and baker would use when making their deliveries. When it was time to open school, the teacher or one of the boys or girls would appear to ring the bell.

They had no truant officer, but woe to the lad who played hookey, and there was no compulsory education law "sorry to say." There was a very slim attendance at school during the year with the exception of the midwinter months. Many children were kept at home to help about the place during the spring, summer and fall of the year, and after the harvesting was done in the fall, school was the next consideration until the following first of March or April.

Vacation came the month of August and it was nothing much to look forward to, as they had vacation more or less all the time.

To send children to school late, or only one or two days each week was a general occurance, thus causing a hardship for both the teacher and the pupil.

The water system consisted of a wooden pail and a long handled tin dipper. This combination stood on a box in the northwest corner of the lobby and we all drank from the same dipper.

If the pupils did not consume all of the water the dipper contained, back it went into the pail, dipper and all, and if by chance a spider or a fly chanced to take a drink, there were no restrictions on them. If the water pail ever had a cover, it was unknown to us.

These highly respected citizens were born in Hicksville and attended the Little Red School House which was located on East Nicholai Street. They also penned the vivid description of school days back in the 1800's.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Wallace. First school teacher in public schools here and his wife.

Twice daily went the old wooden pail carried on a notched stick to "Sevin's Well" there to be filled with crystal pure water drawn up in an old oaken bucket from the eighty foot well.

Sometimes the rope would slip the wheel or a link would part in the chain. Often the boys would try to make the bucket lose its connections and remain at the bottom and then in high glee get the grappling iron and fish for it.

Usually two of the strong armed boys would be delegated to this job of getting the water, and they would have to be very cute if they intended killing time, as the teacher was on to all the tricks. As the view was not obstructed from the school house to "Sevin's Well" very little tardiness could be displayed by the boys, as the teacher kept his eyes on them as well as on the classroom, and woe to the boy who did not walk the straight and narrow path at all times, that rule applied in and out of school. It was not an unusual thing for a boy to be called up and held to account for misconduct after school hours. The teacher surely knew how to use the whalebone rod at the right time and in the right place, and there was no such thing as looking for sympathy at home either. It was always deemed advisable never to enter a complaint in that respect as the parents looked to the teacher as a capable person, qualified to conduct a school and command respect at all times.

The first teacher engaged to teach at the little red school house, was a Mr. Hicks, assisted at times by a Miss Annie Dicken. They only served for a short time and were succeeded by a stern Scotchman by the name of Stephen Wallace, who taught for a number of years.

John F. Heitz and Earnest H. de-Languillette, were the first trustees, succeeded later by William Freitag, John Quartitius, George Wetterau, John Douch and others.

Too much credit cannot be given these gentlemen for starting the foundation which led to our present Union Free School System.

Skating Party A St.IgnatiusSuccess

The 3rd annual St. Ignatius Skating Party held at United Skates in Massapequa and sponsored by the Parents Association was an unqualified success according to Gloria Arbia and Agnes Quinn, executives of the Parents Association. Children their parents and relatives and friends enjoyed the festive atmosphere and fast-paced action during the three-hour evening. The parents Association hopes you will all join in on the next fun-filled evening on the calendar--the 3rd annual Bowling Party at Woodbury Lanes on Saturday, November 8, at 10:30 p.m. Tickets, $10.00. Giese Park Civics Meeting

The Giese Park Civic Association will hold its regular monthly membership meeting on Monday October 27 at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of the Hicksville Library.

Scheduled topics for discussion will include an update on the Giese Park issue and the petition to rezone a parcel of land by Robert Chevrolet. In addition, Ms. Barbara Nelson, Executive Director of the Hicksville Youth Council, is scheduled to attend and discuss the possible formation of a Neighborhood Watch Program. A spokesman for the association has stated that the implementation of such a program would certainly contribute to a more secure community. Also, the meeting will include nominations of officers for 1987 and therefore important for all members to attend.

As always all interested parties are welcome to attend and any further information can be obtained by contacting Tom or Fran McGovern at 938-7309.

Legion Dance

Over 200 Legionaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Vietnam Veterans, their spouses and friends crowded the Nicholai Street clubhouse of the Charles Wagner Post 421, Hicksville for last week's Past Commanders' and Past Auxiliary Presidents' Dance. It was a "last hurrah" in its forty-year clubhouse, for the members of the Hicksville Legion who will be meeting in the future in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post premises. The long familiar clubhouse has been sold. But Harry Christo, the Post Commander assured the large turnout to honor Charles Wagner Post's past leaders that the Hicksville American Legion Post will retain its charter and be even more active in its programs to help veterans, to promote child welfare activities and to help sustain patriotic values in the community.

Betty and John Kerrian relax from the dancing at last week's Hicksville American Legion Past Commanders' and Past Auxiliary Presidents' Dinner.

Long-time Legion member and a past post commander, attorney Anthony Correri and his helpmate, Louise, are enjoying the evening.

Greg Bennett, Post Sergeant-at-Arms, Julie Surico and two Past Commanders of the Amityville Sons of the Legion, Wayne and Chris Winkleston are a merry quartet at the Legion's last clubhouse dance.

Guests from various Nassau posts were on hand to close out forty years of Charles Wagner Post American Legion socials at the Legion clubhouse. Past Nassau County Commander Gene Box of the Bayville Legion Post and Judith Yanotti were honored guests.

Among the younger set who played and marched in the Legion's junior band, the well-remembered Bellcaires, 20 years ago, and reuniting at the Past Commanders' Dinner are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Petry.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bove know the Charles Wagner Post clubhouse dance floor very well. Here they enjoy the music one last evening in the American Legion Hall.

Named Outstanding Young American

Michael Pakaluk, formerly of Hicksville, has been selected as one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America" for 1986.

Young men between the ages of 21-36 are nominated for selection based on their demonstration of excellence in professional endeavors and civic activities.

Michael, son of Michael and Valerie Pakaluk, graduated from Hicksville High School in 1975, from Harvard University in 1979, and spent two years as a Marshall Scholar studying at Edinburgh University, Edinburgh, Scotland. He is presently a Ph.D. candidate in Philosophy at Harvard.

He and his wife, Ruth, reside in Cambridge, Massachusetts, with their three children Michael, Maximilian and John Henry.

Tighter Controls Over Rooming Houses

The Oyster Bay Town Board has amended the Code of Ordinances to more clearly define the regulations regarding land and building usage as they pertain to boarding and rooming houses, according to Town Councilman Angelo A. Delligatti.

"The Town Board has established criteria for lot size and habitable area for boarding and rooming houses, which are permitted in "D" and "E" residence districts," Delligatti said. "The Board also made provisions for inspections of these facilities."

The Board set the minimum lot size for a boarding house or a rooming house in either a "D" or "E" residence district at 12,000 square feet. The minimum habitable area of the dwelling cannot be less than 2,000 square feet, and the dwelling may not cover more than 25 percent of the lot. There must be one person who resides on the premises who rents or leases the entire premises.

The Board also stipulated that there will be at least one annual inspection of all boarding houses in the Town by inspectors from the Town's Department of Planning and Development. Additional inspections may be conducted if deemed necessary.

A Majority of One

BY ASSEMBLYMAN LEWIS J. YEVOLI

Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli and Mario V. Colleluori, Chairman of the Taxpayers' Union of Long Island, charged Town Officials with "withholding millions of dollars in surpluses from the Town's unsuspecting taxpayers and called for the adoption of an honest budget that would reduce taxes, not raise taxes."

The state legislator and the taxpayer advocate made their remarks to Town officials at Tuesday evenings (10/21/86) preliminary budget hearing. Colleluori said, "Oyster Bay will have a $34 million surplus at the end of this year in the General Fund and the Garbage District but a total of only $10.5 million is being used to offset taxes while $23.5 is being withheld from the taxpayers for no reason-that's irresponsible!" Yevoli continued, "To add insult to injury, the average Oyster Bay homeowner (house assessed at $7,000), will be forced to pay another $174 in Town property taxes next year if this bloated budget is adopted."

Colleluori, a 20 year veteran of local budget proceedings whose expertise in municipal finances has been acknowledged by the County Executive and members of the Board of Supervisors said, "The 1987 Oyster Bay Budget is a fiscal obscenity; our neighboring townships like Hempstead, North Hempstead, and Huntington, accumulate year-end surpluses of 7%-10% which is normal. Oyster Bay's is 60% and they refuse to use the bulk of it to reduce the tax rate!" Yevoli added, "This practice of overtaxing unsuspecting residents, accumulating huge surpluses and refusing to return the money to the taxpayers has been criticized in every audit issued by the State Comptroller's office. Colleluori said, State Comptroller Edward Regan and his predecessor Arthur Levit have told the Town these extraordinary surpluses should be used to decrease taxes or if necessary, expand services to our residents-our Town officials have completely ignored these recommendations."

