

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE By THE MASTER KEY

The sensational run made by Milleville at the Hicksville-Westbury game on Sunday is still the talk of the town and most likely will remain such unless he duplicates the starring achievement on Thursday, on the second encounter of the two teams.

Incidentally the game was the finest of fines as far as we have been able to hear from all sides.

We understand that Doc Brandt will attend the weekly luncheon meeting of the Hicksville B. M. A. on Monday.

It is always a source of amazement to the readers we know that an item will get reams and reams of advance and then end with a short paragraph on the actual event.

The card party and dance of the United Societies of St. Ignatius R. C. church of Hicksville held Monday night was the outstanding social event of the year. The affair, offering many lovely prizes, attracted more than 500 persons.

This week's edition of the News is appearing early so that our housewife readers may have the opportunity of taking advantage of the Thanksgiving special in this issue. There are some really sensational bargains to be found in the advertising columns of the News.

We think the most outstanding automobile shows is the comparison it shows between the first motor vehicles of 25 years ago and the present day.

The annual Christmas Seal drive opens on Thanksgiving Day, and concludes on Christmas.

The snowfall Monday night and early Tuesday morning reminded us that Christmas is not so very many days off. Looks as though we will have a white Thanksgiving.

We like the ragmuffin parade idea of the Freeport and Farmingdale Veterans of Foreign Wars posts. Organization of the ragmuffins on Thanksgiving is of mutual benefit and places more holiday color on the event.

Wonder what the situation on the Oyster Bay Tobay Bird Sanctuary is? Councilman John W. Anderson and Col. Smith were assigned to study the situation on behalf of the town fathers.

There was talk of holding a public meeting in Hicksville to settle the controversy or at least hear the issues of both sides. Frankly, we see more than two sides.

The incinerator of the Town of Oyster Bay is due to start burning the refuse of the township around December 15. Work on the plant is progressing rapidly these days.

The Hicksville Business Men's association is on record as "100 per cent opposed to the dole committee idea, it was revealed at the luncheon meeting of the club Monday. Incidentally, we like the luncheon meeting idea and often wondered how one could be started.

The B. M. A. is also urging the creation of additional parking facilities near the Long Island railroad freight station. The neighborhood is rapidly becoming an important business section of Hicksville.

Farmingdale Choral Entertains Sunday

The Women's Choral of the Farmingdale Colony club under the direction of Mrs. Elwood A. Curtis presented a special Sunday night service at the Hicksville Methodist Episcopal church Sunday night. The service was open to the general public.

The program was as follows: (a) "The Heavens are Telling," Beethoven; (b) "Dedication," by Franz; by Women's Choral; organ selection by Mrs. Charles Sierich; (c) "O Bread of Life," by Franck; (d) "Ave Maria," by Schubert; by Women's Choral; organ selection by Mrs. Sierich; (e) "The Light of Dawning," Schalkovsky; (f) "A Spirit Flower," by Campbell Lipton; (g) "The Long Day Closes," Sullivan; by Women's Choral.

Field Club Faces Westbury In Return Thanksgiving Tilt

Black-White To Meet Vamps At High School

Bergoldmen Victors
Sunday, 18-12

As a result of Sunday's unfinished game, the Hicksville Field club will meet the Westbury Fire department in a return game Thursday at the Hicksville Field. While not a league contest, the game will definitely settle the north shore championship for although the result will in no way affect Hicksville's standing in the league, it will indicate whether or not the Black and White is the superior eleven.

After Sunday's strenuous tussle with a Hicksville score in the last few seconds of play, breaking a 12-12 tie to give Hicksville an 18-12 win, the Vamps are certain to be all the more determined to defeat the league champions when they come over to the Mid Island field for the Turkeyday battle.

Since Sunday's game was never officially over, Westbury is more or less justified in demanding a return game, although in the short period of time remaining it was practically impossible that the Vamps do anything more than receive a kickoff. When Milleville started to run with the ball, exactly ten seconds of playing time remained in the game. If the extra point had been tried for, the game would have finished at the end of that play, or on the play immediately succeeding.

Bergold's Spirit
In accepting Fitzgerald's challenge for a return game, Bergold exhibited a brand of sportsmanship conspicuous by its absence from semi-pro football ranks. Hicksville has had their present prestige hanging in the balance, although the game can have no effect on the northern division championship which was won by the mid islanders Sunday afternoon when they defeated the Vamps, who were their closest contender. The Sebas were removed from the league race Sunday by Locust Valley who rolled up 19 points to decisively defeat them.

However should the Vamps win on Thursday, Westbury will be able to reclaim themselves as the northern division leader, although Hicksville will bear the official title. The sportsmanship of Hicksville's acceptance of the challenge can easily be seen, although the wisdom of such a move is not so apparent.

Apparently Bergold's confidence in the team is strong enough for him to justify a second meeting between the Field club and the Vamps and such confidence is as a rule seldom misplaced. It is unlikely that the Black and White jerseyed squad will let down Bergold and the Hicksville rooters.

On nothing but a blind hunch, casting aside all earlier season records, we pick Hicksville as the victor, by three touchdowns. Substantiating this claim, is the fact that the Vamps played far above their heads Sunday and there is little likelihood of their repeating such a performance a second time.

Westbury played a terrific game, but they also took a terrific pounding and three days is too short a period of rest before engaging in a second meeting with the same team. Hicksville's reserve strength is certain to play a deciding factor in Thursday's game, even more so than it did on Sunday and a second win for the Field club is likely.

W. J. Ahern Named On Nassau World's Fair Committee

William J. Ahern, Bethpage civic leader, has been named on the Nassau county committee of the World's Fair Committee by the Long Island association. He will serve under Harry L. Hedger, county chairman. There are approximately 25 members on the committee. Henry G. Eisemann is on the committee for Hicksville.

4,500,000 Seals in Mails
Tomorrow

The annual Christmas seal sale sponsored by the Nassau County Tuberculosis and Public Health association, Inc. gets under way, tomorrow with the first batch of 30, 600 letters, each containing an appeal and $1 worth of stamps, in the mails. The campaign will continue right through the Christmas season.

For weeks, now, an augmented staff has been busy in the association's headquarters at 1565 Franklin avenue, Mineola, typing, sealing, addressing and stamping letters and otherwise preparing for this one drive that is the yearly climax to the organization's never-ending round of activities.

For the next five or six weeks they will be busier than ever, harvesting the crop of dollars that is the reward of their labors. Every penny must be zealously guarded and meticulously accounted for, for the returns thus received are the sole support of the association in its work for the coming year.

It may sound like a believe it or not item, but if all of the seals that are now being scattered throughout the length and breadth of the county were assembled on one "flat," they would almost blanket a football field. No less than 4,500,000 seals are being distributed.

118 Freshmen In Honor Group

Freshmen Outnumber Other Units
In Hicksville Honor Society

Members of the freshman class of the Hicksville high school outnumber all other classes in the school in the report on the membership of the highest honor society for the first quarter. The report was made by Miss Mabel R. Farley, principal of the junior-senior high school.

The society, representing students with an average of 85 per cent or over, includes 19 seniors, 20 juniors, 29 sophomores and 118 freshmen.

They are: seniors—Mary Ambrose, Philip Wetterau, Frances Mueller, Victoria Guckenberger, George Hannigan, Daniel Sutter, Lester Iehle, Walter Stillger, James Stolz, Kenneth McNutt, Catherine Loeffler, Morean Lampman, Martin Challen, Norman Stolz, Isobel Simon, Helen McFarland, Elise Palmer.

No Opposition In Department Election Dec. 14

Borley To Succeed
Luhman

Companies Vote

Contest In Co. No. 5
Indicated

No contest of the department offices of the Hicksville fire department were indicated as candidates for key positions in the department were named last night. Harry Borley is unopposed for the office of chief to succeed Henry Luhman.

Other officers to be elected on Thursday, December 14, are Charles Steinhauer, first assistant; Charles Judd, Jr., second assistant; Fred Miller, treasurer; Lawrence Small, financial secretary; Joseph Eisemann, recording secretary.

Contest In No. 5

The only contest in the company elections appears in company No. 5 where two men are nominated for the office of first lieutenant. They are Samuel Weiss and William Stahley. Others named for office in No. 5 for election on Monday, December 7, are George Engel, captain; and Robert Heberer, second lieutenant.

