MOVIES

RAY SHORE THEATRE

A week of gala holiday attractions opens Sunday at the popular Bay Shore Theatre. "In Caliente," the latest and said to be one of the most outstanding musicals of the current season begins Sunday, June 30, and plays through Tuesday, July 3. It has an all star cast with Dolores Del Rio, Fredric March, Leo Carrillo and Edw. Everett Horton. "In Caliente" is a musical with a real plot, replete with humor, action and romance and extraordinary production numbers that most spectators will agree excel any of the previous efforts of the producer, Leo Carrillo has the role of Mrs. Del Rio's rascally uncle who tries to cash in on her charm.

Modern as today's newspaper headlines, and thrilling as their graphic accounts of the government organized crime, is "Public Hero No. 1," the amazing thriller of the work of the secret service, will be the outstanding holiday screen attraction at the popular Bay Shore Theatre beginning July 4, and playing through Saturday, July 6. It stars Robert Taylor and Jean Arthur as the principal character roles, in which he demonstrates an amazing facility for comedy along with drama as the bibulous Dr. Glass, physician-in-ordinary to the cabinet of the underworld. Chester Morris gives what is probably the finest performance of his entire career as the adventurous Jeff Crane, who exposes himself to all sorts of danger in getting out of perilous close quarters. Also outstanding in the cast is the stirring, job-conscious Barry St. John, who plays the principal character role, in which he demonstrates an amazing facility for comedy along with drama as the bibulous Dr. Glass, physician-in-ordinary to the cabinet of the underworld.

When currants are abundant and home-grown, try serving some for the breakfast fruit, mixing the colors, if possible—red with white currants, or red or white with black currants. Serve in dainty glass dishes, or in clusters, if you can get them that way.

Tickets and information may be obtained from Mrs. Nagell or Mrs. Roy Lincoln of Port Washington.

In the market for some new supplies for the emergency or the pantry shelf? Have you a few jars of ketchup? Are you tired of the old deures of Italian origin that mix a little of this and that to produce a fascinating pattern of habits prey on you to be served from their own flat glass jar?

You can spend a quiet period before Independence Day breaks in on you by viewing "Transient Lady" which comes on Wednesday, July 3, for one day only. It features an amusing picture. It features a large cast of well known players.

"Clive of India," a picture which deals with the British Empire's conquest of India, comes to the Strand on Thursday and Friday, July 4 and 5. Ronald Colman is the star, with the lovely Loretta Young helping along. There will be a special matinee on Thursday afternoon, July 4.

"Public Hero No. 1" is the story for the movie fans who attend the Amityville Theatre beginning Sunday, June 30, and playing through Tuesday, July 2 when Victor Varappara's mortal classic "Les Miserables," starring Frederic March, Charles Laughton and Sir Cedric Har-

2,000 Descendants To Mark John Tuthill's 300th Birthday

What probably will prove to be the largest assemblage of people embracing one family tree ever gathered together on Long Island will be the second meeting of the descendants of John Tuthill of Saxlingham, England, and Southold, N. Y., to celebrate the anniversary of his three-hundredth birthday. The meeting will take place at the Maratoka Clubhouse at Mattituck, L. I. on August 22. It is estimated that the attendance will be from 1500 to 2000 persons.

Annual Pet Show At Cove Saturday

Typical of the interest and anxiety amongst the youngsters in town for the annual Kid's Day which takes place Saturday, June 29 at the Cove Theatre and which includes the annual Pet Show, is the question put to Herman Starr, manager of the Theatre yesterday by one of his steady Club showgoers. The youngster reported the untimely death of his turtle and wanted to know if his entry would hold good if he presented his turtle in alcohol. Greatly relieved when told it would be accepted, the youngster hurried home to prepare for the great event.

A FARMINGDALE FIELD

Far more important, we think, than the recent request for a horse racing track at the Bethpage State Park, is the less expensive demand for the construction of a baseball diamond there. Not only would it be enjoyed by a great number of out of town visitors but by residents of Farmingdale and Central Park as well.

The Inductro baseball field, if you can call it that, is all the community has to offer its baseball enthusiasts, and there both the Farmingdale High School and the Farmingdale Athletic Club have had to play their games, surrounded by stones and boulders and by rough and uneven turf. For the present, the Athletic Club deserves a decent break, and it seems a pity that they can't get a respectable field on which to play their always exciting Sunday afternoon games.

Reports of the construction of the field back of the High School on the property which the Board of Education bought some time ago still continue to drift in to us, but the work has not yet started, and we know nothing to worry about, but the Athletic Club deserves a decent break, and it seems a pity that they can't get a respectable field on which to play their always exciting Sunday afternoon games.

Reports of the construction of the field back of the High School on the property which the Board of Education bought some time ago still continue to drift in to us, but the work has not yet started, and we know nothing to worry about, but the Athletic Club deserves a decent break, and it seems a pity that they can't get a respectable field on which to play their always exciting Sunday afternoon games.

That, however, is a different story, and may all be fixed by the time school opens next fall. The situation at present is the plight of the Farmingdale A. C. Club, and we hope that Park Commissioner Moses does something about it.

THE NEW DEAL OF 1776

The Fourth of July had claims to fame before the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Yet the association of the date with the document by which the thirteen original states of the American Union severed their colonial allegiance to Great Britain overshadows all others.