Yevoli then questioned Town officials about the newly created Division of Human Resources which is budgeted at a cost of more than $600,000 for 1987. Frederick Ippolito, who is under investigation by the Nassau County District Attorney's office, has been named to the new Commissioner's post which pays $65,000 annually, and Town Supervisor Joe Colby's son-in-law's appointment to the $64,000 a year Deputy Commissioner's slot have created a public furor. Yevoli said, "There is absolutely no need whatsoever for this new department, and paying a political cronie and a relative combined salaries of $129,000 per year for useless positions is an insult to every taxpayer in the Town.

Colleluori said, "Ninety percent of the accumulated year-end surplus should be earmarked to reduce the 1987 tax rate. If our Town officials did this they could eliminate the entire General Fund levy, offset the tax hike in the Garbage District and still have a $3 million surplus on hand for unforseen expenditures-tht would be fiscally responsible." Yevoli urged the Town Board to adopt Mr. Colleluori's proposal and other cost cutting alternatives. He said, "It's time you took your hands out of the taxpayers' pockets and adopted an honest budget-one without extraordinary unapporopriated surpluses and unnecessary jobs for friends and relataives. You have an opportunity to provide a long overdue tax reduction to Town residents-to do anything other than that would be unconscionable." The Board reserved their decision on the adoption of the 1987 Town Budget.

Any information you would like concerning the Town's surplus and ability to use it to reduce taxes will gladly be furnished to you upon request by contacting Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli at (516) 822-3301 or 3303.

Masks and the men behind them have for centuries merged together to portray the myths and legends of their cultures.
Their interpretations of spirits and beliefs are reflected through the creating of these masks of wood, clay skin, or metals. Ornate, colorful, grotesque or abstract, they are recognized today as works of art.
In an effort to widen understanding of diverse cultures through this art the Hicksville Gregory Museum, Heitz Place, will have an exhibit entitled "Mythical, Magical Masks", from October 12 through November 30. Museum hours: Tuesday to Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; weekends 1 to 5 p.m.; closed Mondays. For more information call 822-7505.

Hilary Sperber, instrumental music teacher and Junior High School band director in the Hicksville Union Free School District, has been elected membership chairperson of the 750 member Nassau Music Educators Association for the 1986-87 school year.

Ms. Sperber has been a member of the NMEA Board for six years. The Nassau Music Educators Association is a professional organization whose purpose is the improvement of music education in the schools of Nassau County. Its principal activities include holding county-wide festivals for music students and sponsoring workshops for music teachers. It is the county arm of the New York State School Music Association.

War Monuments Dedication Nov. 11

In formal ceremony on Veterans Day, November 11, Hicksville will unveil and dedicate memorials to the men and women of the community who served or lost their lives in the Korean War and in the Southeast Asian conflict. The ceremony will begin at 9:45 instead of 10 a.m. as previously announced and will be followed by the traditional Veterans Day service immediately after, culminating in the veterans' rifle salute and "Taps" at 11 a.m.

Participating in the unveiling and solemn dedication ceremony will be: leaders and members of Hicksville veterans posts and their auxiliaries: Reverend clergy of the community's churches and temples, and several speakers, including Conrad Steers, President of the Nassau Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of American and the Chairman of the Hicksville Veterans Monument Fund Drive which is still raising erection funds from the public.

Congressional Medal of Honor holder George Lang, who attended Hicksvillle schools and served in the U.S. Army in Vietnam, will be among the distinguished guests present. Among the speakers will be William Bennett, President of the Board of Education, who served in Korea. The program coordinator, Richard Evers, is pleased to announce, as well, that students from the National Honor Societies and the Senior Class officers of both the Hicksville Senior and Junior High Schools will participate. The President of the High School Honor Society, Jeff Fried, will speak on behalf of the Hicksville student body.

Invitations are being extended to the parents of all known Korean and Vietnam, War casualties now residing in or near Hicksville, and all "Gold Star" families are cordially invited to be present for this tribute to their fallen heroes.

The ceremonies will be held at the Hicksville War Memorials Site, the south end of the Junior High School, Jerusalem Avenue and Fourth Street, and will begin at 9:45. Participants in the program are asked to be present at least by 9:30. In the event of rain, the dedication ceremonies will be held in the Junior High School auditorium.

St. Ignatius CYO News

By Nancy Cassano

On Thursday, October 16, CYO held its regular monthly meeting. A number of parents attended the meeting which delighted CYO president Andy Rutherford.

A variety of topics needed to be discussed with the 1987 season almost upon them. Among them were the thoughts of expanding the sports presently offered by the CYO. Officials would like to see the sports of track and soccer added to the present program. They would also like to enlarge the girls program. They feel that the above mentioned programs can materialize with parent participation.

Parent participation. A major topic discussed at previous meetings now has become mandatory in order to register your child in the CYO programs. If you plan to register your child in CYO for the '87 season, you must be prepared to participate in some form in the CYO program yourself. Participation can be as little as being a phone parent. But, you must do something!

Committees are now being formed and CYO officials expect them to be filled if the 1987 season is to run smoothly. To participate on the committee of your choice, you can contact Andy Rutherford at 935-5377 after 6 p.m., or you can come to the CYO meetings held every third Thursday of the month in the basement of the school at St. Ignatius.

On a lighter note, Basketball season is upon us and teams are now being formed. If your child is participating in the sport this season, you should be contacted by your coach by the end of this week. If your child wants to play and missed registration, please contact Vito Cassano at 935-0339 so your child can be placed on a team.

Scouts Welcome New Leaders

On Wednesday evening October 8, adult girl scouts from the Hicksville Community came together to welcome new leaders to our community.

Joanne Helmus, membership development director for the community invited all leaders present to form a hourseshoe with the open end toward the table where the candle lighting ceremony would take place. Brownie consultants Marie Stein and Martha Mueller called up each new leader and presented her with her girl scout pin and leader bar. Following this, the leaders old and new were asked to re-dedicate themselves to the high standards of girl scouting by lighting a candle for each part of the Girl Scout promise and law.

The Hicksville community is proud of the dedicated leaders and service team personnel that give so lovingly of their time to help our girls grow into fine women.

P.O. Expands Local Service

"Window service hours have been extended until 2 p.m. on Saturdays at the main office at 185 West John Street, the Plainview office at 1066 Old Country Road and the Old Bethpage office at 696 Old Bethpage Road," said Roger Nienaber, Hicksville Division General Manager/Postmaster. "The Postal Service is changing to meet our customer's needs. Accessibility and convenience as well as service are what we, in the Postal Service, are striving to offer the public," said Mr. Nienaber.

In addition to expanding window hours, a new stamp vending machine and a $5 and $1 change machine have been installed on the outside wall of the Plainview Post Office for 24 hour service. A stamp vending machine has also been installed in Old Bethpage and is available during lobby hours from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday and 6 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

The main post office lobby in Hicksville is open 24 hours, seven days a week. Stamp vending and change machines are located in the lobby. An Express Mail window is open til 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

New Rules Made On Fireworks

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved amending a portion of the Code of Ordinances, pertaining to explosives and firearms, which will require anyone requesting a permit to conduct a fireworks display within the Town to demonstrate to the Town Clerk that they have the approval, in writing, of the Nassau County Police Department-Bomb Squad and an indemnity insurance policy, according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"An amended second section of the Ordinance establishes eighteen (18) rules and regulations for safety and guidelines that must be observed by the individual conducting the fireworks display," Hogan noted.

A public hearing on this matter was held on Tuesday, October 7.

Two Arrested For Burglary

The Second Squad reports the arrest of two subjects for two robberies that occurred overnight in Nassau County.

At 1:15 a.m., on October 11, a motorist, Cazimer Sholzodpole, 39, of Hempstead, was robbed at knife point of $40 by a female. The robbery took place at West Shore Road and Mill Hill Road, Oyster Bay. After the robbery, the female escaped to an awaiting auto, driven by a male accomplice.

At 1:35 a.m., a stranded motorist, 20 year old Joseph Hovarth of Monticello, N.Y. was robbed at knife point of $90 on 16th St., Hicksville. He gave the responding officers a description of the subjects. They were arrested at 2:20 a.m. at Old Country Road and Charlotte Avenue, Hicksville, by P.O. Ed Scholman.