Company No. 1 will elect its staff on Thursday, December 10. George Glecker is named for reelection as captain; Clarence Blyman for first lieutenant and Edward Mack for second lieutenant.

Milford Wagner is named for the office of captain of Company No. 2 which will elect on Tuesday, December 8. Other officers are William Auer, first lieutenant and Stanley Chezlock for second lieutenant.

On Thursday, December 10,

Braun as captain without opposition. His aids will be George Betscha, first lieutenant; and George Hamel, second lieutenant.

Installation of officers of the department and companies will be held jointly at the January meeting of the department when a member of the board of fire commissioners will probably take charge of the installation.

Manetto Court Will Sponsor Card Games

The Manetto court, Order of the Amaranth, will conduct a benefit card party at the Hicksville Masonic Temple, Nicholas street, on Monday afternoon, November 30. Cards start at 2 o'clock.

William Cisler Files Petition

Opposes Frank Chlumsky Dec. 1
For District Treasurer

William Cisler, candidate for the office of treasurer of the Hicksville fire district, announced last night that he filed his petition for a place on the ballot of the district on Wednesday, December 1, has been signed and filed.

Cisler, former department treasurer for three years, is opposing the candidacy of Frank Chlumsky, incumbent, who seeks reelection.

But the seals that are most popular right now are the little stickers distributed by the Nassau County Tuberculosis and Public Health association, pretty little June Darling Johnson of Freeport tells Lieutenant Commander Carl O. Petersen, U. S. N. R., as she sells him the first batch of stamps at the start of the annual sale on tomorrow. Lieutenant Petersen agrees, and he ought to know something about seals, for he was radio man and photographer on both of Admiral Byrd's polar expeditions. Clad in a reindeer skin "Parka," he is seated in the tent that he used at the south pole, while in front may be seen the head of a huge seal that he shot there. Penguins, also from the polar wastes, display the double-barred red cross of the health association. The seal sale campaign, on which the association depends wholly for financial support of its activities, will continue until the new year.

Over 500 Attend Thanksgiving Church Dance

St. Ignatius Benefit
Is Outstanding

More than 500 persons attended the annual Thanksgiving card party and dance for the benefit of the St. Ignatius Roman Catholic church of Hicksville held in the Parochial school hall, Nicholas street. The event, always the largest benefit event held in the village, was under the direction of the United Societies of the parish. Almost 200 prizes were awarded at the event. High scorers in the games were Mrs. William Braun in euchre, Miss Charlotte Mack in pinocle, Mrs. C. W. Carl in bridge and Robert Dwyer in buncio. Fred Suttan of Newbridge road and George Bennichs of 211 West Nicholas street were the winners of special prizes of Thanksgiving baskets. William Reinhardt won a ton of coal.

Joseph Reinhardt was chairman of the committee on arrangements which consisted of representatives of all the societies and organizations of the St. Ignatius parish. The Rev. Father George M. Bittermann, pastor of the parish, was honorary chairman. Other members of the committee included: Miss Louise Wetterau, Lawrence McGunnigle, Jules Purick, James F. Redfern, Mrs. Henry Guckenberger, Mrs. John Gleason, Philip McGunnigle.

Societies represented on the committee preparing the affair included: Holy Name Society, Lawrence Dramatic Society, Joseph Barry Council, Knights of Columbus; Court Queen of Angels, Catholic Daughters; Altar Society, Blessed Virgin Sodality and Troop 91 Boy Scouts.

Funds Needed To Complete Road System

Extend Wantagh Rd.
North In 1937

If funds are made available by the Legislature, the Long Island State Park Commission expects to start construction on the extension of the Northern State Parkway through Westbury and the extension of the Wantagh State Parkway northerly to the Northern State Parkway early in 1937.

The Northern State Parkway will be extended from its present temporary easterly terminus at the Jericho Turnpike easterly through the Village of Westbury to Union avenue at which point the extension of the Wantagh State Parkway will take off and run southerly to connect with the present Wantagh State Parkway at the Southern State Parkway.

The construction plans call for two 24-foot roadways separated by a 9-foot mall. Grade eliminations will be constructed at all of the principal intersections. Preparations of bridge plans are well under way and contracts will be advertised as soon as the necessary appropriations have been made available.

The right-of-way for the entire 9½ miles of parkway has been acquired by Nassau County and dedicated to the State.

The completion of this parkway will provide a direct and through parkway from Manhattan, the Bronx and the World's Fair to Jones Beach State Park and Eastern Long Island.

Special Session Friday At Fire Hall Arranged

Moses Offers Use Of State Park

The Hicksville Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting in the fire house, East Marie street, Hicksville, Friday night will be hosts to civic leaders of Plainview, Hicksville, Farmingdale and Bethpage who will meet on Park Commissioner Moses' offer to locate a national cemetery at Bethpage State Park.

Supervisor Harry Tappen of Oyster Bay will be present at the session and probably carry the decision of the session back to the Board of Supervisors.

Part of Robert Moses' letter to the Board of Supervisors, offering to locate the national cemetery in the state park system, is given on page eight of this issue.

Bethpage Meets First

The Bethpage Improvement committee and business men will meet in the Bethpage fire house early Friday evening and discover the consensus of opinion of its members on the proposition. President A. A. Lang, Sr., is opposed to the idea, while William J. Ahern, Bethpage civic leader, declined to comment on the project until Friday night.

The Hicksville special meeting was called by the chamber, said Dr. Elwood A. Curtis, president, last night, since Hicksville is centrally located.

The villages represented at the meeting Friday night would be affected by the location of the cemetery in this vicinity.

The meeting, starting at 8:30 will be open to the general public.

To Award Radio At Movie House

In cooperation with Sausmer's Hardware store, Hicksville, the Hicksville Playhouse will give away a new style Grunow Teledial Radio free on bank award night, December 2. This is in addition to the regular bank awards. It is the first time an additional prize of this value was ever given away and should prove a big attraction to the theatre-goers.

The radio coupons can be obtained at Sausmer's Hardware store and the theatre.

Playhouse Starts Week With Double Bill For Two Days

Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28, The Playhouse will present two features including Dick Powell and Joan Blondell in "Stage Struck" also Zane Grey's "King of the Royal Mounted." Saturday evening you can play lucky for ten cash prizes.

Sunday to Tuesday Nov. 29 to Dec. 1, "The Great Ziegfeld," the world's greatest show on the screen. It is the same show in its entirety as shown at the Astor Theatre New York for six months at $2.20 and will be shown at this theatre at the regular admission prices. The length of this picture compels the theatre to change the starting schedule as follows: matinee at 2 p. m.; evening at 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. The reason for this is that the picture runs over three hours. The cast includes a hundred stars, including William Powell, Myrna Loy, and a Ziegfeld chorus of 300. The management announces there will be no tickets sold in advance.

Wednesday only, Doris Nolan in "The Man I Married." In conjunction with bank award night this night there will also be awarded a Grunow Teledial Radio.

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE

The Hicksville public schools will close on Wednesday at 3:30, remaining closed Thursday and Friday, and re-opening again on Monday morning, for the Thanksgiving day recess.

Brandied Mince, Pumpkin and Apple Pies

After the Pilgrims first harvest, in 1621, Governor Winthrop, at Plymouth, proclaimed a feast of Thanksgiving—it lasted six days and a day was set apart for observance for the years to come. Roasted turkeys, which dominated their festive board were stuffed with bechnuts.

But today, American housewives stuff their turkeys with bread, the production of which represents the nation's 6th largest industry.

We are mindful of the loyalty of our customers who use our bread daily and we are thankful for the expression of confidence evidenced by their patronage of our products.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Visit To Sanatorium

Bethpage

At the regular meeting of the Archie McCord unit, American Legion Auxiliary of Bethpage, plans were made for the annual Christmas visit to the veterans in Farmingdale Sanatorium.

Mrs. Catherine Mazzaro, president of the unit, asked the ladies to cooperate with her in starting a Blendet club for the benefit of the unit. All money derived from the unit's activities are used for rehabilitation and child welfare.