Among other historic events associated with the date are the settlement of Providence, R. I., by Roger Williams in 1636; Benjamin Franklin's proposal for the Colonial Congress in 1754; the birth of Nathaniel Hawthorne in 1804; the pact of two ex-Presidents, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, both signers of the Declaration, almost at the same hour, on July 4, 1826; the laying of the corner stone of the Washington Monument in 1848; the surrender of Vicksburg to General Grant in 1863; and the birth of Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of the United States, in 1872.

The Fourth of July next Thursday will mark the one hundred and fifty-ninth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, though Congress had actually adopted a resolution of independence on July 2 and published it to the world. Yet the Fourth has always been the day celebrated as the date of the signing of the Declaration drawn up by Jefferson.

Looking down the corridor of time for more than a century and a half, the Declaration of Independence may be regarded as the New Deal of 1776. It was a New Deal of freedom for the few million colonists scattered along the Atlantic seaboard—but it was more. It marked the formal beginning of a New Deal in democratic government which was to leave its impress upon history for all time. It was not only the foundation of a nation, but destined to bear fruit in fuller freedom of older lands and in nations yet to be born.

Like all new deals in history, it grew out of a profound dissatisfaction with old deals, in that instance, of tyranny and taxes of a king. Yet the New Deal of 1776 represented more than that. It was the crystallization of a new political philosophy and system which time and circumstances were evolving to meet the needs of a new day.

MAKE NASSAU'S HIGHWAYS SAFE

District Attorney Martin W. Littleton's declaration of war against reckless and drunken drivers is a hopeful sign that Nassau County's fine highways may one of these days become safe for the careful and law-abiding operators of motor vehicles. Certainly the midnight police patrol suggested by the prosecutor can do no harm, and should be most effective in curbing to some extent the demons who "burn up" our roads with little thought for their own safety or that of others.

Nassau County's accident record is not an enviable one, and it appears to be growing blacker day by day. The death toll is steadily mounting, and at the rate it has increased during the first six months of 1935, it threatens to exceed this year all previous marks. It is not a pleasant prospect, and one that calls for public indignation rather than the present existing public indifference.

There is no good reason why Nassau's highways should not be as safe, if not safer, than any others in the State and nation. Perhaps they will be as soon as the authorities make examples of those who convert the county's roads into race courses and drive while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Drunken drivers are a serious menace, and the district attorney's campaign to punish them should have the support and approbation of every decent citizen.

There are lots of cross-eyed people in this world whose optics are as straight as yours or mine. It's their mental sight that is crossed.

Ideas About Things

By CHARLES W. SMITH

QUIT FOOLING US
 If the State re-apportionment commission has passed during the recent session of the Legislature, Nassau County would have gained an additional Assemblyman; also a State Senator of its own, instead of sharing the honor with Suffolk County.

KILL THE CHARTER
 Although Governor Lehman vetoed the more destructive "provisions" some of his worst provisions are said to be incorporated in the proposed Bi-Partisan County Charter so-called, together with scores of new amendments that very few persons at the present moment know anything about in their entirety.

Among the more serious is that affecting the County budget. On its face the Budget Bill was innocuous, and consisted merely requiring public hearings on the various items for which sums had to be appropriated. There was a "joker" concealed, however, which no one objects to public hearings as such. Sometimes they waste time unnecessarily in giving the congenial object looking for the slightest more important than the budget itself, and often they degenerate into mere perfunctory proceedings. But where there is nothing to conceal there is nothing to be afraid of. The measure value has a certain appeal to some minds.

The "ripper" bill affecting this subject went much further, however, and proposed any change in the budget after the hearing, except in cases of extreme emergency, like disaster, pestilence, and famine, although this may not be the exact phraseology. Its effect if passed would have meant the complete stoppage of all work and home relief payments because the State would have been unable to dispose of its bonds for this necessary purpose.

Such a measure would have brought to a standstill all local functions affecting the welfare of depression victims, with a resultant distress probably beyond the estimate powers of the most pessimistic.

Speed TERA Classification

Occupational Listings To Be Completed July 10

The occupational classification of approximately 800,000 employable persons in families receiving home care under the Federal Works Program is scheduled to be completed by the national and state public employment services by July 10. It was announced today by Charles L. Danick, Executive Director of the State Temporary Emergency Relief Administration.

The completion of the classification inventory which has been under way for several months is being expedited in order to take advantage of the Federal Works Program which is designed to train thousands of persons in the State from the home relief rolls to employment on work relief projects.

The plan for the occupational classification of all employable persons receiving public relief was devised by the National Reemployment Service, the New York State Emergency Service and the State TERA. Under the plan all relief recipients are being classified according to the type of work they are able to perform. Not only will this classification when completed facilitate the placement of unemployed relief clients on work projects, but it will also be used by the Federal Works Program Administration, but it will materially assist the new Administration in developing projects for the relief work which will absorb the available relief labor.

Bosank Appointed Purchasing Deputy
 E. Stanley Bosanko of Floral Park was named deputy purchasing agent of Nassau County at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors at Amuck, Monday, and a salary was fixed at $4,500 a year.

The contract for repairing the Long Beach Bridge was awarded to the Andrew Weston Construction Company, a bid of $7,500, the board revealed.