The subjects were identified as Deborah Armentano, 36, 19 1st. st., Bayville, and Joseph Brintz, 37, 28 Julian St., Hicksville.

Shamrocks Enjoy Winning Weekend

By A. Blicker

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 boys travelling soccer team had a great weekend, holding the Levittown Tigers to a 1-1 tie and defeating Rockville Centre Rebels 3-2 the following day.

Saturday was a day of total Shamrock domination as the team scored early. Halfback David Lovato headed the ball to striker Eric Blicker who, in turn, headed it to left wing Junior Tomlinson for the goal. Hicksville had over 30 shots on goal but the ball just wouldn't go in. At the other end, goalie Ed Jacobsen had a very strong game as the Tigers only goal was scored on an unreachable shot.

Sunday was a day, again, where the Shamrocks controlled the game but this time, the ball was more cooperative. The game opened with a perfect corner kick by wing Jason Kingsley which was headed in by striker Chris Koetter, making his first start on offense, following five impressive games at sweeper. Nearing the end of the first half, halfback Brian Pine controlled the ball in a melee at the net and passed it to wing Eric Blicker, who put it in.

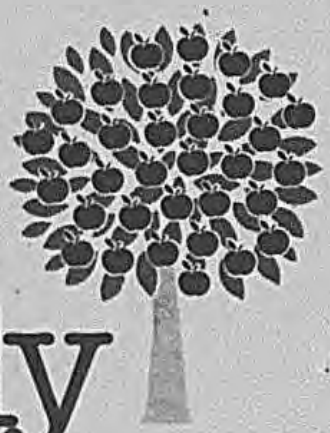

In the second half, the Shamrocks scored on a beautiful feed by wing Karl Rice to wing Eric Blicker. Chris Doyle played a fine wing during both games before moving to sweeper in the second half of the RVC game. He was total domination, with outstanding, booming kicks to his halfbacks. Chris Friedrich played great fullback both days, especially using his speed to cut down the opponents charges. Brian Harkins was at his offensive and defensive best at stopper, roaming far and wide to control the ball; his game is hustle, and he never stops. Ed Jacobsen played strong goal in both games, moving to striker for the last 15 minutes of the Sunday game. Jason Kingsley never stopped hustling, from wing, striker and halfback, with numerous shots on goal, alert passes and booming corner kicks. David Lovato, at left half, couldn't be stopped by the opposition, constantly breaking up plays with fine tackling followed by crisp passes to his teammates.

Chuck Oliver, who gets better each week, was total force at fullback and sweeper, both days, making outstanding use of his superior tackling ability, fantastic speed and booming kicks. Domenick Perillo, ill on Saturday, bounced back on Sunday for some great halfback play. Brian Pine played a very impressive halfback both days and finished Sunday's game in goal. Matthew Pordum, our centerfielder at center half, always was in the thick of the play to make things happen and generate ball action. Karl Rice had a fine game at full, half and wing on Saturday and was a dynamo at fullback and wing against Rockville Centre, making good use of his great speed and ball control. Greg Szumowski made his presence felt at fullback both days, especially with accurate lead passes to his halfbacks. Chris Koetter was a rock at sweeper against Levittown and in total control as striker on Sunday. Junior Tomlinson used his speed, agility and hustle with impressive results on wing, both days.

Congratulations to Coach Herb Pordum and Assistant Glenn Kingsley, Jr., for their help and encouragement. Congrats, too, to this Hicksville team for their courage and determination.

Celebrations Brass To Perform Here

A performance by Celebrations Brass on Sunday, November 2, at the Hicksville Public Library, will be the fourth program in the 1986-87 "Distinguished Artists Concerts" series, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman John Venditto.

The concert, which is being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Department of Community Services, will be held at the library, 169 Jerusalem Avenue, beginning at 3 p.m. For further information, contact CAPA at 795-5943.

"Celebrations Brass is part of a larger ensemble called Celebrations, which has performed throughout New York and New England in concert halls, schools and churches since 1975," Venditto stated. "The members have diverse musical backgrounds including performance, teaching and music therapy, which enable them to present fine music in a variety of styles."

Selections for this concert will include "fugue in G Minor" by Bach, a medley from "American Brass Journal" by Friederich, the quartet from Verdi's "Rigoletto" and "The Nonpareil" by Scott Joplin.

Venditto noted that the concert is being supported by grants from the Long Island Savings Bank, Apple Bank for Savings and Cablevision.

Adult Jewish Studies Program

The Institute of Adult Jewish Studies has announced its program for courses to be held at two local temples during the 1986-87 academic year.

Fall lectures every Monday evening will be held at the Midway Jewish Center, 330 S. Oyster Bay Road, Syosset. Beginning October 20, speakers will include Wolf Blitzer, Evelyn Pike, Miriam Shapiro, Allan Gould, Dr. Yitschak, Ben Gad, Arthur Kurzweill, Avi Weiss, Mark Winer and Andre Ungar. Their topics are of broad and diverse interest, ranging from such serious subjects as the future of Soviet Jewry and intermarriage to the lighter subject of Jewish humor. Individual lectures are $5.00 per person.

The winter study program includes four sessions in January on Monday evenings at 8:30 p.m. at the Manetto Hill Jewish Center, 244 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview. Lecturer Dr. David Novak will discuss Jewish questions as they relate to Great Britain, France, Republic of South Africa and Israel.

Dr. Novak is the rabbi at the Bayswater Jewish Center in Far Rockaway. He is also a visiting professor, teaching Jewish Law at the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Mr. & Mrs. Senior Adult Club

Listed below are the programs sponsored by the Mr. & Mrs. Senior Adults of the Mid-Island Y:

Wednesday, November 5, 8:30 p.m.- Rabbi Anchelle Perl, Executive Director of The National Committee for the Furtherance of Jewish Education of Nassau County. Topic: "Why Be Jewish?" Coffee and cake served. Non-members $1.00.

Wednesday, November 19, 8:30 p.m.-Guest speaker Mr. Seth Miller of Nassau Neighborhood Network. Topic: "Ecology." Coffee and cake served. Non-members $1.00.

Hicksville Annex Open For Taxes

The Town Clerk's Annex, located in the Town Parking Garage at Newbridge Road and Duffy Avenue in Hicksville, will be open to receive general tax payments, on Monday, November 3, Wednesday, November 5, Thursday, November 6, Friday, November 7 and Monday, November 10, according to Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker.

"In order to provide this service to residents," Mrs. Ocker explained, "the office will remain open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. to receive tax payments.

Residents may also pay in person at the Receiver of Taxes Office, Oyster Bay Town Hall West, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay and at Town Hall South, 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa, during the hours of 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., weekdays.

"When paying in person," Mrs. Ocker noted, "residents should bring the entire tax bill. Please do not write on, or deface, the stub as it can cause rejection of the payment by the computer."

INPUT

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you think that the United States has neglected the Libyan hostages? Is there something that could be done?

"LET'S NOT START WITHOUT THE OTHERS."

Most Input Callers Think There Will Be Arms Pact

Most callers to Input are optimistic that Russia and the United States will still reach an arms agreement in answer to this question: "Do you believe that there is still a chance of agreement on arms between Russia and the United States?" Here are some of the answers:

RIGHT THING

Yes. I think that President Reagan did the right thing. Gorbachev was trying to gain concessions that would have been detrimental to our defense. I do not know when the SDI missile system will be functional-if ever, but it surely must be something that has the Russians worried because it would give us a great advantage. So if it means that much to them, then it must be important. I think we can have an arms agreement and still have the SDI. N.T.

BOTH BLUFFING

I think that both powers were bluffing. Neither thought that the other would give enough to make a good agreement so they staged a show for the world so that when an agreement is reached, neither will be accused of giving too much. This type of negotiating is reminicent of what unions do all the time to keep members happy. J.E.

NOT POSSIBLE

No. There cannot be and should not be an agreement with the USSR. The Communists would always break their agreement. This is the same type of thing we did with Germany under Hitler and each agreement ended with a declaration that from now on we would have peace. It resulted in a far worse war than if we had held our ground. K.W.

RALLY WITH PRESIDENT

The only people who are really against Star Wars are the Russians who fear that it will end their terror tactics in the world and people who for one reason or another never liked the United States, even though some of them have lived quite well here. The nation should rally around the President and support him in holding the line. The fact is that we have had more peaceful years with each side holding on to a measure of threatening power than if one side just starts throwing away its superiority in weapons. L.W.