Mrs. Angeline Ruggiero was appointed chairman of a committee to start a Junior Auxiliary in Bethpage. Daughters and sisters of the Legionnaires, who are under sixteen are eligible to join.

The next meeting of the unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Lauman on December 17.

Each Dollar Invested

According to Frances E. Barbour, secretary of the Nassau County Tuberculosis and Public Health association, reveals how each dollar invested in the Christmas Sales last year was spent. The annual drive of the association to drive out tuberculosis through the sale of the seals opens on Thanksgiving Day and ends on Christmas.

How each dollar invested is spent:
HEALTH EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS—Our health teaching consultants assisted teachers in every district of the county to emphasize health teaching in their academic studies. 31c

CHEST EXAMINATIONS AND X-RAYS—1170 students, teachers and other adults were examined. 16 or approximately 1 in 71 had active disease in the adult or childhood form. 3 were admitted at once to Nassau County Sanatorium. 145 or about 1 in 8 are being carried for further observation and X-rays. 21c

ADULT HEALTH EDUCATION—Talked to groups on tuberculosis prevention, showed health movies, enlarged reference library, published bi-monthly "Ideas," with material for teachers and promoted legislation for health. 14c

SHAKESPEARE SAID:
They are as sick as surfeit with too much as they that starve with nothing.

Addition of color to food serves no useful purpose, has no food value whatever, and merely pleases the eye. If inferiority is thus concealed, such coloring is unlawful under the national food and drugs law.

THOMAS B. RED SAID:
A statesman is a successful politician who is dead.

The world knew nothing of ice-cream until America invented it and promoted its introduction in other countries.

First bi-focal eye-glasses were invented by Benjamin Franklin.

Your eyes are the only ones you will ever have. People living in the world today subject their eyes to greater strain than in any period of the world's history. Medical science compensates to some extent for this by providing us with more knowledge of the eye, more precise instruments and techniques for testing its condition, and greater skill in providing medicament and spectacles for the individual case. It should always be remembered that many eye conditions are due to a generalized disease, and glasses do not always reach the source of the trouble. The eye is the only place in the body where the physician is able actually to look at and see nerve endings and blood vessels, giving him an opportunity in some cases to detect deterioration long before symptoms have appeared.

Moderate priced homes are being built in England on the pyramid idea, each floor having an open balcony.

Homicides and suicides are decreasing with the improvement of economic conditions, but fatal accidents are on the increase.

Each of the billions of red blood-cells in the body contains, besides life-giving oxygen, a charge of electricity. Two scientists of the Biological Laboratory at Cold Springs Harbor, Long Island, have measured this charge. The electricity of the blood-cells of a full-grown man, they found, would light a twenty-five watt bulb for five minutes.

Why do children boast? In many instances, doubtless, because unstable conditions at home instill in them a feeling of inferiority to other children, which can be compensated for by boasting.

The word "cure" comes from the Latin "cura." Originally, the cure of the patient meant the care of the patient, and, incidentally, it still does.

This is the fifth in a series of articles written by Frank Marrs, local merchant, who wrote this in 1888. The tense has not been altered.

capacities. He was a Justice of the Peace for eleven years, Commissioner of Highways for two terms, Assessor and Excise commissioner and was postmaster of Jericho under Jackson's administration. He is also a member of the firm of Davis and Kleonne, auctioneers.

The firm of Stolz & Braun has been in the butcher business for years and its trade has continually increased, showing that the people are satisfied with the treatment they receive at its hands. They commenced in a little shop at the residence of Mr. Stolz and they now have one of the neatest shops on Long Island.

Jacob Mann, Jr., has been in business only a short time but has become very popular with the people. In 1889 he purchased the contents and good-will of the Hahn Hotel, which is one of the nicest situated hotels in the village. From the start he has been successful. A large addition had to be built, so as to give him more accommodations. He now has room for 15 guests. He furnishes guides and dogs for gunners, and in the fall and winter his place is crowded.

George J. Flad has been in the village only a short time, but has successfully proved to the people that he is an expert at his business, that of a watchmaker and jeweler. He recently leased the store adjoining Rohrbach's store. Theodore Eickenhorst is the gentlemanly manager of Charles Gottert's tonorial parlor. Mr. Gottert recently had built a handsome little shop on Mary street and fitted it up in first-class style. Mr. Eickenhorst has made many friends in his short sojourn in Hicksville.

Samuel G. Hirst is the genial landlord of the Jericho Hotel, one of the nicest hotels at which to spend a quiet and pleasant vacation that can be found anywhere. There are accommodations for guests—thirty can be easily cared for. There is a large ballroom on the second story, where pleasant evenings are spent during the winter. Mr. Hirst is an ex-policeman, and for 22 years was on the Brooklyn police force, being retired in 1888. He is a member of the Exempt Firemen's association of Brooklyn, Mansfield post, No. 35, G. A. R. and various other societies. He is a popular landlord and is doing well.

Joseph Steiart, Jr., has mastered the carriage painting trade thoroughly and has all the work he can do. He was formerly in the newspaper business and reported for several New York papers, but likes his trade better.

Charles Paul, manufacturer of fine cigars, located in Hicksville in 1876, and for the past 14 years has been very successful in business, having built up a large trade throughout the island. In the front of his factory he has a neat little retail tobacco and cigar store, where a good cigar can always be had.

Dr. E. G. Rave came to the United States in 1866 and at once engaged with a Grand street, New York, druggist as clerk, where he remained for three years. He then accepted the position of superintendent of the Union Drug company of 49th street and Sixth avenue, New York. In 1886 he went to Guttenberg, N. J., to live and in 1871 graduated from the University College, City of New York. He practiced medicine in Guttenberg until 1876, when he located in Hicksville, where he has a very large and successful practice.

Samuel S. Stewart is an old Brooklynite and has lived in Hicksville for a number of years, carrying on successfully the painting and paper hanging business.

B. N. Freedman is a newcomer in the village, having moved from Locust Valley. He erected a handsome two-story store on Jericho avenue and stocked with a full line of dry goods, boots and shoes and furnishing goods. He has done a very good business so far and expressed himself as pleased with the people of Hicksville.

Our Toll Fight

Hurley Prepared to Argue Case

This is the second article of the case to be presented in the Court of Appeals by Eugene R. Hurley on behalf of the Town of Oyster Bay in its action to restrain the collection of tolls on the Wantagh causeway to Jones Beach.

The law authorizing the collection of the toll (Chapter 70, Laws of 1933) is a part of the complaint (fol. 42). It is printed in full (page 51 et seq.) and it provides that the tolls are to be pledged to repay the borrowed sum with interest (fol. 174) and upon such repayment the tolls are to cease. Whether or not the Wantagh causeway is repaired or maintained, the tolls are to be collected. No matter what repair is necessary the tolls are to be devoted to retiring the loan. And irrespective of the state of repair they are to cease when the bonds are paid.

The law also provides that the State is not to be liable on the bonds (fol. 187-8). Since the state is liable for the maintenance of the Wantagh causeway, both as a matter of contract, and as a matter of common law, this provision of the law would seem to preclude the possibility of the project having been expended on the Wantagh sides this, the only debt incurred here is the one for building the Meadowbrook causeway.

The plain facts of the case make it clear that the tolls on the Wantagh causeway are levied simply for income or revenue. The traveler has no benefit he did not have before. The Appellate Division and respondents are therefore compelled to justify tolls simply for revenue, unconnected with the improvement of traffic in the road itself. Confronted by an unbroken series of decisions all holding such a toll void and unlawful, the Appellate Division refers to the decisions as "English" and "ancient." They are not so ancient. The Brecon Markets Co. case was in 1872 and Attorney-General vs. Simpson in 1901. Nor were they English solely. The dates of the New York cases are among others: Cummings case, 166 N. Y. in 1901; Walker v. Caywood, 31 N. Y. in 1865; Ireland v. Oswego, 13 N. Y. in 1852; Fishkill Plank Rd. Co., 22 Barb in 1856. Toll cases naturally tend to occur when there are tolls. There have been none in previously existing highways for a long time now, and consequently there are few recent cases.

The defendants in making this motion have admitted the allegations of the complaint. In their answer they also specifically state in Paragraph 30 thereof (fol. 235) that the loan was applied for in order to construct causeways, additional to the existing Wantagh causeway, and that it was to be repaid out of tolls levied on the Wantagh causeway as well as tolls levied on the proposed new causeways.