NO AGREEMENT

I think that Reagan does not really know what to do. He is not a good negotiator and is over his head on this assignment. For this reason, there will be no agreement until there is a change of administrations. E.W.

ANOTHER YEAR

Yes. We will have a treaty when both sides really want one. What is happening now is just some jockeying around to try to see how serious the other side is. When that is determined, there will be more serious negotiations and some give and take and there will be an agreement. It will take about another year. F.C.

STILL POSSIBLE

Of course it is possible to reach an agreement with the Russians provided we are willing to give them all they want or almost all they want. And, also set up a program which will permit them to continue cheating as they have cheated on every agreement they have entered into, or negotiations entered into.

NOT SOON

I do not think an arms control agreement between Russia and the United States will be concluded in the near future for the following reasons: 1. The pace in the development of military weapons is so rapid that any agreements reached will become obsolete shortly, thus arms control cannot control; 2. The U.S. and Russia are too far apart philosophically to arrive at any meaningful agreement. The mistrust engendered by this antagonism prevents any attempt at de-control of weaponry; 3. The Soviet system makes verification on research and development impossible and without verification, there can be no significant control. A.B.

AGAINST STAR WARS

Unless Congress curbs President Reagan's obsession with his Star Wars Program, I don't believe that there will be an agreement on arms control with Russia until we get a new administration into office. My opinion is that both leaders could have become eligible for the Nobel Peace Prize had the Star Wars Program been used as a bargaining chip for the proposed arms reduction program which was in the offering in Iceland. Considering all the unknown and doubtful possibilities on Star Wars, plus the billions of dollars it's going to take, I think that President Reagan goofed when he broke up the negotiations and came home empty handed. C.K.

CHANGE PRESIDENTS

Yes, there is still a chance of agreement between Russia and the United States but not while Ronald Reagan is President. J.S.

STILL A CHANCE

I think there is still a chance between the two super-powers for agreement. Frankly, I believe that Gorbachev wants peace as much as we do--maybe even more so. Unfortunately, in a society where freedom of speech is verboten, we are at a disadvantage with the Russians with our media representatives goading the President to make off-the-cuff comments and in the process revealing something he shouldn't or committing a headline producing lapsus linguae. I fully believe that Reagan did the right thing in sticking to his guns on the SDI question. Clearly, the USSR is also working on such a system and we would be stupid to agree to cease our own efforts just to get an affirmative position on nuclear arms. So, SDI is now a dead duck as an issue and our joint negotiations at arms reductions can now be dealt with on their own merits. On that basis, I fully believe there is an opportunity for real progress. It is inconceivable that Russia will ever become a true democracy but it seems to me that Gorby has a penchant for something approaching free enterprise rather than a fully controlled economy and realizes that the USSR can't sell to or buy from nations which have been bombed out. I fully believe that the two leaders strutted across the stage for effect as much as anything, that Reagan was right to hold out, and that further serious and detailed talks will be forthcoming with results which will prove beneficial on balance to everyone concerned. P.G.S.

How To Manage Your Retirement

By D. J. Berrell

Shortly after World War II, Long Island became the Mecca for thousands of returning veterans who wished to own their own homes, begin civilian careers and start raising families. Arthur Levitt, and other builders erected numerous one-family houses on farm land in such communities as Island Trees, Hicksville, Westbury and, of course, Levittown. Indeed, the word "Levittown" entered the nation's language as a synonym for a village of quickly-built, low-priced homes.

But World War II ended more than 40 years ago--VJ Day occurred on August 14, 1945--and now the eager, young servicemen of that era have become the grey-haired grandfathers of today. Many of them are now retired and now spend their days puttering around their homes and gardens, or rehashing their war-time experiences with other oldsters in bars, barber shops, and senior citizen centers. And those veterans, like this writer, who have not yet retired, expect to follow in their footsteps within the next few years.

A short trip to any part of Nassau County will soon convince you that Long Island has an aging population. For instance, shopping centers that once were filled with noisy children and their harried parents every day now stand cold and deserted, except at night and on weekends.

Then too, elementary schools that were bursting at the seams 20-30 years ago, now are only half-used or have become empty. And churches in the area that once had trouble scheduling weddings and baptisms now have problems arranging funeral services.

Indeed, any casual conversation with senior citizens soon brings up the question of where their sons and daughters who are now getting married can find affordable housing. And on the other side of the coin, where can the older folks who wish to sell their homes but stay in the county, find suitable apartments?

What is the solution to these problems? Each family must find out for itself because there is no single governmental agency with all the answers. However, based on my experience traveling around the different communities, I will offer a few suggestions.

First, the question many retired folks ask themselves is this--"Is the upkeep and expense of owning a home on Long Island worth the effort?" My view is the affirmative. I have talked with several retirees who have moved south to Florida and they told me that state is not all that the advertisements say that it is. The weather is unbearably hot and humid during the summer months, and the loneliness of being exiled from family and old friends is devastating.

Southern California too, is less than the paradise one would expect. The temperature around Los Angeles during the summer often hovers around 100 degrees for weeks on end, and the smog can put you into the hospital or shorten your life. Then, too, it does not rain much during the year, except during January and February when it comes down in buckets turning the ground into mud and sending rocks, trees and houses sliding downhill onto highways. And we will not dwell on the many tornadoes and earthquakes that occur in the region.

Some retirees who have moved to Florida or California would like to move back here but they cannot find housing that they can afford. Thus, they feel like prisoners on desert islands, thousands of miles away from the children and grandchildren that they love.

Thus, may I suggest that if you are thinking of moving to the sunny states, rent out your house for two or three years first, to see if you would really like the new location. This will give you the option of moving back to Long Island if you do not.

And if you feel that you cannot keep up with the ordinary chores of home maintenance, I suggest that you hire others to cut the grass, paint the house, and do general repair work. There are many tradesmen and handymen who advertise regularly in local newspapers who will be glad to assist you for a reasonable fee. And this cost will be largely offset by the annual appreciation of your property.

Another problem is what to do with the abundance of leisure time you have after retirement. I suggest that you sit down and write out a plan to include travel, exercise, and hobbies, otherwise you may fall into the bad habits of drinking or gambling. Indeed, it might be advisable to get a part-time job for a few years, or get a volunteer position at hospitals or the Red Cross.

Keeping fit after retirement is another difficulty. You would be wise to adopt a sport like fishing or golfing or even long-distance walking to help keep healthy. Look at President Reagan who exercises an hour each day and is still vigorous at the age of 75.

Eating properly is important too. It is a known fact that women outlive their husbands by many years because they watch their diets, exercise regularly and seek medical help when needed. Some years ago I went to an old doctor in the Bronx and commented that women crowded his office. He said, "Yes, men don't go to see a doctor until they are half dead and their wives drag them there."

Your longevity is largely in your own hands. Six months ago I visited a relative in St. Francis Hospital, Roslyn. On my way out one evening, I passed through the intensive care floor and counted 12 patients. Ten of them were men! I wondered how many of these fellows were their because their wives fed them apple-pie, ice cream and coffee for dessert whenever they asked for it. The wives loved their husbands so much that they almost killed them by clogging up their arteries with this rich, junk food. But I'll bet that the wives did not eat much of the stuff themselves because it would ruin their figures.

Lastly, as we grow older we become aware of our own mortality. We become sad as we realize that the years are slipping by and our time is running out. Another reason is that we are a little annoyed with ourselves that we have not accomplished much during our lifetimes. When we were young we had dreams of becoming rich and famous, of setting the world of fire, but the dreams never materialized.

Yet there is still time to do a few important things. We can leave our heirs a well-maintained, mortgage-free home, money in the bank, and valuable personal property. But more important we can leave them a name that is proud and unblemished. Our family name is like a torch that is handed down from generation to generation until the end of time. While the name lives, and while our blood flows in the veins of our posterity, we will never truly die only change from physical to spiritual beings.

Indeed, now is the time for all good men to become better Christians, Jews, Muslems or whatever. If we are not active church-goers--this is the time to start--a last chance so to speak! For when we meet St. Peter who reportedly guards the golden gate of heaven he will tell us "Come inside my friend," or "Go downstairs stranger!" Which greeting we receive depends entirely upon our actions here on earth.

The sands of time are running out,
For you and for me;
Beyond us lies an ocean vast,
Called "God's eternity."

May God bless us all!

Manero's in Syosset is a top restaurant. We went there Sunday and found that it was a friendly and fine place to take a full table. Most had prime ribs and found that Manero's in Syosset certainly lives up to its reputation for fine beef. The price is well within range for quality beef. The vegetables and salad were just very delicious and well prepared. Manero's has been on Jericho Turnpike, Syosset for quite a long time. If any of your readers have missed it they should try it now and they will like it.