That is not merely an inadvertent admission by the plaintiffs. It is the literal truth. Every one knows that there would be no tolls on the Wantagh causeway today had the Meadowbrook causeway not been built. The money was borrowed solely on its account, and without it nothing would have been borrowed.

Even the Appellate Division concedes that the purpose of the tolls is foreign to the Wantagh causeway. It says "the tolls are . . . solely for maintaining the park and parkways and for paying the debt incurred in their development." A park purpose is not a highway purpose and a highway cannot be used to support a park. But be it said, the State holds its highways in trust for highway purposes. Tolls levied for purposes unconnected with benefit to public travel on the road in which they are collected are not levied for a highway purpose, but unreasonably interfere with its use, and violate the trust.

The respondents, claiming that they do not understand the point the plaintiff makes here, take several different positions in respect to it. First, they say that the plaintiff fails to understand the difference between a free highway and a public highway. Next, they pretend that the plaintiff's position is that every single dollar of toll collected must be expended on the highway where the toll is levied. They claim, that in some guise or other, the tolls collected on the Wantagh causeway are really used for the construction and maintenance of that causeway. Finally, they insist that, even if not one cent is expended there, the legislature has power to levy tolls in a highway entirely divorced from benefit to public travel thereon.

It is the last contention at which the argument under this point is directed. For it is quite evident that the others are mere straw men. The plaintiff is quite aware that a lawful toll road is a public nuisance. Neither has the plaintiff ever taken the position that every dollar of the toll must be spent on the highway where it is collected. Its contention has simply been that some consideration of benefit to the public traveling in that highway must be given by the collector of the toll in exchange for the money demanded from that same traveling public.

Swivel Chair Observations

By FRED J. NOETH

WHAT WE ARE about to comment on is strictly uncertain. It is merely something that has been talked about in these little moments of conversation when real worthwhile things are brought out and filed for future consideration.

The matter we have in mind, is the World War Memorial stone at the Hicksville railroad station. In not such a very long time, the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a project to have the stone removed from the railroad property to the Hicksville high school grounds on Jerusalem avenue.

The idea has several good points. For instance, at the present time the stone is located on private property—the property of the Long Island railroad. At the high school grounds, the stone, set up for the enlightenment of future generations, will be on property owned by the people.

Another reason why it will some day be essential that it be moved. From time to time there has been discussion concerning the type of grade crossing elimination to be carried out in Hicksville. The Chamber is on record in opposition to the elevated type of elimination in which the tracks would be raised above the surface of the ground to clear the crossings at principally New bridge road, Broadway, Marie street and perhaps Woodbury road.

The Chamber favors the depression of the tracks below the earth's surface, permitting an open air subway type of elimination.

However, in view of the decision of the Public Service Commission in Flood Park where the depressed track idea was urged and even demanded, it seems likely that the Railroad will be permitted to indulge in the less expensive type of grade crossing elimination—over head structures.

Conceding the overhead structure, naturally the memorial stone, buried under a heap of stone and dirt since it is located so close to the tracks. Of course it would not actually be buried, the stone

How Is Business?

Dept. of Commerce, Washington

RETAIL TRADE, stimulated by holiday buying, moved briskly ahead of last year's volume with most sections preparing for the heaviest business since 1929, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from the principal cities of the country. While activity on the West Coast has not been seriously affected by the strike situation, grave apprehension was felt in the event of a continuation of the disturbed condition.

Freer distributions of additional money in form of salary and wage increases and continued flow of extra dividends, together with buoyancy of security and commodity markets gave substantial stimulus to trade, according to the New York report which said department store sales were 17 per cent greater than last year. The tendency was to better quality of merchandise, while business was good from basement departments to higher prices apparel. A 20 per cent increase in toy purchases was estimated with shortages of certain items preventing heavier gains. Business activity in Philadelphia was much stronger with department store sales 5 per cent higher than the previous week and 18 per cent over last year. Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Louisville, Memphis and Omaha.

The outstanding factor in business at this time is the prospect of one of the greatest holiday seasons in recent years. The Department of Commerce recently estimated that sales made during the holiday buying season of November and December would be within 10 per cent of the 1929 total. Estimates of department store turnover show that holiday sales in these establishments amounted to more than $800,000,000 in 1935. This compares with a Christmas volume of more than $1,000,000,000 in 1929. With a conservative estimate of an approximate 15% increase in Christmas purchasing through department stores this year as compared with 1935, the holiday sales volume of these stores alone should exceed $9,200,000,000 in 1936.

Common Sense

There Is No Substitute For Brains

By EDWIN W. FOSTER

IF THERE WAS ever a time when men were befuddled, buried under a wilderness of words, slogans, and phrases designed to prevent human beings from having clean cut, straight forward thoughts it is Now. If there was ever a time when common sense and clear, honest thinking was needed that time is Now. What is common sense?

The best definition is the one word "brains." Let us illustrate by taking the record of a man. The name of the man is Confucius. One third of the human race love and cherish his memory, and repeat his words as sacred. And yet Confucius lived and died without knowing that he had founded a cult or a religion. He was as only a child, whose father died when he was three years old. He was brought up by his mother, who must have been a woman of remarkable human insight. She deliberately chose a life of poverty and honest toil for herself and child. The boy was brought up in a village, and was not allowed to think himself any better than the other village children, save as he proved himself so. He worked in the garden, tended the cattle and goats, brought wood and water, and waited on his elders. Every evening his mother would tell him of the feats of strength of his father, of his deeds of valor, of his heroic qualities in friendship, of his fidelity to trusts, of his absolute friendliness. His coarsely plaited, the daily walks in the fields, the climbing of trees, the daily bath in the brook, all combined to develop the boy's body. He went to bed at sundown, rose at the first flush of dawn to see the sunrise. There were devotional rites performed by mother and son morning and evening. At fifteen Confucius was regarded as a remarkable misanthrope. He was larger, stronger and more skilled than any youth of the vicinity and could shoot an arrow farther and throw a spear more accurately than any man he ever met.

When attacked by robbers, he engaged them in conversation, and seated on the grass, convinced them that they were in a bad business. His success in keeping down strife among the herders and making peace among his people by appealing to their intelligence gave him a fame beyond the borders of his own province. At twenty-seven, his ability to settle quarrels gave him the standing of a judge and he no longer went abroad to hold court, but sent for the disputants. In a week, and he gave them talks on ethics. In a year, and he gave them a lesson of an hour's length they were usually convinced that to quarrel is not only foolish, but disturbs the bodily secretions, reduces vig-

State Approval Of Subdivision Required

Prepared for the News by Wayne D. Heydesker, Director of State Planning.

It was discovered at a recent conference of local planning officials at Syracuse that comparatively few of the officials present were aware of the fact that the approval of the State Commissioner of Health is now required by law before land platted for subdivisions may be put upon the market.

The law under which this power was conferred upon the State Commissioner of Health is Chapter 403 of the Laws of 1933. It will be found in Section 89 of Chapter 45 of the Consolidated Laws. Before land platted for subdivisions is put upon the market and before any permanent building is erected thereon, there must be filed with the State Commissioner of Health, a plat of such subdivision together with a statement of the methods proposed for supplying the subdivision with water and sewerage service, and such other information as may be required by the Commissioner. The Commissioner is given power to order the preparation and submission of such plans and specifications within a specified time and he may at any time order the subdivision within a specified period of such facilities in whole or in part in accordance with the plans presented.

There is a provision in the Act which states specifically that the power thus granted to the Commissioner of Health shall not in any way interfere with the general power of the Water Power and Control Commission, nor shall the Commissioner have the jurisdiction over any subdivisions upon which dwellings for less than ten families may be constructed, nor in any city, nor in any county which maintains a county department of health that has already adopted regulations for the control of such development.