FINE SEAFOOD

Our party of four had dinner at Estoril Granada on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola. Seafood seems to be their specialty. We asked the waiter for suggestions and he thought we would enjoy Carne Porco Alentejana. This consists of pork and clams in a delicate brown sauce. It was a happy choice. The other couple ordered the Caldeinada, which is the Portuguese version of Bouillabaise. Our friends heartily endorsed their choice. If you are hankering for something unique and delicious, I think you will enjoy Estoril Granada. We enjoyed the ambiance of the restaurant and found the service excellent. G.W.

TRULY GRACIOUS

Last week we dined at Lauraine Murphy Restaurant in Manhasset. The large, oak paneled dining room with crystal chandeliers is truly gracious. The atmosphere was old world charm, and very restful. It was refreshing to find such good food, elegantly served. The dinners were complete and the prices were amazingly affordable. I have attended various social gatherings at this fine restaurant, and in each case our party was treated as if we were the only ones there. We heartily endorse this Manhasset landmark. M.M.

BEAUTIFUL PLACE

Last week we read an ad in your section about Gerlich's restaurant in Glen Head.

I must say we were well pleased with the wonderful food and service at this restaurant. But I do not think the advertisement does the place justice. It is a beautiful place just to be in. It is decorated in a way that would thrill antique lovers with its Tiffany lamps and antiques.

In addition to all of this they have a pianist who plays at the delightful bar. We suggest you recommend this to all readers. Thanks for giving us the chance to phone in. L.J.F.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

What a posh restaurant this Benihana is in Manhasset. It is designed with a beautiful bar and cocktail lounge where you can gather before and after a special meal. We did that last Saturday.

Probably most of your readers have been to Benihana, but if there are still some who have not we want to say that we were pleasantly surprised with its new form of entertainment. You see it is not only the food at Benihana but the performance of the chef who is an expert in the use of a knife. You can watch him prepare the shrimp with a few swats of the blade and a steak and all of the other items the people around you get. This is the performance. Then you are surprised that food prepared so quickly and with such acrobatics is so good to eat. We recommend this restaurant.

SUPER DINNERS

If you are an aficionado of fresh seafood I would like to recommend the Surfside Restaurant on Hillside Avenue in New Hyde Park. Last week we had dinner there and our party of four agreed the dinners were super. Three of us had seafood and one had the broiled boneless sirloin steak.

The dining room is beautifully decorated and it was so nice to be able to look out from the large windows throughout. We noticed that they have several complete dinners daily. You will be pleased to know that they have ample parking. We are resolved to make a return visit soon. H.P.

Q. In my neighborhood there are quite a few restaurants. All of them do a brisk business and several have even expanded. Is it my imagination, or do people really dine out more frequently than ever before?

A. It is definitely not your imagination. Years ago it was a rare treat for most families to dine in a restaurant. But that was at a time when women had more time to prepare meals, since they did not as a rule work outside the home. Today, the average American eats out several times a week.

Q. Last winter, while attending a private anniversary party in a restaurant, I was served hot mulled wine. It really hit the spot on that chilly January night! Can you, tell me exactly what was in this delicious drink?

A. Hot mulled wine is made of red wine flavored usually with lemon, clove and cinnamon. Brandy is often added for extra "zing." The mixture is served piping hot sprinkled with nutmeg.

Q. What do you think of a mother who slaps her two-year old's hand-and I mean hard-when the youngster spills his milk? I saw that happen recently in a restaurant and frankly I was appalled!

A. I think we both agree it was not right for the mother to do what she did. It would have been far better to remove the child from his high chair without comment, sit him on his mother's lap, and signal for the waiter for a quick clean-up.

A baby of two does not have good coordination so he often has accidents. From that point of view, the toddler you saw in the restaurant was only exhibiting normal behavior. Mom should have shown more common sense (and kindness).

Q. Frequently I eat lunch in a pleasant little Italian place near my office. I am well known to the staff, so once in a great while when I get an emergency business call the waiter will call me to the phone. Naturally, in this situation I try to end the call as soon as I can, and this is sometimes hard to do gracefully!

A. The best thing to do is to make it plain to the caller that you are in an awkward position and will call him back in a short time after you return to your office.

Incidentally, the restaurant staff is so exceptionally accommodating that you might consider leaving a bigger tip than usual in gratitude for this extra service.

Q. I was always under the impression that it was incorrect to use a knife while eating a salad. However, sometimes the ingredients are in such thick pieces that it is difficult to manage using only a fork. What is your opinion?

A. I see no reason why a knife cannot be used while eating a salad when the occasion demands it-that is when the pieces are too bulky to be manageable with a fork alone.

The rules of etiquette are not immutable. They must always bow to common sense.

Chicken classics

By Verne Palmer

Chicken, that homey bird that Americans associate with farmhouse fare — fried plump and crispy or served up with hearty dumplings on the side — has an altogether different image abroad.

In Europe, this fine-feathered fowl turns up its beak with the best of them. It's no stranger to Sevres and fine linen and often finds its way to the dinner table with such classy companions as Gruyere, white wine, mushrooms, pearl onions, sherry and hollandaise.

It's a longtime favorite of royalty, and it was, in fact, King Henry IV of France who first wished his subjects a chicken in every pot — sorry, Mr. Hoover.

Over the years many of the classic European dishes — chicken cordon bleu, coq au vin, chicken Kiev, cacciatore, tetrazzini, marengo and divan — have made their way to American shores.

Here's an up-close look at some of the best.

CHICKEN CORDON BLEU

4 broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned and skinned
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 thin slices Gruyere cheese
8 thin slices prosciutto ham
½ cup flour
½ cup fine bread crumbs
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 egg, beaten
4 ounces butter

On hard surface with meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, pound each chicken breast half to ¼-inch thickness. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

On each breast half, place one slice of Gruyere cheese and one slice prosciutto ham. Roll chicken, tucking in sides to secure cheese and ham; tie at three intervals with cotton thread or string (wooden food picks may be used but are not as effective).

In shallow dish, mix together flour, bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Dip each chicken roll, one at a time, first in egg, then in flour mixture; dredging to coat on all sides.

In large frypan, place butter and melt over medium temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 20 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Serve hot with lemon wedges.

Makes 4 servings.

COQ AU VIN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts (giblets included)
2½ cups water
1 small onion, quartered
1 rib celery, quartered
1 teaspoon rock salt, divided
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground pepper, divided
2 tablespoons finely diced streak-of-lean salt pork
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar
1¼ cups dry red wine
12 pearl onions
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon ground marjoram
¼ teaspoon ground savory
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

In medium saucepan, place water, chicken giblets, neck and back, onion, celery, ½ teaspoon rock salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Bring to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer about 25 minutes. Drain and reserve broth (about 1½ cups should remain); chop giblets fine and reserve; discard neck and back bones.

In large heavy saucepan or Dutch oven, place diced pork and cover, cooking over medium heat until crisp. Remove pork from pan and set aside to drain; add butter to pan drippings and melt. Add chicken parts and cook, turning, about 15 minutes or until brown on all sides. Remove chicken from pan; set aside and keep warm on large platter.

Remove all but 4 tablespoons of butter drippings from pan; add flour and sugar, stirring until dark brown. Stir in reserved broth from giblets, then add red wine. Stir and bring to a boil. Return chicken to pan; add chopped giblets, cooked salt pork, pearl onions, bay leaf, marjoram, savory, thyme, remaining ¼ teaspoon rock salt and remaining ½ teaspoon ground pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Sprinkle with parsley and serve on rice.

Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN DIVAN

1 whole broiler-fryer chicken
1 bunch fresh broccoli
4 tablespoons sherry, divided
1 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese, divided
2 cups milk
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
¾ cup hollandaise sauce, warmed
½ teaspoon paprika

Simmer or roast chicken. When cool, remove and discard skin and bones. Slice chicken in long pieces, as large as possible.

Cook broccoli just until tender-crisp, retaining bright green color. Drain broccoli and arrange in bottom of warm 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of the sherry and ¼ cup of the Parmesan cheese. Place chicken on broccoli, first dark meat and then white; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of sherry and ¼ cup Parmesan cheese. Set aside, keeping ingredients in baking dish warm while making sauce. Heat milk to boiling point and keep hot.