Planning Boards in areas outside of cities where county health departments have not already made provisions for adequate supervision of such matters, are therefore in a position to require any developer who comes to them with a plat designed to house more than ten families, to produce a certificate showing the approval of the State Health Department with respect to these vitally necessary facilities. The approval of the State Commissioner of Health does not exempt the local planning boards from exercising their own independent judgment with respect to all other details of the plats submitted to them, namely, whether or not they fit well into the general pattern of the street system, whether sufficient area has been reserved for playgrounds and other public open space, whether the streets are adequately designed to furnish access of fire fighting equipment and all the other provisions over which local planning boards have jurisdiction. In one area in the State at least, a working arrangement has been developed between the local planning authorities and the State Department of Health with respect to all subdivision plats and it would seem appropriate that other planning boards similarly situated should likewise contact the State Health Department and insist upon the developer's securing the approval of that Department before giving their final approval to any plat capable of housing ten families.

or, scatters the mind and accomplishes nothing.

One of his sayings runs—"To fight deeds who is the stronger and more skillful in arms, but does not decide who is right. That is to be settled by the 'Heaven in your heart'." And again—"You should not do to others that which you would not have others do to you." Does this have a familiar sound? It was promulgated by Confucius centuries before Christ, because Confucius lived in the time of Ezekiel, Daniel and Zachariah. Confucius had a single word which expressed the Golden Rule in a poetic way difficult to translate into English. We write it "Shu" and it means "I wish to do to you even as I would be done by." This Chinese symbol Confucius used to carve in the bark of trees, and had this symbol of love and friendship painted on a board and stuck into the ground in front of the tent where he lived.

Later some of his friends worked it into a flag and presented it to him and it became his flag of peace and goodwill. For twenty centuries Confucius has been revered simply as a man, not as a God or savior. He offered no reward of Heaven and did not claim any influence with the unseen. In all his teachings he was singularly open, frank and free from all mystery or concealment. He had many enemies, because he denounced hypocrisy, selfishness, vanity and pretense. Yet history shows very few instances of a man who has been loved so well and so long and who still holds that place in the hearts of men. And after all it was simply that he taught common sense in the affairs of every day life by appealing to the "Heaven in the hearts of men."

Is it any wonder that he is still revered by one third of the human race?

Horton Reports on Standings

Parmenter Reds Win All Firsts In First Month

Harry A. Schnell Is Second

Rhode Island Reds entered by E. B. Parmenter of Franklin Mass., won all first places for October, the first month for the fifteenth annual New York State Egg Laying contest being conducted at the State Institute of Applied Agriculture at Farmingdale. The announcement was made by D. H. Horton, head of the department of Poultry Husbandry.

In pen production, Parmenter's Rhode Island Reds scored 254 points and 253 eggs and were seven points ahead of the second highest pen, a Leghorn entry owned by Harry A. Schnell of Franklin Square.

A Parmenter Red, No. 91-8, made the best individual score for the month with a total of 31 points and 29 eggs. Second highest individual with 29 points and 27 eggs was also a Parmenter Red.

In the high pens in average weight of egg class, Parmenter's Reds won first with an average of 24.10 ounces for all eggs laid to date.

Leghorn Entry Second

Schnell's Leghorn entry was the second highest pen in the contest at the end of the first month with 247 points and 267 eggs. Third highest pen was a Red entry. It is owned by Moss Farm of Attleboro, Mass. These birds scored 244 points and 247 eggs. One egg ahead of Moss Farm, but one point behind them came Lamar W. Sexton's New Hampshire. Sexton's entry is from White House Station, N. J. Fifth place went to Reds from Douglass Manor Farm of Pulaski, N. Y., with 236 points and 259 eggs, followed by a fraction of a point by Cross-Bred pullets from Hass Brothers Hatchery, Inc., of Wallingford, Conn.

Third place in the pullet class went to number 81-B, a Cross-Bred entered by Hall Brothers Hatchery; this bird scored 28 points on the same number of eggs.

Fourth pullet was a New Hampshire, number 83-B, owned by Lamar W. Sexton. Just a fraction of a point behind came another Parmenter bird, number 91-1.

In the weight of egg classes, Henry Ahl's Leghorns were second with 24 ounces per dozen, while Moss Farm's Reds came in third with 23.76 ounces as the average of all eggs laid since the contest began on October 1. Theodore R. Apgar's Leghorns ranked fourth with 23.09. Apgar's entry comes from Lebanon, N. J. Sexton's New Hampshire were fifth with 23.62 ounces.

First place in average egg production for the breed went to the New Hampshire with an average of 17.94 eggs per pullet or at the rate of 57.89 per cent, according to the department head.

COLLECTING SEEDS

The soil conservation service says a good stand of timber on steeply sloping land is one of the best protections against needless soil losses.

Trees grow from seedlings, and to have seedlings, seeds are needed. Under the direction of foresters, young men of CCC camps have collected in the fall a quarter of a million pounds in the states of West Virginia, Maryland, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Receive Payments In Farm Program

Nearly 3,000 New York farmers who are taking part in the agricultural conservation program have already received payments, according to C. G. Bradt, state administrator, at Ithaca. Payments have been distributed to virtually every county in the state, the average being about $80. Additional checks are going to other farmers as soon as claims are audited in Washington.

At present, says Mr. Bradt, 10,000 applications from New York state have been mailed to Washington for payment, and additional applications are being mailed from the state office at the rate of 500 a day. By December 15, about 35,000 farmers are expected to have completed their soil-building practices and to have filed applications for payment.

Mr. Bradt points out that all applications sent to Washington before December 1 will receive early attention and checks will be mailed promptly. After December 1, they will clear more slowly because of the large number of applications expected from other parts of the country.

TAKE CARE OF FUR PELTS
"Take good care of the pelts you get" is the tip to trappers by Dr. W. J. Hamilton Jr. of the department of zoology at Cornell University.

The trapper should know the proper way to handle a pelt to receive the best price. Remove bloodstains, dirt, mud, burrs, and foreign matter, he says. Skin the animal with a knife dull enough to prevent cutting the hide. Scrape excess fat from the pelt, and do not stretch the skin unduly.

If a skin is stretched too tightly, it may tear when being removed from the stretcher. Stretchers may be made from shingles or heavy galvanized wire. Wire stretchers are better, as they allow for a better circulation of air, according to Dr. Hamilton.

Exhibit Of Living American Art Opens At Nassau College

Nassau - Hofstra College will bring to its campus in Hempstead an exhibition of paintings by living American artists which is currently showing in more than 250 points throughout the United States, it was announced today by Dean Arthur D. Whitman.

The exhibit, said to be the most ambitious venture ever undertaken for widespread distribution of works of fine art, opened Friday and will be open to the public for two weeks.

Dodsworth Tops Thanksgiving Bill at the Rivoli

Jane Withers Other Feature

Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton head the cast of Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," which comes to the Rivoli Theatre, Hempstead, for 7 days starting Thanksgiving Day.

Huston again plays the title role of Sam Dodsworth, the easy-going American husband, in which he scored on the stage for more than two years, and Miss Chatterton has the role of Fran, the pretty, frivolous, selfish wife whom he adores.

Sidney Howard, who wrote the stage adaptation is again author of the screen-play, which is enacted by a great supporting cast including Paul Lukas, Mary Astor, David Niven and many others.

The story opens when hard-working, successful Sam Dodsworth retires to travel and enjoy his first taste of leisure, but to his wife, Fran, Europe means one thing at romance before settling down to middle-age.

Seeking Last Romance
The couple sail on the Queen Mary. Fran has her first flirtation aboard ship. Arrived in Paris she becomes involved with a dubious smart set and leaves Dodsworth to amuse himself as she dances in all the gayest restaurants with the worldly Arnold Iselin and the handsome Kurt Von Obersdorf, an impoverished young Austrian aristocrat.

When she becomes romantically involved with Iselin, Dodsworth forgives her. But when Kurt asks her to marry him, she ruthlessly divorces Dodsworth.

Dodsworth, however, meets the charming Mrs. Cortright, a sympathetic woman. But in the midst of his new found happiness, Fran's marriage plans fall through and she frantically sends for him. He leaves his happiness to return to her, but he sees her at last for the selfish, empty creature she really is and goes back to the woman he loves.

Also on the same program we find Jane Withers in a new comedy, "Can This Be Dixie," with Slim Summerville. It is a musical extravaganza that will delight the young and old alike.

Pork should always be thoroughly cooked and never served rare.

Lamb Chops Elvea Fine Recipe for Two

It is difficult for the small family of two to prepare many choice dishes due to the fact that recipes are usually for four or more and it is quite a bit more difficult to decrease the proportions of a recipe than to increase them. Here is a very fine recipe printed for two but which can easily be increased for as many as desired.

LAMB CHOPS ELVEA

2 kidney lamb chops
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup chopped canned mushrooms
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1/2 tablespoon flour
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 tablespoon minced green pepper
Salt, pepper and paprika

Melt the butter in a small skillet. Add onions, mushrooms, green peppers and chili sauce. Simmer five minutes and then blend in flour. Stir well—add the lemon juice and simmer two minutes longer. Cut a pocket in each chop and place in one of the dressing. Lay remaining dressing over top of chops. Arrange in a shallow pan and bake in an oven of 400 F. for about 30 to 50 minutes depending on how rare the chops are desired.

A Dish for the Week

Cream vegetable soups are particularly appetizing and nourishing for fall and winter luncheons or dinners, and for this season the golden color and flavor of carrot soup fits well even with the Thanksgiving dinner, says the New York State College of Home Economics.

CREAM OF CARROT SOUP

2 cups of hot rice or mashed carrots
1 quart of milk
2 slices of onion
3 tablespoons of butter
2 tablespoons of flour
1 1/2 teaspoons of salt
Celery salt
Pepper
Cayenne
1 teaspoon of chopped parsley
Scald the milk with the onion; remove the onion; add the milk slowly to the carrots. Melt the butter and add it to the dry ingredients, stirring the mixture until it is well blended.

Add this mixture to the liquid mixture, stir it constantly, and boil the soup for several minutes. Strain it if necessary, add the parsley and serve hot. Water saved from cooking celery or carrots is a good addition to the soup for flavor and food value.

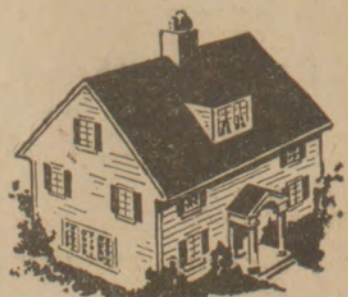

The following luncheon menu is suggested by the college: Cream of carrot soup, brown bread sandwiches with cheese filling, tomato aspic salad, baked apple, milk for the children, tea for grown-ups.

FOR GOOD LOOKS

Margot Grahame, blonde RKO Radio player, does a little advance figuring as to under what sort of light she will be during the evening, before putting on her make-up, realizing that a slightly bluish-red lipstick and rouge are more flattering under indirect lighting, while a slightly orange-red color is better for very bright artificial light.

ONE POLL COMES THROUGH
New York City—Out of the welter of straw votes and destruction of political prophets, one nation-wide poll came out victorious. Two weeks before election Dr.

George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion announced that President Roosevelt would carry 40 states with 477 electoral votes. It also pointed out "if the trend continued, the President might carry every state but Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, with a total electoral vote of 519." The Institute's 35 statisticians and big corps of clerks are said to be geared to measure any question of national importance in ten days.

Uncle Ab says that people who think money can do everything are likely to do anything for money.

Tasty Vegetable Salad Made of Diced Beets and Celery Root

A very interesting salad is made by combining equal amounts of diced, boiled beets, and diced, boiled celery roots.

Celery roots take quite a while to cook. Boil them in salted water and when tender, allow to cool; then peel and place in the refrigerator to chill before using. The beets are boiled in the usual way and combined with the celery root just before serving. Mix with as much mayonnaise as desired and serve on a crisp lettuce leaf. If desired, pickled beets may be used with great success.

The bulk of the winter ration for the beef herd may consist of common farm roughages, such as cereal straws, stalk fields, corn stover or corn fodder, corn silage, and the common hays produced on the farm.

SEVEN

FROM the Sidelines

By JOE HEIM

WE DISLIKE aibis ourselves and believe that Lawrence thoroughly outplayed the local boys Friday night, but at the same time we can't help wondering if there mightn't have been a different result had the game been played in daylight. . . . It was a tough break for our side to be toppled over in the last game of the season with the county championship staring them in the face. . . . However, one point in Hicksville's favor. Not a single soul went around moaning about being robbed. . . . Everybody, coaches and squad, took the licking on the chin and didn't let out a peep.

And now that scholastic football is over we can turn and POINT WITH PRIDE, as Councilman Brandt would say, to the Field Club who have done it. . . . and how. . . .

As a rule we dislike yellers and such at the games although nothing can be done about them. . . . but Sunday at Westbury, in spite of having a seat on the Westbury players' bench we couldn't restrain a few war whoops when (1) Millevolte went 57 yards for a score. . . . (2) Millevolte went 60 yards for a score. . . . (3) Johnny Coll leaped up, bounced the ball around, and finally held it long enough to cross the goal line. . . . we didn't give Camel a cheer because we were expecting that one. . . . In our humble opinion, the game was the greatest and grandest football spectacle we have ever witnessed, bar none, but it seems unfortunate that some of our worthier fans persist in allowing themselves to be carried away by the excitement of the occasion and throwing their weight around. . . . From our seat on the Westbury side the fans looked like an invading army when they swooped down on the field.

Incidentally, several Westbury fans implied that they didn't quite approve of Hicksville players or fans alike, in fact anything emanating from Hicksville was taboo in the neighboring town. . . . or maybe some of you gathered the fact yourselves. . . .

Incidentally, that Hicksville-Westbury rivalry is beginning to take on major proportions. . . . Let'er rip. . . . Long may she wave for another season. . . .

Did you know that the Glen Cove Sebas' upset defeat Sunday was in accordance with traditional rules governing the annual matter between them and Locust Valley. . . . The game dates back eleven years when the two eleven met for the first time, and each year the favorite always gets beat. . . . Records bear me out on this for last year the Sebas were the underdogs and a 70 yard runback for a punt for a touchdown enabled them to win 7-6 in the final minutes of the game. . . . Each eleven has won five games, one ending in a 7-7 tie.

ROOTERS CELEBRATE
Locust Valley rooters staged a monster demonstration Sunday night in Glen Cove, celebrating their win over the strong Sebas outfit in the afternoon. A band led a torchlight procession through the streets of the city as the rooters, carrying signs, cheered and sang the praises of their eleven.

JEWISH CENTRE ENTERTAINS
The Women's committee of the Merrick Jewish centre entertained 20 tables of players at the first dessert-bridge held in the new building, Fox boulevard. Mrs. Arthur F. Kurzman, Mrs. Murray Boklan, Mrs. Adolph Klein, Mrs. Fred Markowitz, Mrs. Fred Ansel and Mrs. William H. Levy were hostesses. Prizes for each foursome were donated by Mrs. Rose M. Scott.

Field Club Again Champs As Millevolte Stars

Hicksville Eleven Scores Win Over Westbury F. D. as Last Minute Touchdown Breaks Tie

Thrill Crammed Final Period Sees Vamps Stage Late Rally

A touchdown in the final ten seconds of play enabled the Hicksville Field club to break a 12-12 tie that threatened their record, defeating a game Westbury fire department eleven Sunday at the Westbury Field, 18-12.

Orist Millevolte, Hicksville's favorite son, sprang into the spotlight by two dashes over half the length of the field, both resulting in scores. The brilliant little back, singlehandedly defeated the Westbury team when he raced 60 yards through the entire Westbury eleven to cross the goal line standing up with the final touchdown breaking the tie.

Westbury gamely fought off Hicksville threats throughout the game, coming from behind twice in the final period to tie the score, but Millevolte's final run, ending the game prevented a further comeback on the part of the Westbury team who took their defeat like sportsmen, although as much cannot be said of many of the 5,500 fans who crowded the Westbury high school field to capacity.

Fans Run on Field
Overflowing onto the field, time after time they forced officials to halt the play while the gridiron was cleared. After Millevolte's last run, the entire Hicksville section of the bleachers swept onto the field to enfold both elevens. When the field was finally cleared once more and order restored, the officials had left.

Emil Piscatelli culminated a Hicksville touchdown drive in the third period for the first score of the afternoon, driving two yards off tackle across the line. Westbury protested the touchdown, but the officials ruled in favor of Hicksville.