In large saucepan, make white sauce by melting butter over medium heat. Stir in flour and blend until smooth, about one minute. Slowly add hot milk, stirring until sauce is thick and smooth, about two minutes. Add nutmeg; set aside but keep warm. Whip cream and add to white sauce, stirring gently. Gently stir in warm hollandaise sauce; add remaining 3 tablespoons sherry. Pour over chicken and broccoli; sprinkle with remaing ¼ cup Parmesan cheese and paprika.

Broil at 500 F about 6 inches from heat until lightly browned and bubbly, about two minutes.

Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cooked, skinned, boned and broken into pieces
¼ cup butter
12 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
3 tablespoons flour
3 teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 quart warm chicken broth, divided
1 cup heavy cream, warmed
¼ cup dry white wine
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 bay leaf
8 ounces thin spaghetti
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

In large frypan, place butter and melt over medium heat. Add mushrooms, green pepper and garlic; saute about five minutes. Stir in flour, 1 teaspoon of salt and pepper. Slowly add 1½ cups warm chicken broth and warm cream, stirring until thickened, about three minutes. Reduce heat to low; add wine. To beaten egg yolks, add several tablespoons of hot white sauce; then add egg mixture to frypan, continuing to stir. Add chicken pieces, stirring until thoroughly heated, about three minutes. While making sauce, cook spaghetti in remaining 2½ cups broth and enough water to make 3 quarts liquid; add remaining 2 teaspoons of salt and bay leaf to broth-water. When done (al dente), drain spaghetti and arrange in shallow greased 2-quart baking dish. Spoon sauce evenly over spaghetti and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in 300 F oven for 30 minutes until bubbly. Garnish with black olives if desired.

Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN KIEV

3 broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned and skinned
6 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chopped chives
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon tarragon
¼ cup flour
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup fine fresh bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups cooking oil (approximately)

Cut butter in 1 tablespoon pieces.

In small bowl, mix together chives, garlic powder and tarragon. Roll each piece of butter in seasoning mixture, turning to coat thoroughly. Refrigerate butter until cold and firm.

Place chicken breast halves on hard surface. With meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, gently pound chicken to ¼-inch thickness. Place one piece seasoned butter on each chicken breast half; roll up, envelope fashion, and secure with string or wooden food picks.

Sprinkle each chicken roll with flour, then dip in beaten egg. Roll chicken in bread crumbs until thoroughly coated; sprinkle with salt and pepper and chill for at least 30 minutes.

In deep fryer, place cooking oil, filling to no more than one-third full. Heat to medium temperature (about 360 F). Add chicken, a few pieces at a time, and cook about six minutes, or until golden brown and fork can be inserted in chicken with ease.

Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN MARENGO

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
4 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup finely chopped onions
1 clove garlic, quartered
½ cup white wine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups chopped fresh tomatoes
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons fresh parsley
1 bay leaf
⅛ teaspoon thyme leaves

In deep frypan or Dutch oven, place oil and heat over medium high temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, until brown, about 20 minutes. Move chicken to side of pan; add onion and garlic and stir-fry until golden brown, about five minutes. Add wine and cook, stirring, about five minutes.

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Add tomatoes, mushrooms, parsley, bay leaf and thyme. Reduce heat to low, cover and cook about 20 minutes. Remove lid and cook about 10 minutes more until sauce is thickened and fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Garnish by surrounding with slices of French bread topped with fried egg and boiled, seasoned crayfish.

Makes 4 servings.

Chicken breasts

By Paul Bensen

Chicken breasts have increased greatly in popularity over the last several years, for a number of good reasons. They are very high in protein, have much less fat and cholesterol than red meat and are a good buy as well. They are also a natural choice for the after-work chef, because they can be prepared quickly in a number of delicious presentations.

Many people serve chicken less often than they might, because they think only of the few basic ways of cooking it — fried, baked and broiled. In fact, there are hundreds of excellent recipes for chicken, and today I'm featuring three of my favorites.

Chicken may be used very successfully in almost any recipe that calls for veal. This is especially appealing since chicken breasts cost only about a quarter as much per pound as veal scallopini.

When you shop for chicken, look for a light-colored, unblemished skin and not too much hard, yellow fat. Perhaps most important of all, the breastbone should be flexible. The tip of the bone should bend easily under pressure. If it doesn't, you're dealing with a fowl that's long past its prime.

Today's recipes call for boned, skinned breasts. Most stores carry chicken breasts that have been skinned and boned, but you pay a premium of up to $2 per pound for them. I always do my own boning and skinning — it just takes a few minutes — and I also remove all the fat that I can before I cook the breasts. For each of today's recipes, add boning and skinning the chicken breasts as an optional "do-ahead" step.

CHICKEN SAVOY

- 1 pound skinned, boned chicken breasts, cut into 2-ounce pieces
- 4 slices ham or prosciutto
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
- ½ pound sliced Swiss or mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup flour
- ½ cup beef consomme
- ½ cup Port or Madeira wine
- 2 ounces brandy (optional)
- 1 egg, beaten with small amount of water added
- 2 to 3 ounces heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch, diluted slightly with water

Total preparation/cooking time — 20 minutes.

Lightly pound boned chicken breast pieces to a thickness of approximately ¼ inch. Dip in flour then egg. Saute in hot skillet, with small amount of butter, 2 to 3 minutes on each side.

In four individual ovenproof casseroles, place two pieces of chicken in each. Top with one slice of ham. Put mushrooms in same pan chicken was cooked in. Saute lightly, adding comsomme, brandy (optional) and wine. Simmer a minute or so, whisk in cream then add diluted cornstarch as needed to thicken. Pour the sauce and mushrooms into casseroles with chicken and ham. Top with sliced cheese. Place under broiler until cheese is bubbling and lightly browned, and serve.

Serves 4.

CHICKEN BOLSTEIN

- 4 chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- 1 cup flour
- 1 beaten egg with small amount of water added
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 4 eggs
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 small can anchovies
- 1 small jar caviar — lumpfish or whitefish

Total preparation/cooking time — 20 minutes.

Lightly pound the boned chicken breasts to flatten. Dip in flour, beaten egg and bread crumbs. Saute in hot skillet, over medium-high heat, with a small amount of butter. Turn frequently until lightly browned on both sides. Reduce heat to medium and continue to cook 5 to 6 minutes, meat side up. Add salt and pepper to taste. While chicken is cooking, fry the 4 eggs in a separate pan, sunny-side-up or over lightly, according to taste. Before removing chicken from pan, deglaze pan with lemon juice. Place chicken breasts on platter, top each breast with a fried egg, lay a few anchovies over the eggs and sprinkle caviar on top.

Serving suggestion: Serve with sliced, sauteed home-style potatoes.

Serves 4.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

- 4 chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1 large green pepper, diced
- 2 medium, firm tomatoes, diced
- ½ cup black olives
- ½ cup white wine
- 1 cup tomato puree — OR — 1 cup commercial tomato sauce
- Salt and freshly ground pepper black pepper to taste

Total preparation/cooking time — 25 minutes.

Cut chicken breasts in strips approximately 1 ounce each. Saute in skillet over medium-high heat with butter, adding onion and green pepper. 5 to 6 minutes. Add diced tomatoes and olives, saute another 2 to 3 minutes. Deglaze pan with wine. Add tomato sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Serve with spaghetti or noodles on the side.

Pair pears, microwave for tasty desserts

By Desiree Vivea

OATMEAL PEAR CRUMBLE

- 6 cups sliced, peeled fresh pears
- 1 cup light brown sugar, packed
- ½ cup flour (unsifted)
- ½ cup quick-cooking oats
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 9 to 12 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine sliced pears and half of the brown sugar in large mixing bowl. Toss gently to coat pears with sugar. Arrange pear slices in even layers in 8x8-inch glass baking dish.

In small mixing bowl combine all remaining ingredients, blending with fork until crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over pear slices.

Microwave, uncovered, 9 to 12 minutes, rotating dish one-quarter turn after 5 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 6.

SWEET PINK PEARS

- 6 large, ripe winter pears
- 6 whole cloves
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup sweet vermouth
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon red food coloring
- Dash salt
- Whipped cream or ice cream (optional)

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 12 to 14 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Peel pears, leaving stems intact. Stick one whole clove into blossom end of each pear. Set aside.

Combine all remaining ingredients in 1½-quart glass casserole, stirring to dissolve sugar. Add pears, turning gently to coat with liquid.

Microwave, covered, 12 to 14 minutes, turning gently every 4 minutes, until pears are tender. Serve warm or chilled in individual dessert bowls. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired, or serve with ice cream.

Serves 6.

SPICED GINGERED PEARS

- 2 (1 pound, 13 ounce) cans pear halves
- 20 whole cloves
- 2 (2-inch) sticks cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons minced crystallized ginger
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon each grated lemon peel and grated orange peel

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 21 to 23 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power), MEDIUM (50 percent power)

Drain pears, reserving 1½ cups liquid. Pour syrup into 2-quart glass container. Stir in 10 cloves, the cinnamon sticks and nutmeg. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH setting 4 to 6 minutes, or until mixture boils.

Reduce setting to MEDIUM. Microwave 5 minutes longer, then remove cloves and discard. Stir in butter, ginger, lemon juice, lemon and orange peel. Microwave 5 minutes longer at MEDIUM setting, or until syrup is slightly thickened.

Arrange pear halves in 12x8-inch glass baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining cloves, then pour hot syrup over pears. Microwave 7 minutes on MEDIUM setting, basting pears with liquid several times.

Serve hot or cold, for dessert or as a condiment with pork roast, poultry, curries, etc. Store in airtight container and refrigerate up to one week.

Makes between 2 and 3 pints.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: I have thermopane windows that have double glass panes. These windows have a tendency to collect moisture in between the sealed panes. Is there some way to remove this without replacing the complete windows, which would be very expensive.

A: The combination of the tightly fitting storm sash and inside windows that are not weatherstripped is a common cause of this problem. Damp house air can leak around the edges of the inside panes and be trapped by the outer pane, which causes condensation. Very often, drilling three or four very small holes in the bottom rail of the outer storm sash cures the problem.

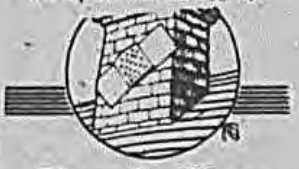

In fact, many prefab aluminum storm sashes have small sliding louvers in the bottom rail to provide ventilation when needed. Experiment by drilling several ¼-inch holes in the sash on one of the windows you are having trouble with. If it works, try it on the others. Should this treatment fail, weatherstripping of the windows (the interior side) may be necessary to prevent the moisture problem. You also should try to reduce the moisture content of the air in the interior of the house.

Q: A recent purchase of a 21-year-old house has me asking for advice. The white paint of the Alcoa aluminum siding has washed onto approximately 50 linear feet of brick face over the years and does not appear to come off. I tested one brick and applied straight muriatic acid with a toothbrush to no avail. The brick appeared to absorb the acid. The areas of brick that show on this house is built on old, cleaned brick and I am concerned about deteriorating the brick. Are there any home owner methods that might succeed in cleaning the brick without seeking the help of a commercial company? — F.R.

A: There are a couple of methods that may work to remove the paint stains. First, try applying a commercial paint remover. The type that washes away with water is preferable. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully. Or you can try a solution of trisodium phosphate mixed with water (2 pounds of trisodium phosphate to 1 gallon water). Allow to stand and remove paint with scraper and a wire brush. Wash with clear water. If the paint stains are old and dried, organic solvents similar to the above may not be effective. In that case, the paint must be removed by sandblasting or you can try removal with an electric sander using a very coarse grade of sandpaper.

Q: The surface of my white Formica kitchen countertops are in excellent condition, except that they are no longer stain resistant. Food substances now penetrate the countertop so that they are badly stained. I manage to clean them with Clorox, but I do not like to do this every day. Is there anyway I can treat the surfaces so that they are impervious to stains once more? — M.E.T.

A: Formica is a very slick, hard surface that resists applications of paint and other surfacing products. Since countertops receive constant use, I would not advise a surface treatment. Your best solution may be installation of a new countertop. It is relatively easy to resurface Formica by adding a new top over the existing top.

that affix easily to the bottom edges of the carpet. Or, they will have a large-hole plastic net in rolls or sheets to trim and put under rugs that might slip.

Check your electrical cords, arranging them out of walking paths. Check your pantry and other cabinet doors and their closure or clips, so that they will not reopen on their own. Your hardware store will have these items for easy replacement.

Your best personal safety starts in your own home and these steps are very inexpensive to accomplish.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

You are asking questions and we have researched to find the answers important to mature adults in the United States.

Q: I really want to see Disneyland after a lot of years of wishing, but I have a problem with one leg. Do you recommend trying to see this attraction? — R.Q.

A: Disneyland in Southern California is one of the best attractions in the world for mature adults. Contrary to the general assumption that it is a youth park, I define it as an attraction for adults where kids are allowed to come to play. Disneyland is completely accessible to people using wheelchairs and if you don't have one of your own, the park has them available for use by patrons.

There are also mechanized travel vehicles — from horse-drawn trolleys to a train that circumnavigates the park. If walking, there are benches for stopping and resting almost everywhere. You can take the park at your own pace. If you have questions about the park, its attractions or facilities, write Disneyland Guest Relations, 1313 Harbor Blvd., Anaheim, CA 92803.

Q: I am concerned about slipping in my tile bathtub. I live alone and am afraid of hurting myself and then not being able to get help. Have you a suggestion? — I.V.

A: We hear this question often and have looked for answers and suggestions.

Personal ability to bathe or shower is most important, so the key is to change the surface of the bathtub or shower. From your hardware or home goods store get information on applique pieces that stick to the tub surface and are non-slippery on top. We have seen these appliques the shapes of flowers and other pleasant designs. They do raise a bit from the surface and might be uncomfortable if sitting on them. Other than that they seem effective.

We have also found a liquid product, Nev-R-Slip, from Carlton Distributors Ltd., in Canada, that retails for about $10. There are specific cleaning instructions for the tub or shower surface and then this liquid is spread on the surface and allowed to dry. The result is an even, clear surface that does not become slippery (its effectiveness is guaranteed by the manufacturer for a year). For information on this product write: Carlton Distributors Ltd., P.O. Box 80616, South Burnaby, British Columbia, Canada V5H 3X9.

Most injuries in the home are to mature adults — and most can be avoided. Taking the slipperiness out of bathtubs and showers is the start. Throw rugs should be also checked, to make sure they don't slip. If they do, your hardware store will have applique pieces

Q: I love to read but am having a bit now of trouble focusing on the words in many books, and I don' t like the inconvenience of using a magnifier. Are there larger-print books available? — S.J.

A: You bet. Several companies publish large-print versions of a wide variety of books. One of the publishers, Doubleday, has even started a large-print book club — with a monthly catalog mailer also printed in large-size type.

For information on the Doubleday Large Print Home Library, phone toll-free 1-800-343-4300, asking for operator 355. Or write the Doubleday Large Print Home Library, Customer Service Center, 501 Franklin Ave., Garden City, NY 11530.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Teens: Are our college athletes good students? About 22 percent of the most highly recruited high school football and basketball players who received college athletic scholarships this fall failed to meet the new NCAA standards for grade-point averages and standardized test scores, according to a USA Today newspaper survey of colleges and universities. Most of those athletes found ineligible had good grades but poor test scores.

The athletes may still get their scholarships but they won't be able to play or even practice in their freshman year.

Some high school teachers wouldn't give star athletes (subconsciously) better grades than they actually earned — would they?

Dr. Wallace: Last year I dated a warm, kind-hearted, romantic guy who wanted to go steady with me. Regretfully, I told him no because I was not ready for a serious relationship.

Now I realize that I do care for him very much and I'd like to go steady. He has been dating other girls but is not going steady. Would it be in poor taste if I called him on the telephone and expressed my feelings toward him? My older sister said it would be "tacky" if I did. — Gina

A: Call this fellow and invite him out on a date. Tell him (I'm sure he will say yes), while you are enjoying the evening with him, that you finally realized that you care very much for him and would enjoy dating him regularly. The rest is up to him.

Dr. Wallace: I have just finished a research paper on teenage drinking. I'm sure your teen readers will find the results shocking, but they are true.

1. Over 3 million teens in the United States and Canada are alcoholics.

2. It takes five to 15 years of heavy drinking for an adult to become an alcoholic but it only takes six to 18 months of heavy drinking for a teen to become an alcoholic.

3. Drinking abuse occurs in one of three patterns:

(a) Daily drinking.

(b) Drinking large amounts of alcohol at specific times such as every weekend.

(c) Long periods of being sober with binges of heavy daily drinking that last for weeks, even months.

4. Alcoholic drivers kill over 30,000 people in the United States and Canada. — Pete,

Pete: Thanks for the information. It is, indeed, shocking. The abuse of alcohol and other illegal drugs is a cancer in our society and unless this cancer is retarded, and soon, our people may never truly recover.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and my boyfriend is 17. We have been going steady for six months and we are very much in love. Everything is perfect except for one big thing. Timmy's mother is planning to move to Baltimore because she can get a good job there.