Angered by the score, which the blue clad warriors thought impossible, the Vamps came back with an attack that carried them to the Hicksville 15, where Gorman dropped back and passed to Pasquarrelli who stepped over the goal with the tying touchdown, immediately after the opening of the fourth period.

The Black and White bid for victory was not so easily overcome however, for the mid islander marched with machine-like precision down to the Westbury 30 where the Vamps line braced and held the driving Hicksville backs for downs. Westbury, held in turn, sent Bould back to punt on the fourth down. Punting to Millevolte, on the Hicksville 43, the Westbury eleven was caught flat-footed when he scampered his way 57 yards through their ranks for a touchdown to again put Hicksville in the lead.

The Hicksville kickoff, with only about five minutes of play remaining, was taken by Westbury deep in their own territory. Unleashing a passing attack which had the Black and White rocking back on its heels, the Vamps proceeded to march down the field. Gorman passed to Galvin for a first down in Hicksville territory with another pass advancing the ball to the Hicksville 35 where the Hicksville forwards braced and threw Bould for a 15 yard pass as he attempted once more to pass.

However on the next play, Galvin dropped back and unleashed a long 40 yard forward to Johnny Coll who juggled the ball for a moment on the ten and then tucked it under his arms and raced across the Hicksville goal amid the deafening cheers of the Westbury fans, once more tying the score.

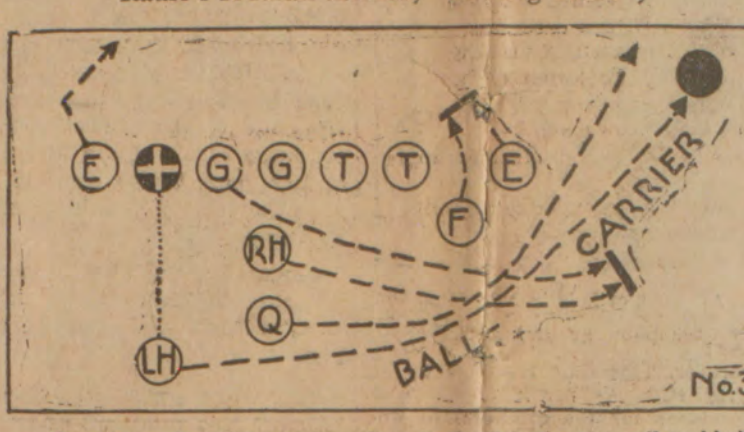

With only about a minute remaining of play, after the attempt at the extra point had failed, Westbury again kicked off to Hicksville with Ben Wright taking the ball up as far as the Hicksville 40 before he was smothered under an avalanche of Westbury players.

Then in the last ten seconds of play, Millevolte once more covered himself with glory, by cutting through tackle, dashing along the right sideline and cutting back behind perfect interference to cross the Westbury goal line for the second time in the afternoon on the play that ended the game.

Westbury put up a game fight throughout the contest, playing far above their heads. Outrushed 10 first downs to 6, they struck through the air, coming through in the pinches to make the contest the most thrilling football game staged along the north shore

My Favorite Play

By Jay Berwanger
(Famous University of Chicago halfback, now in RKO Radio's football thriller, "The Big Game")

One of my favorite running plays is the "single wing off tackle," which proved a fine ground-gainer for our Chicago teams. As the diagram shows, it starts from a trick line formation with the power concentrated to the right. When the ball is snapped back to the halfback, the left end checks the opposing right end and runs up as a possible pass-receiver, making it necessary for one defensive back to cover him. The right guard and right halfback run the defensive left end out of the play, with the right end and fullback taking out the opposing left tackle. The quarter runs to the right and ahead as a screen for the halfback through the hole already opened up between the opponents' end and tackle.

Yutzler Slates Initial Drill

Hicksville Hoopsters Prepare For Court Season

With only two regulars from last year's squad reporting back this year, basketball prospects for the Hicksville high school five are not particularly bright this year. Captain "Birdy" Borduk and Pete Damorhay are the only two veterans remaining from last year's team.

However, among the newcomers who turned out Monday afternoon, Yutzler has found several who show promise of developing until they will be able to fill in the vacancies created by graduation last June. George Carnes, Jim La Flare, Merrill Yatsky, Harry Schluter, Sam Engelbrecht, Chet Marinkowski and Ray Coogan all showed signs of latent ability that may be developed as the season progresses.

Building the nucleus of his second team around the newcomers to the squad, Yutzler plans to use last year's second string players to complete his varsity team this season. Jablonsky and Mayer, two seniors, will probably find themselves berthed on the first five with Pignataro, Fluckiger, Kishanuk, Leonard, McInnis, Stillinger, Naso, Reimels and Lindeman, all veterans of last year's seconds, providing plenty of reserve material for the Orange and Black jerseyed varsity if they are not used again on the second team.

LISTS SCHEDULE
The basketball season officially started at Hicksville Tuesday, when Yutzler called the first regular practice session of the season for the squad. Over fifty candidates, responded to his call for volunteers last week.

The schedule, December 12, Port Washington, away; December 15, Mineola, away; December 18, Glen Cove, home; January 8, Oyster Bay, home; January 9, Lawrence, away; January 15, Roslyn, home; January 22, Farmingdale, away; January 29, Westbury, home; February 2, Mineola, home; February 5, Sea Cliff, away; February 11, Roslyn, away; February 16, Farmingdale, home; February 19, Westbury, away; February 23, Great Neck, home; February 26, Sea Cliff, home; March 5, Oyster Bay, away.

IRON MEN ROLL UP 32 Points to Win
By NICK STAMOS
Rolling up 32 points, the Hicksville Ironmen scored five touchdowns to decisively defeat the hard fighting Tigers at the Hicksville high school field last week. A pass, Sitnick to Pastro, accounted for the first Tiger score with Art Ulmer passing to Joe Smith for the first Ironmen score.

Deadlocked at 6-6 at the half, the two elevens went into the third quarter evenly matched. A short end run brought the Tigers into the lead 12-6. However, entering the final period, the Ironmen staged a late rally with speedy Ray Ongania, end for the victors, taking three successive passes from Art Ulmer for three touchdowns with Ulmer accounting for another on a short flat pass from Joe Smith.

Extra points were converted by Ongania and Ulmer.

Hicksville Win Predicted Over Glen Cove Sebas

Field Club Slated As Victors

Hicksville will meet the Glen Cove Sebas in a post season return game, Sunday, in their final frolic before meeting the Monitors for the championship of the county on December 5 in the Freepoint stadium.

In an early season game, the Field club barely managed to eke out a close 12-6 win over the strong north shore team, when Tom Morselli recovered a Hicksville kickoff in the end zone for the winning touchdown. Although the Sebas lost to Locust Valley Sunday, they are slated to give the Field club one of their major tests and are strong enough to make the Bergoldmen extend themselves in order to win.

May Let Down A Bit
After last Sunday's game with Westbury, Hicksville will probably find itself forced to let down a bit, and the Sebas are certain to take full advantage of this fact to make things as warm as possible for the northern division champions.

Hicksville, while weak in no department, has not as strong a passing defense as it might have, and the Sebas' powerful aerial attack may prove dangerous.

The strength of their aerials is indicated by their 25-20 over Westbury a few weeks ago. In succeeding to roll up four touchdowns against the Vamps, they proved themselves the possessors of a more powerful aerial attack than Hicksville, who were able to score only three times against the powerful Vamp eleven.

However, Hicksville's extensive array of reserves as well as their superior weight, coupled with the strength of their running attack, which has been improved by the addition of a series of deceptive plays since the last meeting between the two teams gives Hicksville an advantage which will probably turn the tide in their favor for in spite of the strong record of the Sebas, their defeat at the hands of the Yellow Jackets Sunday, would cause a victory over Hicksville to be labelled as an upset.

Orange And Black Lose To Lawrence

14-0 In Final Game

Winning Streak Shattered Under Lights at Branch

Lawrence Completely Dominates Play

A strong Lawrence eleven turned in a 14-0 victory Friday night to decisively defeat the Orange and Black combination, destroying their championship aspirations, as well as smashing to smithereens Hicksville's unbeaten record.