I talked with my parents and they agreed to allow Timmy to live with us until he graduates (he wants this, too). We are a very religious "straight" family and there would be no "hanky-panky" between Timmy and me.

Our problem is that Timmy's mother refuses to let him stay in York. Instead, she is forcing him to go to Baltimore against his wishes. Don't you believe his mom is selfish and stubborn? — Jody

Judy: Timmy belongs with his mother, whether it be Baltimore, York or Kalamazoo. If anyone is selfish, it appears to be you.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and Kenneth is 18 and we would like to go out on a date but this will cause a lot of trouble in our family.

You see, Kenneth is my brother's best buddy. They do a lot together. My brother doesn't like the idea of Kenneth and me going out for two reasons. First, he thinks that my dating him could ruin his friendship with Kenneth because of the time we might spend together. Next, he is concerned that Kenneth might be a bit too "aggressive" for me.

Actually, both of these concerns are no problem for me. I don't plan to go steady with Kenneth, I just want to go out with him and I'm a big girl. I have gone out with aggressive guys before and calmed them down quite well, thank you.

What do you think? Should I go out with Kenneth or not? My parents are staying out of this controversy. They told me to get the answer from you. Oh, yes, I have no romantic feelings for Kenneth whatsoever. — Reba

Reba: In most cases, I'd say "go for it" but not in this case. Since you have no romantic feelings for Kenneth, don't be part of a possible family feud.

NOVENA TO THE SACRED Heart. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on us. St. Jude, Worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us. (Say nine times a day for nine days. Never known to fail. Promise publication). Thank you Sacred Heart of Jesus and St. Jude. B. gco4

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE All problems, who light all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. Thank you Holy Spirit R.J.G. wo4

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Quality Or Quantity?

One Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient
Readers = Results
is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

YOU CAN'T BEAT IT!

Decor Score

A room for all reasons

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: How can we furnish and decorate a really small room that we want to use as a comfortable TV room most of the time but have available as a guest room on occasion? — W.R.

A: Since you indicate that the primary use of this room will be as a TV room, I suggest you make providing comfort for yourselves your priority. A comfortable armchair and overstuffed convertible sofa probably will be all the major furniture your room can handle.

Two or three small nesting tables or individual "smoking" tables (such as shown) will serve you better than a heavy coffee table. When you have a guest and pull out the bed, these tables can be easily stacked or moved aside to serve another purpose.

Your small room will benefit visually from a light color scheme. If you use a light monotone for most of your backgrounds, you can still add bright punches of color in accessories.

Notice in the room pictured how the furniture "disappears" against the wall because it is either covered in a matching fabric or in a similar light color. The glass, see-through coffee tables contribute to this illusion, as well even the mini-blinds and matting on the artwork repeat the major background color.

Finally, the flooring is hard-working tile which is very practical if you are going to serve food in this room. An area rug will warm up the room without reversing the space-expanding quality of the white tile. Another tip: Large tiles make a small space seem bigger.

Q: We have just purchased a historic home that needs work. We are anxious to be as faithful to the original as possible.

The parlor still has its original wallpaper (in very poor condition) that we are loathe to remove. Do you know any sources for antique wallpapers so perhaps we can have it matched? — M.T.

A: There are many reproductions of historic wallpapers available today — from museums to individual wallpaper companies — so you might possibly have some luck and find yours. More common, however, are adaptations in which the scale, color or pattern are changed somewhat from the original.

One of the large sources for historic reproductions is A.L. Daimaent & Co., 979 Third Ave., New York, NY 10022. Their extensive collection is available through designers and architects. So check with one of these professionals in your area.

FUNCTIONAL — Dual-function furniture, light colors and easy-to-move tables enable this small room to serve several purposes without seeming overcrowded. Design by Stratford Furniture.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

Book storage looks like later addition

By James G. McCollam

Q: Enclosed is a picture of my rolltop desk. It is in excellent condition and I would like to know its value and when it was made.

A: The book storage on top looks like a later addition. I hope it is removable.

Desks like this were made around the turn of the century and are now selling for about $800 or $900.

Q: Enclosed is the mark on the bottom of a Hummel figure of a small boy in a top hat. He is holding a sheet of music and singing. Can you tell me the value and vintage of this cute little figure?

A: That is No. 131, The Street Singer. It was made between 1935 and 1950 — probably before 1940. Currently, it is selling for about $250.

There is a companion piece, No. 135, The Soloist, which is in the same price range.

Q: Everytime I ask you about old phonograph records you tell me that the records I have are practically worthless. Would you mind telling me what kind of old records are valuable?

A: I'll be glad to. The old records that are valuable are very scarce. Here are some examples of records made over 50 years ago:

"Walking Blues" by Raymond Barrow, Paramount, No. 12803 — $75.

"Kickin' Mule Blues" by Birmingham Jug Band, Okeh, No. 8866 — $87.

"Whip It To A Jelly" by Freddie Brown, Paramount, No. 12910, — $60.

"Big Bill Blues" by Slim Hunter, Superior, No. 2837 — $50.

"Boar Hog Blues' by Hightower's Night Hawks, Black Patti, No. 8045 — $250.

"That's My Desire" by The Flamingos, Chance, No. 1140 — $100.

"Hot Mustard" by The Red Hotters, Silverton, No. 3560 — $100.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam

JUNIOR EDITION

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Why do veterinarians constantly recommend tetanus vaccinations for horses? It seems that every time our horses are injured, our veterinarian wants to vaccinate them. We have never had a horse come down with tetanus. Is tetanus really a serious threat to horses?

A. Horses are extremely sensitive to tetanus. Of the domestic species, they are probably the most susceptible. Stiffness of the muscles of the jaw, neck and hind limbs in horses is often an early sign of tetanus. About a day following the appearance of the initial signs, general stiffness becomes pronounced and the horse becomes extremely sensitive to sudden movement or noise. The reflexes are increased in intensity and the animal can be easily excited into violent spasms.

The term "lockjaw" is often used for this disease because spasms of the muscles of the head causes difficulty in eating and swallowing. Usually, the ears are erect, the tail stiff and extended, the nose dilated and the third eyelid is visible. Walking, turning, and backing are difficult. Stiffness of the muscles of the legs causes the horse to assume a "sawhorse stance."

Sweating is frequently seen. Approximately 80 percent of horses showing signs of tetanus die. In those horses not dying, recovery is slow, requiring a convalescent period of three to six weeks.

Tetanus is caused by a bacteria that grows best in areas of reduced oxygen. The bacteria is found in the soil and intestinal tracts of animals and man. In most cases, it is introduced into the body tissue through wounds, particularly deep puncture wounds where low oxygen levels are present. It is sometimes not possible to find the point of entry, for the lesion itself may be minor or healed.

Newborn foals may acquire the bacteria through their umbilical cords. The time between injury and first signs of the disease varies from one to several weeks, but usually averages 10 to 14 days. Although almost all mammals are susceptible to this disease, horses are the most susceptible of all the farm species.

Horses can be protected from tetanus by a vaccination program. Horses not previously vaccinated should be given two doses of tetanus toxoid six weeks apart and then boostered annually. Mares that are not on a regular vaccination program should be vaccinated during the last six weeks of pregnancy. Foals should be vaccinated at 5 to 8 weeks of age.

If a wound occurs in which it is likely the animal was exposed to tetanus, short-term protection can be given by administering tetanus antitoxin. Antitoxin does not induce the animal to build immunity to the disease, but does give protection for approximately two weeks.

Antitoxin should not be confused with toxoid. Also included in the treatment of horses showing signs of tetanus are tranquilizers to control spasms and anitbiotics to control the bacteria. During treatment the horses should be kept in a darkened, quiet box stall.

The best treatment of tetanus in the horse is prevention by a routine vaccination program. Tetanus is a serious disease of horses.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

I had a nice note this week from a young girl who recently moved into the area. Judy is nine years old and she entered fourth grade this September.

Before she moved here, Judy was a little scared about her new life. But now she loves her teacher and has made five or six good friends, she says. I can understand how Judy felt. It is not always easy to move into a new neighborhood, saying goodbye to all the old familiar friends and places, and having to make new friends. However, it can also be an exciting adventure to be enjoyed, and that is exactly what Judy seems to be doing right now! Good luck, Judy!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Nicole Sante and Kelly McCarthy. You'll be hearing from me soon, both of you!