In their final game of the season, E. Parker Yutzler's squad, a heavy favorite to top the strong Branch outfit, were outtrushed, outtackled and thoroughly outplayed during the entire game with the possible exception of the first quarter when Hicksville showing its best form, drove as far as the Lawrence 10 where a fumble destroyed the touchdown hopes of the mid islanders.

Then Lawrence went to work with a determination that was equalled only by its playing ability. Staging a big rally, the home team pushed across a touchdown in the second period and another in the third to clinch their victory. The record of the game gives Lawrence complete mastery of the situation, rolling up 16 first downs to three for Hicksville.

Air Attack Hopeless
The attempts of the Orange and Black to score through the air were batted down time after time by the Lawrence secondary in the late stages of the game, when Hicksville desperately strove to pull out in front by any means in their power.

Damorhay and Mayer stood out for Hicksville, carrying the ball for Hicksville's early period march, with the punting and passing of Rennie in the later stages of the game being the lone ray of sunshine in Hicksville's cloudy horizon. Rennie, time after time, angled the oval down the field neatly, propelling it out deep into the Buff and Blue's territory.

Politano, Feeney and McDonnell were outstanding for the victors in the backfield while Vinny Tavalaro, Drahos and Jerry Cohn stood steadfast against the onslaughts of the Hicksville forwards along the Lawrence line.

Culminating an 82 yard march featured by Politano's 26 yard dash around left end, was the Lawrence touchdown which came early in the second period with Politano hitting left tackle for 5 yards for the score and Frank Mott dashing around left end on a fake placement for the point after touchdown.

A Hicksville fumble on the 22 yard line of the Orange and Black led to Lawrence's second score, the Buff and Blue marching to the eight yard line for a first down, from where Ed McDonnell streaked through right tackle without a hand being laid upon him for the

Moses Indicates State Park Commission May Sponsor National Cemetery

Inform Board Of Willingness To Co-operate Would Be Located At Bethpage

The Long Island state park commission is willing to sponsor the establishment of a national veteran's cemetery in Nassau county within simple limitations, Robert Moses, president of the commission informed the Nassau board of supervisors this week.

The Moses offer, in the form of a letter to J. Russel Sprague, chairman of the county board, was considered at a special meeting.

In his typical style, Mr. Moses declared that the park commission will interest itself in the cemetery proposal providing the federal authorities are not going to be arbitrary and that local officials are not going to be stubborn and unco-operative.

The principal objection of the county board to the proposal of Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring for establishment of the cemetery in Nassau has been the removal of a large tract of land from the assessment rolls and the halting of home development in an area which lends itself to such developments.

250 Acres Required
Approximately 250 acres of land is required for the cemetery area. It was indicated at a cost in the "plains" section of the town of Hempstead of between $1,000 and $2,000 an acre. Mr. Moses suggested that it be created in conjunction with the state park system in the vicinity of Bethpage state park. It was indicated that land costs in this area are from $300 to $500 an acre and that less threat is made against home sites.

Supervisors indicated that the suggestion deserves careful consideration, without committing themselves either for or against the proposition. They have been unyielding against the previously recommended sites and have been supported by large numbers of taxpayers and realty owners.

Mr. Moses's communication to the board follows:

"Since the first statements appeared in the local press about the proposed national cemetery in Nassau county, I have been thinking about this problem and I want to pass on my conclusions to you for what they are worth.

"Apparently the general tendency on the part of public officials and civic organizations has been to oppose the national cemetery as an undesirable development because it lifts valuable property in a suburban county out of assessed valuation and because it will exercise a depressing effect on the normal growth of the community. Back of all this feeling, there is also a long and bad history of racketeering in connection with special legislation establishing cemeteries and followed by all sorts of fixing and skyrocketing of prices.

Disagrees With Conclusions
"With all due respect to some of the local sentiment so far expressed, I disagree with these conclusions and I believe that with a reasonable amount of intelligence and co-operation, something can be agreed on with the federal authorities which will be satisfactory to all parties and entirely in the

IN THE FEMININE WORLD

In Grey Felt

All sorts of fads in hats come and go but the classic felt, worn here by Gertrude Michael, seemingly goes on forever. This time it's done up in grey stick felt. It is an ideal headgear for the conservative woman who wants to look smart, and an excellent accessory for the new fall sports clothes. Miss Michael is currently playing opposite Anne Shirley's co-star, Herbert Marshall, in "Make Way for a Lady."

Style Notes

CREPE STREET FROCK

Slightly reminiscent of childhood's dainty pinafores is the yoke of Italian cut work edged in a ruffle of finely shirred organdie, which tops Ann Shirley's crepe street frock, and makes it distinctly new and refreshing. The dress is made of a soft shade of grey, very effective with the ingenue's Titian hair and flawless skin. The only note of color on the dress is a cluster of artificial fruit which fastens the pointed collar. A belt of the grey crepe fastens in front under a casual flat bow.

Anne is co-starred with Herbert Marshall in "Make Way for a Lady."

For Good Looks

"Homely or plain girls employ more voice expression in what is perhaps an unconscious effort to counterbalance their lack of physical beauty," declares Herman Pan, RKO Radio dance director. "Beautiful girls, on the other hand, are more apt to speak in matter of fact tones, having come to rely upon their eye appeal for creating an impression."

Ginger Rogers, who is soon to solo star in "Mother Carey's Chickens," wholeheartedly agrees with Pan.

"It's very true," says Ginger. "Almost nine times out of ten the very pretty girls are very careless about their speech. Little does she realize that all the 'eye appeal' she may have doesn't count for much if 'ear appeal' is lacking. This is especially true when romance is concerned. I believe that most men would rather have a plain girl with a lovely voice than a beauty with slovenly vocal tones."

Ginger herself is one example of a beautiful girl with a lovely voice. Often a film actress may have a beautiful voice on the sound track and then slip into bad voice habits in her off-screen life. Not so with Ginger. Whenever the bright-haired dancing star speaks the listener is attracted at once to her well-modulated tones, and her excellent diction.

"Even if you have a naturally pleasing voice," says the dancing star, "don't think you're immune from voice defects. When you least suspect it, and perhaps in the heat of an interesting conversation, your ordinarily charming voice may lose its appeal. A girl should work on her voice as much as she works on her face. Don't acquire sloppy diction habits and keep your tones pitched low."

New Adaptation

Inspired by the styles of fifty years ago which are worn in "A Woman Rebels," the Katharine Hepburn-Herbert Marshall romantic drama, modern adaptations of feminine wear are currently featured in popular priced models. All the adaptations are by Walter Plunkett, RKO Radio stylist. The above sketch shows an ensemble in wool with embroidered jacket.

Barbara Stanwyck, star of "The Plough and the Stars," for RKO Radio, has purchased an enormous pear-shaped handbag to add to her personal wardrobe. The bag is made of black suede.

Tiny white field daisies hand-embroidered, trim one of the dainty period costumes, the early seventies, designed for Katharine Hepburn to wear in her new starring picture, "A Woman Rebels." The effect is so attractive it seems sure to start a new vogue.

Film Beauty Reveals Secrets

Heralded as among the foremost of the nation's photographic subjects, and voted the most popular model by New York artists, writers and photographers, Anita Colby, young RKO Radio actress, still realizes that even a beauty must do a little something to maintain that loveliness.

One of her main beauty precepts is diet, for she firmly maintains that all the elaborate and expensive facial care in the world can't be expected to do much if one does not possess glowing health.

Anita practically lives on milk, fruits, vegetables and salads combined with a very moderate portion of lean meat and potatoes. She counsels every beauty-seeker never to over-eat, but rather to leave the table feeling either a little hungry or just satisfied. She guarantees that the practice will bring dividends of more pep, better skin and a better figure.

Her methods of skin cleansing are simple. At night she removes her make-up with cleansing cream and then washes her face with a mild soap and warm water, using a complexion brush at least three times a week to promote excellent circulation. She follows this with a light application of nourishing cream. In the morning she creams her face lightly, removes the cream thoroughly and finishes with either skin tonic or very cold water.

Fried Mashed!

Take it from Gloria Stuart, the problem of what to do with cold mashed potatoes is solved. The star, who teamed with Lee Tracy in "WANTED: Jane Turner," makes balls of the mashed potatoes, flattens them, and browns them on both sides in a frying pan. This makes practically a new and appetizing side dish for the next meal.
